Mr Smyllie Sir:

Mr Smyllie, Sir Tony Gray, 1991 W M Bertie Smyllie was editor of The Irish Times from 1934 until his death in 1954 and remains one of the legendary figures in Irish journalism Short sighted massively overweight given to wearing a poncho and sombrero and cycling to work with his typewriter slung over the bars of his bike and a half bottle of Scotch sticking out of his pocket here was one of the sights of Dublin He was also an editor of genius Smyllie's Ireland Caleb Wood

Richardson, 2019-04-24 A thoughtful superbly researched and elegantly written study of one the most important pioneering Irish newspaper editors of the past 150 years Journal of British Studies As Irish republicans sought to rid the country of British rule and influence in the early twentieth century a clear delineation was made between what was authentically Irish and what was considered to be English influence As a member of the Anglo Irish elite who inhabited a precarious identity somewhere in between Irish Times editor R M Smyllie found himself having to navigate the painful experience of being made to feel an outsider in his own homeland In this engaging consideration of a bombastic outspoken and conflicted man Caleb Wood Richardson offers a way of seeing Smyllie as representative of the larger Anglo Irish experience Richardson explores Smyllie's experience in a German internment camp in World War I his foreign correspondence work for the Irish Times at the Paris Peace Conference and his guiding hand as an advocate for culture and intellectualism Smyllie had a direct influence on the careers of writers such as Patrick Kavanagh and Louis MacNeice and his surprising decision to include an Irish language column in the paper had an enormous impact on the career of novelist Flann O'Brien Smyllie like many of his class felt a strong political connection to England at the same time as he had enduring cultural dedications to Ireland How Smyllie and his generation navigated the collision of identities and allegiances helped to define what Ireland is today Describes the rich history of Irish Protestants who found themselves aliens in their own land Communication Booknotes Quarterly The Minority Voice Robert Tobin, 2012-01-05 The first full length study of essayist and controversialist Hubert Butler offers a comprehensive account of a literary and social figure whose importance in twentieth century Irish culture is increasingly recognised Conor Donald H. Akenson, 1994 Conor Cruise O'Brien is recognized internationally for having lived a series of controversial public lives scapegoated UN representative during the Belgian Congo crisis champion of academic freedom at the University of Ghana courageously independent political activist gadfly among the New York intelligentsia of the 1960s leading Irish nonfiction writer of the twentieth century This sampler brings together for the first time classic pieces originally published on both sides of the Atlantic The essays and two early poems included here address topics from the challenges of African politics to Yeats's relationship with fascism to fashionable varieties of Americocentrism John A. Costello The Reluctant Taoiseach David McCullagh, 2010-10-08 John A Costello remains the most elusive of our former Taoisigh despite his enormous contribution to Irish history He declared the Republic led the country's first ever coalition government and faced the Mother and Child Crisis A surprise choice who battled against taking the job Costello was the Reluctant Taoiseach

Historian and political correspondent David McCullagh charts the life of this fascinating man using his personal archive of papers as well as interviews with former colleagues family and friends McCullagh offers new insights into a political career which stretched from Independence to the end of the 1960s including the Commonwealth Conferences of the 1920s to the new Constitution of 1937 and Governments in the 1940s and 1950s Politician barrister Attorney General politician family man The Reluctant Taoiseach takes a fresh and revealing look at the life of a man at the centre of politics and law during one of the most turbulent periods in Irish history

Have Ye No Homes To Go To? Kevin Martin,2016-05-01 The pub has been at the centre of Irish life for centuries It has played many roles funeral home restaurant grocery shop music venue job centre and meeting place for everyone from poets to revolutionaries Often plain and unpretentious it is a neutral ground a leveller a home away from home From the feasts of high kings through the heady gang ruled pubs of nineteenth century New York right up to the gay bars and superpubs of today this is an entertaining journey through the evolution of the Irish pub Our locals have become a global phenomenon the export of the Irish pub its significance to emigrants and its portrayal in cinema television and literature are engagingly explored The story of the Irish pub is the story of Ireland itself Fascinating endlessly surprising Irish Independent Full of brilliant anecdotes packed with legal literary religious and historical bits and pieces that will keep you talking in the pub all night Neil Delamere Today FM An enjoyable romp through the ephemera and facts surrounding that most Irish of institutions Irish Examiner Fascinating a great gift Mark Cagney TV3

Irish Media John Horgan,2012-11-12 Irish Media A Critical History maps the landscape of media in Ireland from the foundation of the modern state in 1922 to the present Covering all principal media forms print and electronic in the Republic and in Northern Ireland John Horgan shows how Irish history and politics have shaped the media of Ireland and in turn have been shaped by them Beginning in a country ravaged by civil war it traces the complexities of wartime censorship and details the history of media technology from the development of radio to the inauguration of television in the 1950s and 1960s It covers the birth development and sometimes the death of major Irish media during this period examining the reasons for failure and success and government attempts to regulate and respond to change Finally it addresses questions of media globalisation ownership and control and looks at issues of key significance for the future Horgan demonstrates why in a country whose political divisions and economic development have given it a place on the world stage out of all proportion to its size the media have been and remain key players in Irish history

The Irish Times Terence Brown,2015-03-12 A fascinating new history of the Irish Times The Irish Times is a pillar of Irish society Founded in 1859 as the paper of the Irish Protestant Middle Class it now has a position in Irish political social and cultural life which is incomparable In fact this history of the Irish Times is also a history of the Irish people Always independent in ownership and political view and never entwined in any way with the Roman Catholic Church it has become the weather vane the barometer of Irish life and society followed by people of all religious and political persuasions and none The paper is politically liberal and progressive as well as being centre right on economic issues This history is peopled by all the great figures of Irish history Daniel O Connell W B Yeats Garret FitzGerald Conor Cruise O'Brien and the paper has numbered among its internationally renowned columnists Mary Holland Fintan O Toole Nuala O Faolain John Waters and Kevin Myers Its influence on Irish Society is beyond question In his book Terence Brown tells the story of the paper with narrative skill wit and perception Analysis of the stance of the Times during events ranging from The Easter Rising The Civil War the Troubles and the recent economic recession make the book essential reading for students of Irish history be they the general reader the academic or amateur historian The book will be seen as crucial to our understanding of Irish history in the past century and a half De Valera: Rule David McCullagh, 2018-10-26

In this the concluding volume of David McCullagh's monumental new life of the revolutionary and statesman we join De Valera in 1932 as he takes the reins of power in the first Fianna Fáil government and follow him as he confronts one challenge after another the Economic War the drafting of Bunreacht na hÍreann the Emergency the North the declaration of the Republic economic stagnation in the 1950s and sets about gradually remaking a sovereign Ireland in his own image Beautifully written and deeply researched McCullagh's De Valera is a provocative and nuanced portrait of Ireland's most enigmatic leader as well as a balanced assessment of his role in shaping our national self image British Children's

Fiction in the Second World War Owen Dudley Edwards, 2007-08-01 What children read in the Second World War had an immense effect on how they came of age as they faced the new world This time was unique for British children parental controls were often relaxed if not absent and the radio and reading assumed greater significance for most children than they had in the more structured past or were to do in the more crowded future Owen Dudley Edwards discusses reading children's radio comics films and book related play activity in relation to value systems the child's perspective versus the adult's perspective the development of sophistication retention and loss of pre war attitudes and their post war fate British literature is placed in a wider context through a consideration of what British writing reached the USA and vice versa and also through an exploration of wartime Europe as it was shown to British children Questions of leadership authority individualism community conformity urban rural division ageism class race and gender awareness are explored In this incredibly broad ranging book covering over 100 writers Owen Dudley Edwards looks at the literary inheritance when the war broke out and asks whether children's literary diet was altered in the war temporarily or permanently Concerned with the effects of the war as a whole on what children could read during the war and what they made of it he reveals the implications of this for the world they would come to inhabit Southern Irish Loyalty, 1912-1949 Brian Hughes, Conor Morrissey, 2020 This book brings together new research on loyalty in the 26 counties that would become the Irish Free State It covers a range of topics and experiences including the Third Home Rule crisis in 1912 the revolutionary period partition independence and Irish participation in the British armed and colonial service up to the declaration of the Republic in 1949 The essays gathered here examine who southern Irish loyalists were what loyalty meant to them how they expressed their loyalty their responses to Irish independence and their experiences afterwards The collection offers fresh insights and new perspectives on the Irish Revolution and the early years of southern independence based on original archival research It addresses issues of particular historiographical and political interest during the ongoing Decade of Centenaries including revolutionary violence sectarianism political allegiance and identity and the Irish border but rather than ceasing its coverage in 1922 or 1923 this book like the lives with which it is concerned continues into the first decades of southern Irish independence List of contributors Frank Barry Elaine Callinan Jonathan Cherry Seamus Cullen Ian d Alton Sean Gannon Katherine Magee Alan McCarthy Pat McCarthy Daniel Purcell Joseph Quinn Brian M Walker Fionnuala Walsh Donald Wood Exciting News! Brendan Dooley, Alexander Samuel Wilkinson, 2024-03-11 International tragedies national disgraces and local dangers reporting can magnify trauma But how can we gain a deeper analytical understanding of episodes seemingly too immediate for detached observation by our sources or even perhaps by ourselves This volume brings together a broad range of current research in Europe and abroad regarding an issue of crucial importance for understanding past cultures and our own Papers discuss the ramifications of media induced anxiety and anxiety induced mediality engaging the humanities including history film studies literature folklore creative writing and adjacent fields intersected by sociology politology psychology anthropology News media here include all means of mass communication impinging on daily experience from books to music from the social web to films on multiple platforms and in multiple languages across municipal state and regional boundaries
