No Pardons to Ask, Nor Apologies to Make William Henry King, 2006 William Henry King began war service in 1862 in Louisiana and ended it in 1865 in Camden Arkansas During this period he chronicled action in the Trans Mississippi theater producing a diary that yields one of the most important accounts from a Confederate enlisted man No Pardons to Ask Nor Apologies to Make is a gritty look into the life of a soldier with no romantic gloss While most journals record the mundane day to day routine King's consistently detailed entries notable for their literary style King's venomous wit and his colorful descriptions cover a wide array of matters pertaining to the Confederate experience in the West King's observations about his superiors the Confederacy contraband and the underreported Trans Mississippi campaign are especially striking Though his long service demonstrates a certain loyalty to the Confederate cause he writes sharp criticisms of his superiors of military discipline and of contemporaneous social and class conditions His discontent is rooted within a fiery sense of independence that conflicts with centralized authority whether it takes the form of military government or class control Few published diaries capture the tension and turmoil that existed in the Southern ranks or the class resentment that festered in some quarters of the Confederacy No Pardons to Ask Nor Apologies to Make makes an important contribution to understanding how class functioned in the Confederate command and also provides a much needed account of action in the Trans Mississippi theater where the primary sources are extremely slim
