Making Health Teams Work:

Making Health Teams Work, 1974 The purpose of this book is to help institutions in the health care field organize and accept the values implicit in health team operations and to assist them in coping with the problems that they will face in the creation of tomorrow's health service The team is an indispensable way of delivering modern health services The training of the team is an indispensable way of assuring that that kind of service works Making Health Teams Work Irwin Rubin, 2016-10-20 Making Health Teams Work: And Educational Program Irwin M. Rubin, Ronald E. Fry, Mark S. Plovnick, 2018-02-07 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible Therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work As a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant Making Health Care Whole Christina Puchalski, Betty Ferrell, 2011-06-01 In the last fifteen years the field of palliative care has experienced a surge in interest in spirituality as an important aspect of caring for seriously ill and dying patients While spirituality has been generally recognized as an essential dimension of palliative care uniformity of spiritual care practice has been lacking across health care settings due to factors like varying understandings and definitions of spirituality lack of resources and practical tools and limited professional education and training in spiritual care In order to address these shortcomings more than forty spiritual and palliative care experts gathered for a national conference to discuss guidelines for incorporating spirituality into palliative care Their consensus findings form the basis of Making Health Care Whole This important new resource provides much needed definitions and charts a common language for addressing spiritual care across the disciplines of medicine nursing social work chaplaincy psychology and other groups It presents models of spiritual care that are broad and inclusive and provides tools for screening assessment care planning and interventions This book also advocates a team approach to spiritual care and specifies the roles of each professional on the team Serving as both a scholarly review of the field as well as a practical resource with specific recommendations to improve spiritual care in clinical practice Making Health Care Whole will benefit hospices and palliative care programs in hospitals home care services and long term care services It will also be a valuable addition to the curriculum at seminaries schools of theology and medical and nursing schools Primary Health Care in the Making U. Laaser, R. Senault, H. Viefhues, 2012-12-06 Since the historical conference held in Alma Ata in 1978 it has been possible to observe a reorientation of the medical profession More and more issues of health enter the stage and curative medicine is not just losing ground but some interest How effective is health education and Whose task is primary prevention are questions which stimulate great concern and public debate It seems also to be the first time since the last decades of the 19th century that the social dimension of health receives adequate consideration Thus the recent publication of the so called Black Report on Inequalities in Health Penguin 1982 led to a heated discussion in Great Britain certainly of relevance to many other countries The 6 years since 1978 are much too short a time to proceed far towards Health for All as the slogan of the World Health Organization puts it but the concepts are spelled out vaguely but convincing to many of us It is the right time to discuss first experiences and to move from philosophy to empirical work This work as it relates to the process evolving since Alma Ata is characterized by participation cooperation and prevention Participation because disease concerns only the individual patient his or her family and immediate social environment while health concerns everyone and should involve everyone It is a task of the whole of society rather than the domain of a single profession or party
