Adams, Diane Apostolos-Cappadona, 2001-04-05 Dance as religious studies reveals resources for the art of liturgical dance in terms of both performance and scholarly interpretation This collection of methodological essays has been arranged to suggest the wide spectrum and the underlying unity of these diverse and varied approaches to understanding dance as religious studies Part I concentrates on the relationship between liturgical dance and the scriptural traditions of Judaism and Christianity Part II indicates the feminist possibilities for liturgical and modern dance Part III presents a spectrum of the contemporary theory and practice of liturgical dance The book concludes with a bibliographic survey of sources and resources available to both liturgical dancers and students of dance as religious studies Marion Winnifred Eaton, 2012 Mysteries of identity and the trials of working girls from the first published Asian North American novelist Martha Graham Alice Helpen, 2013-10-28 Although much has been written about the dancer and prolific choreographer Martha Graham no publication has specifically examined her radical period the body of innovative work from the 1930s and 40s which culminated in the full length Clytemnestra of 1958 This publication focuses on this highly creative time in of Graham s life providing further insight into her extraordinary career and her many contributions to the field of modern dance Scholars for years to come will find helpful and fascinating snippets from Graham s life within these pages Modern Bodies Julia L. LaMothe, 2018-10-22 The relationship between religion and dance is as old as humankind Contemporary methods for studying this relationship date back a century The difference between these two time frames is significant scholars are still developing theories and methods capable of illuminating this vast history that take account of their limited place within it A History of Theory and Method in the Study of Religion and Dance takes on a primary challenge of doing so overcoming a conceptual dichotomy between religion and dance forged in the colonial era that justified western Christian hostility towards dance traditions across six continents over six centuries Beginning with its enlightenment roots LaMothe narrates a selective history of this dichotomy revealing its ongoing work in separating dance studies from religious studies Turning to the Bushmen of the African Kalahari LaMothe introduces an eckinetic approach that provides scholars with conceptual resources for mapping the generative interdependence of phenomena that appear as dance and or religion

Moving Performances Jeanne Scheper, 2016-12-13 Fabulous yet fierce imperious yet impetuous boss yet bitchy divas are figures of paradox Their place in culture is equally contradictory as they are simultaneously venerated and marginalized hailed as timeless but then frequently forgotten or exhumed as cult icons by future generations Focusing on four early twentieth century divas Aida Overton Walker Loie Fuller Libby Holman and Josephine Baker who were icons in their own time Moving Performances considers what their past and current reception reveals about changing ideas of race and gender Jeanne Scheper examines how iconicity can actually work to the diva's detriment reducing her to a fetish object a grotesque or a figure of nostalgia Yet she also locates more productive modes of reception that reach to revive the diva's moving performances imbuing her with an affective afterlife As it offers innovative theorizations of performance reception and affect Moving Performances also introduces readers to four remarkable women who worked as both cultural producers and critics deftly subverting the tropes of exoticism orientalism and primitivism commonly used to dismiss women of color Rejecting iconic depictions of these divas as frozen in a past moment Scheper vividly demonstrates how their performances continue to inspire ongoing movements
