Politics. Jurisprudence. Social Science Howard Jason Rogers, 1906 Meaningful Economics Bart J. Wilson, 2024 Economics has a problem the discipline cannot distinguish the causes of human action from the consequences of human action Economists deal with matters of fact not with feelings and morals They model representations of optimal agents not flesh and blood human beings in ordinary life By assuming that incentives and self interest are sufficient to explain economic activity economic science proceeds as if the human mind does not matter But the origins of our actions ideas do indeed matter They make us human In Meaningful Economics Bart I Wilson challenges economics to directly engage human beings as we really are not as economists ideally assume Wilson argues that economic science is as much about purposes and human values as it is about incentives Moreover he shows how the outcomes of our decisions costs and benefits and the origins of our decisions motives and goals can be understood in an integrated way Over the course of the book Wilson develops a framework that connects the origins of human action to the outcomes of human action explaining human conduct with causes and effects He then shows how three basic principles of economics trade specialization and property require meaning values and purpose With a fresh perspective and a novel theoretical framework that bridges economics and ethics Meaningful Economics explains the roots of human conduct and its economic effects by grounding a science of economics in the moral sentiments that prompt human beings to act Multiple Choice Questions for Economics with Answers Alan Glanville, Jacob Glanville, 2013-06-01 Multiple Choice Questions for Economics is based upon the syllabus requirements of the International Baccalaureate Diploma for economics for first examinations in May 2013 at both Standard and Higher Level is structured in the study order of our textbook Economics from a global perspective third edition which exactly follows the current IB Diploma syllabus is sequenced by section chapter and topic as in our textbook has Higher Level only questions clearly marked has over 450 questions with many new questions covering the mathematical content of the current syllabus has
