Charles Tracy, 2015-01-30 This book is the first major investigation of a subject of seminal importance in the study of church history and archaeology The two stone thrones at Wells and Durham the three timber monuments at Exeter St Davids and Hereford and the mid 14th century bishop's chair at Lincoln all come under a searching empirical enquiry The Exeter throne is the largest and most impressive in Europe It is a distinguished innovatory example of the English Decorated style with antecedents passing back to the court of Edward I It exemplifies most of the historical and formal strands that suffuse the entire book visual appearance distinctiveness within the building prestige construction stylistic context finance and the patronage and personal role of the bishop himself as well as the subtler issues of the personal and collective politics of bishop and chapter the monument's liturgical applications its relationship with the cathedral's relics its symbolism and what it tells us about the aspirations of the institution within the existing ecclesiastical hierarchy The thrones also reveal much about the personal circumstances of an individual bishop and where he stood on the scale of a good diocesan on the one hand and ambitious politician on the other as exemplified at Exeter and Durham The text is by the art historian Dr Charles Tracy a seasoned expert on church furniture both in Britain and on the continent of Europe The chapter on the stone thrones was prepared by Andrew Budge who is currently preparing a Ph D thesis on English Chantry Churches at Birkbeck College The polychromy authority Eddie Sinclair spent many hours on the scaffold to bring forward her remarkable report on the Exeter throne Her full report is to be published online The Exeter throne is also interpreted by the established timber conservation practitioner Hugh Harrison and the St Davids throne by the experienced draughtsman Peter Ferguson In an age of the CAD his meticulous measured drawings of the Exeter and St Davids monuments are one of the most remarkable features of book The architect Paul Woodfield prepared the drawings for the Lincoln chair The Laws of British Guiana ,1895 The Mesolithic in Britain Chantal Conneller,2021-11-29 The Mesolithic in Britain proposes a new division of the Mesolithic period into four parts each with its distinct character The Mesolithic has previously been seen as timeless where little changed over thousands of years This new synthesis draws on advances in scientific dating to understand the Mesolithic inhabitation of Britain as a historical process The period was in fact a time of profound change houses monuments middens long term use of sites and regions manipulation of the environment and the symbolic deposition of human and animal remains all emerged as significant practices in Britain for the first time The book describes the lives of the first pioneers in the Early Mesolithic the emergence of new modes of inhabitation in the Middle Mesolithic the regionally diverse settlement of the Late Mesolithic and the radical changes of the final millennium of the period The first synthesis of Mesolithic Britain since 1932 it takes both a chronological and a regional approach This book will serve as an essential text for anyone studying the period undergraduate and graduate students specialists in the field and community archaeology groups The New York Times Index ,1923

The Oxford Handbook of Roman Britain Martin Millett, Louise Revell, Alison Moore, 2016-08-04 This book provides a twenty first century perspective on Roman Britain combining current approaches with the wealth of archaeological material from the province This volume introduces the history of research into the province and the cultural changes at the beginning and end of the Roman period The majority of the chapters are thematic dealing with issues relating to the people of the province their identities and ways of life Further chapters consider the characteristics of the province they lived in such as the economy and settlement patterns This Handbook reflects the new approaches being developed in Roman archaeology and demonstrates why the study of Roman Britain has become one of the most dynamic areas of archaeology The book will be useful for academics and students interested in Roman Britain

Danes in Wessex Ryan Lavelle, Simon Roffey, 2015-11-30 There have been many studies of the Scandinavians in Britain but this is the first collection of essays to be devoted solely to their engagement with Wessex New work on the early Middle Ages not least the excavations of mass graves associated with the Viking Age in Dorset and Oxford drew attention to the gaps in our understanding of the wider impact of Scandinavians in areas of Britain not traditionally associated with them Here a multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary approach to the problems of their study is presented While there may not have been the same degree of impact discernible particularly in place names and archaeology as in those areas of Britain which had substantial influxes of Scandinavian settlers Wessex was a major theater of the Viking wars in the reigns of Alfred and thelred Unr d Two major topics the Viking wars and the Danish landowning elite figure strongly in this collection but are shown not to be the sole reasons for the presence of Danes or items associated with them in Wessex Multidisciplinary approaches evoke Vikings and Danes not just through the written record but through their impact on real and imaginary landscapes and via the objects they owned or produced The papers raise wider questions too such as when did aggressive Vikings morph into more acceptable Danes and what issues of identity were there for natives and incomers in a province whose founders were believed to have also come from North Sea areas if not from parts of Denmark itself Readers can continue for themselves aspects of these broader debates that will be stimulated by this fascinating and significant series of studies by both established scholars and new researchers
