Original. A Citizen's Democracy in Authoritarian Times Thomas S. Harrington, 2019-01-08. Agents of sedition who are heedlessly destroying Spain's consolidated democracy. Xenophobes simply interested in protecting their own wealth who are behind the rhetoric, not that different from the tribal authoritarians coming to the fore in Hungary and northern Italy. These are but two of the many narrative tropes the Spanish government and the establishment press in Europe and the US are rolling out to counter the rise of separatist sentiment in Catalonia. In this book Thomas S. Harrington, an American with a deep familiarity with Catalan culture and history, argues that far from being a threat to democracy in Europe, the scrupulously peaceful and people driven movement for independence in Catalonia is perhaps the best hope we have for spurring its much hoped for renewal. Fodor's Barcelona Fodor's, George Semler, 2010. Diaristic writing has often been relegated to the fringes of literary studies as a marginal cultural activity. This volume seeks to challenge that marginality by exploring some of the wide ranging forms of literary practice encompassed by diaristic writing in Europe from the Renaissance to the present day. The volume deals with questions of the value and status of the diary, of the functioning of the diary in society and history and of the reception and interpretation of the multifarious forms of first person daily writing. The volume investigates diaries across national borders and linguistic boundaries so as to make the hitherto marginal place of the private journal a site of fruitful interdisciplinary encounters. Australian, British, Catalan, French, German and Italian critics examine diaries dating from the sixteenth to the twentieth century within the context of the literature history and literary history of Catalonia, England, France, Germany and Italy. A prime concern of the essays in this collection is to highlight the cultural, generic and historical diversity of the diary while emphasising the points of convergence between different texts and differing critical approaches to the texts The volume will be of interest to students and teachers of European and comparative literature
