Proceedings of the International Conference on Religious Architecture (ICRA 2024) Sutrisno Murtiyoso, Alvin Hadiwono, Titin Fatimah, Nafiah Solikhah, Samsu Hendra Siwi, 2025-06-26 This is an open access book Religion produced noteworthy architectures from the beginning of humanity Religion gives meaning and direction to human life and in the process unites and empowers human beings to direct their aspirations and resources to build spectacular works of houses of worship and gathering Religious architecture fills a significant part of history of architecture Since ages for the religions of mankind human beings have evolved a plethora of forms in simple stone buildings to the ones in sophisticated modern materials and technologies From an architectural point of view every building built for religion is sacred meaning it is dedicated to the powers beyond However the manifestations are so much varied as they depend on the regulations sanctioned by different religious teachings combined with the society's culture and tradition and the builder's intentions and aspirations Added to that are the local environmental factors the availability of building materials existing building technology and the time span of its development From what we know today the oldest religious architecture could be found in Gobekli Tepe built around 10 000 years ago when humanity still lived as hunter gatherers Architecture developed further into megalithic period became increasingly monumental in the medieval age with colossal royal worship complexes Up to modern times we keep on building religious architectures with increasing elaboration The International Conference on Religious Architecture is organized with a hope to broaden our understanding and perspective in this often neglected field The study in religious architecture is more acutely felt in the regions outside of Europe and America while the demand is clearly pressing today The Conference should serve as a forum for scholars in the field hopefully being the first one in a series Sacred Power, Sacred Space Jeanne Halgren Kilde, 2008-07-21 Jeanne Halgren Kilde's survey of church architecture is unlike any other. Her main concern is not the buildings themselves but rather the dynamic character of Christianity and how church buildings shape and influence the religion. Kilde argues that a primary function of church buildings is to represent and reify three different types of power: divine power or ideas about God, personal empowerment as manifested in the individual's perceived relationship to the divine, and social power meaning the relationships between groups such as clergy and laity. Each type intersects with notions of Christian creed, cult, and code and is represented spatially and materially in church buildings. Kilde explores these categories chronologically from the early church to the twentieth century. She considers the form, organization, and use of worship rooms, the location of churches, and the interaction between churches and the wider culture. Church buildings have been integral to Christianity, and Kilde's important study sheds new light on the way they impact all aspects of the religion. Neither mere witnesses to transformations of religious thought or nor simple backgrounds for religious practice, church buildings are in Kilde's view dynamic participants in religious change and goldmines of information on Christianity itself. Gilded Shrines Orin Brightfield, AI, 2025-02-26 Gilded Shrines explores the captivating world of sacred spaces, examining temples, shrines, and other religious structures across diverse cultures and historical periods. It delves into how civilizations have consistently dedicated significant resources to constructing these sites, revealing their architectural magnificence and profound cultural, social, and spiritual importance. The book highlights that these spaces are not merely buildings but potent symbols reflecting a civilization's worldview and values. For example, the book analyzes how sacred architecture embodies complex theological ideas and societal hierarchies. The book progresses through core concepts related to sacred architecture, then explores case studies from ancient Egypt to pre-Columbian America, detailing the architectural design, decorative elements, and ritual activities associated with the sites. It further considers modern implications for contemporary design, cultural preservation, and interfaith dialogue. By integrating architectural analysis with cultural and historical contexts, Gilded Shrines provides a deeper understanding of diverse religious traditions and their lasting impact on human civilization. Images of the Immortal Paul R. Katz, 2000-01-01 The Palace of Eternal Joy Yongle gong is a mammoth cult site dedicated to one of late imperial China's most popular deities Lu Dongbin. In one of the first book-length studies of a Chinese sacred site, Paul Katz focuses on the Palace's role in the development of Lu's legend. This highly innovative approach takes into account the various histories of the Palace presented in different texts and surpasses previous scholarship by stressing the ways in which the site both reflected and produced cultural diversity. Katz breaks new ground by analyzing the texts in terms of the textuality, the processes by which they were produced, transmitted, and understood. The study begins with a detailed description of the Palace of Eternal Joy and a brief account of its history. The reader is then introduced to the cult of Lu Dongbin. Special consideration is given to various hagiographical traditions, particularly those that influenced the growth of his cult at Yongle. Throughout late imperial China, a growing number of worshipers, among them scholar-officials, Taoist priests, artisans, and dramatists, created an ever-burgeoning variety of images of Lu, ranging from a patron god of ink makers and prostitutes to a member of that powerful yet rambunctious group of spirits known as the Eight Immortals. In this context, the author explores the Perfect Realization Taoist movement's adoption of Lu's cult during the Jin and Yuan dynasties and highlights the social and religious factors that led to Lu's immense popularity in north China during the late imperial era. Katz next looks at the four types of inscriptions found at the Palace: commemorative, official, hagiographical, and poetic, and identifies the Palace patrons who worshiped there and contributed to its growth. In the description and analysis of the Palace murals that follow, he divides these works into two types: those painted to provide a setting for, and even an object of, Taoist rituals performed at the Palace; and those used to instruct Perfect Realization Taoists and perhaps pilgrims. The final section traces the reception of the Palace texts among the people of Yongle and its environs. Here, Katz examines the ways in which patrons tried to impose their representations of the Palace's history and the cult of Lu Dongbin on other members of the community and assesses the extent to which these efforts succeeded. Images of the Immortal is richly informed by a wide reading in social, cultural, and literary theory, as well as a thorough awareness of previous work in comparative and Chinese religion. Scholars of Taoism, Chinese popular religion, and art history will find it especially rewarding for its thought-provoking reinterpretation of an important religious figure and his cult.

Exploring Religion in Ancient Egypt Stephen Quirke, 2014-12-03 Exploring Religion in Ancient Egypt offers a stimulating overview of the study of ancient Egyptian religion by examining research drawn from beyond the customary boundaries of Egyptology and shedding new light on entrenched assumptions. Discusses the evolution of religion in ancient Egypt, a belief system that endured for 3,000 years. Dispels several modern preconceptions about ancient Egyptian religious practices. Reveals how people in ancient Egypt struggled to secure well-being in the present life and the afterlife. That All May Be One Kevin Mannara, 2015 Kevin Mannara examines the relationship between the church building and the parish community, offering practical advice for a collaborative approach. Teaching for a Multifaith World Eleazar S. Fernandez, 2017-05-05 When religious diversity is our reality, radical hospitality to people of other faiths is not a luxury but a necessity More than necessary for our survival radical hospitality to religious diversity is necessary if we are to thrive as a global society By no means does the practice of hospitality in a multifaith world require that we be oblivious of our differences On the contrary it demands a respectful embrace of our differences because that s who we are Neither does radical hospitality require that we water down our commitment because faithfulness and openness are not contradictory We must be able to say with burning passion that we are open to the claims of other faiths because we are faithful to our religious heritage The essays in this book do not offer simply theological exhortations they offer specific ways of how we can become religiously competent citizens in a multifaith world Let s take the bold steps of radical openness with this book on our side
