

MEASUREMENT EQUIVALENCE

- First measurement equivalence was assessed for each scale via Multi-Group CFA in Mplus v 7.2.
- Analysis supported metric equivalence – sufficient condition for cross-cultural comparisons of the relationships between variables.
- Reliabilities for all scales were good (Cronbach's alphas $> .70$).

Measurement Equivalence:

Equivalence in Measurement Chester A. Schriesheim, Linda L. Neider, 2001-10-01 This volume highlights research and conceptual insights into one of the most basic and yet perplexing research issues in management handling and assessing the comparability of our measurement devices across groups and measures One of the most consistently difficult concerns in management research over the past three decades has been trying to reconcile measurement equivalence issues utilizing diverse samples Given the emphasis on diversity in the human resources area and the internationalization of business and management measurement equivalence is more of a general concern now than ever before If we are not able to successfully address concerns about measurement equivalence research examining differences between groups could be highly misleading and or erroneous Consequently we hope that the thoughtful contributions of the scholars in this volume will help future scholars to better address measurement equivalence concerns Handbook of Cross-cultural Psychology: Theory and method John W. Berry, Ype H. Poortinga, Janak Pandey, 1997 Part of a set containing the contributions of authors from a variety of nations cultures traditions and perspectives this volume offers an up to date assessment of theoretical developments and methodological issues in the rapidly evolving area of cross cultural psychology Handbook of Industrial, Work & Organizational Psychology Neil Anderson, 2001-12-20 This volume mainly focuses on theories techniques and methods used by industrial and work psychologists Internationally renowned authors summarize advances in core topics

Measurement Invariance Rens Van De Schoot, Peter Schmidt, Alain De Beuckelaer, 2015-10-05 Multi item surveys are frequently used to study scores on latent factors like human values attitudes and behavior Such studies often include a comparison between specific groups of individuals either at one or multiple points in time If such latent factor means are to be meaningfully compared the measurement structures including the latent factor and their survey items should be stable across groups and or over time that is invariant Recent developments in statistics have provided new analytical tools for assessing measurement invariance MI The aim of this special issue is to provide a forum for a discussion of MI covering some crucial themes 1 ways to assess and deal with measurement non invariance 2 Bayesian and IRT methods employing the concept of approximate measurement invariance and 3 new or adjusted approaches for testing MI to fit increasingly complex statistical models and specific characteristics of survey data The special issue started with a kick off meeting where all potential contributors shared ideas on potential papers This expert workshop was organized at Utrecht University in The Netherlands and was funded by the Netherlands Organization for Scientific Research NWO VENI 451 11 008 After the kick off meeting the authors submitted their papers all of which were reviewed by experts in the field The papers in the eBook are listed in alphabetical order but in the editorial the papers are introduced thematically Although it is impossible to cover all areas of relevant research in the field of MI papers in this eBook provide insight on important aspects of measurement invariance We hope that the discussions included in this special issue will stimulate further research on MI and facilitate further discussions to support the understanding of the role of MI in multi item surveys The SAGE Handbook of Measurement Geoffrey Walford, Eric Tucker, Madhu Viswanathan, 2010-04-14 The Sage Handbook of Measurement is a unique methodological resource in which Walford Viswanathan and Tucker draw together contributions from leading scholars in the social sciences each of whom has played an important role in advancing the study of measurement over the past 25 years Each of the contributors offers insights into particular measurement related challenges they have confronted and how they have addressed these Each chapter focuses on a different aspect of measurement so that the handbook as a whole covers the full spectrum of core issues related to design method and analysis within measurement studies The book emphasises issues such as indicator generation and modification the nature and conceptual meaning of measurement error and the day to day processes involved in developing and using measures The Handbook covers the full range of disciplines where measurement studies are common policy studies education studies health studies and business studies Developing Cross-cultural Measurement in Social Work Research and Evaluation Thanh V.
