The Intergovernmental Conference on Political Union Finn Laursen, Sophie Vanhoonacker, 2023-12-11 The radical changes taking place in the international scene during the late 1980s have presented the European Communities with important new challenges The twelve Member States agreed that the only way to respond effectively to this new situation was to speed up the European integration process and in December 1990 two Intergovernmental Conferences were inaugurated focusing respectively on the development of an Economic and Monetary Union and a Political Union It was the difficult task of the Luxembourg and Dutch Presidencies to channel the often very diverging positions of the different actors in the process into one coherent set of amendments to the Treaties forming the European Communities This publication examines the positions which the different Member States the Commission and the European Parliament have been defending in the Intergovernmental Conference on Political Union and more particularly with regard to one of the most sensitive topics under discussion namely the development of a Common Foreign and Security Policy CFSP The introduction places the debate on the development of a Political Union and a CFSP in an historical perspective and gives an overview of the progression of the negotiations The concluding chapter presents a general framework for better understanding of the course and results of the negotiations and a critical evaluation of the outcome The annexes reproduce the main proposals on the development of a CFSP submitted to the Conference

Policing European Metropolises Elke Devroe, Adam Edwards, Paul Ponsaers, 2017-02-03 Understanding the politics of security in city regions is increasingly important for the study of contemporary policing This book argues that national and international governing arrangements are being outflanked by various transnational threats including the cross border terrorism of the attacks on Paris in 2015 and Brussels in 2016 trafficking in people narcotics and armaments cybercrime the deregulation of global financial services and environmental crime Metropolises are the focal points of the transnational networks through which policing problems are exported and imported across national borders as they provide much of the demand for illicit markets and are the principal engines generating other policing challenges including political protest and civil unrest This edited collection examines whether and how governing arrangements rooted in older systems of national sovereignty are adapting to these transnational challenges and considers problems of and for policing in city regions in the European Union and its single market Bringing together experts from across the continent Policing European Metropolises develops a sociology of urban policing in Europe and a unique methodology for comparing the experiences of different metropolises in the same country This book will be of value to police researchers in Europe and abroad as well as postgraduate students with an interest in policing and urban policy Politics in Western Europe: Second Edition , Rethinking Security in

However, less attention has been given to the ways in which the nations that form Scandinavia or Norden are connected through various forms of inter and transnational cooperation. With contributions from a team of experts in the field, this volume analyses Nordic cooperation in a European perspective and argues that this special form of transnational cooperation has been crucial in the development of the Nordic Welfare Model. In addition, it also contends that the Nordic model of transnational cooperation is a relevant case study when pondering the present problems of European integration. This text will be of key interest to students, researchers, and policy makers studying the Nordic Model and transnational cooperation, and more generally to those interested in European studies, Scandinavian studies, welfare studies, international relations, and regional integration.
