A History of Art in Africa Monica Blackmun Visonà,Robin Poynor,Herbert M. Cole,Michael D. Harris,2001 Informed by the latest scholarship yet written for the general reader this is the first comprehensive book to present the arts of Africa in art historical terms The authors treat individual pieces as tangible manifestations of changing beliefs and customs as products of complex cultural interactions as expressions of historical and economic realities and as creations of gifted individuals and in so doing brilliantly offer up African art on its own terms

Organized in five major parts A History of Art in Africa covers every corner of the continent including Egypt from prehistory to the present day and includes the art of the African diaspora The Islamic influence and the Christian arts of Ethiopia and Nubia are treated as fully African expressions as are tourist arts and the fascinating hybrid art that periodically arose from interaction with Europe All art forms are given equal consideration from such familiar categories as sculpture to such quintessentially African forms as masquerades festivals and personal and domestic adornment The arts of daily life of royal ceremony and of state cosmology also receive compelling discussions And throughout the authors emphasize the cultural contexts in which art is produced and imbued with meaning Contemporary art forms are explored both as part of the living splendors of modern Africa and as ingenious responses to the experience of diaspora The illustrations present a vast and rich range of images including superb colorplates of artworks archival and contemporary field photographs explanatory drawings and plans and individual objects displayed in museums and in use Book jacket

A History of Modern Africa Richard J. Reid, 2020-01-09 The new fully updated edition of the acclaimed textbook covering 200 years of African history A History of Modern Africa explores two centuries of the continent's political, economic and social history. This thorough yet accessible text helps readers to understand key concepts, recognize significant themes and identify the processes that shaped the modern history of Africa. Emphasis is placed on the consequences of colonial rule and the links between the precolonial and postcolonial eras. Author Richard Reid, a prominent scholar and historian on the subject, argues that Africa's struggle for economic and political stability in the nineteenth century escalated and intensified through the twentieth century, the effects of which are still felt in the present day. The new third edition offers substantial updates and revisions that consider recent events and historiography. Greater emphasis is placed on African agency, particularly during the colonial period, and the importance of the long-term militarization of African political culture. Discussions of the postcolonial period have been updated to reflect recent developments, including those in North Africa. Adopting a long-term approach to current African issues, this text explores the legacies of the nineteenth century and the colonial period in the context of the contemporary era. Highlights the role of nineteenth-century and long-term internal dynamics in Africa's modern challenges. Combines recent scholarship with concise and effective narrative. Features maps, illustrations, expanded references and comprehensive endnotes. A History of Modern Africa 1800 to the Present 3rd Edition is an excellent introduction to the subject for undergraduate students in relevant courses and for general readers with interest in modern African history and current affairs.

Sources and Methods in African History Toyin Falola, Christian Jennings, 2004. An overview of the ongoing methods used to understand African history. Spurred in part by the ongoing re-evaluation of sources and methods in research, African historiography in the past two decades has been characterized by the continued branching and increasing sophistication of methodologies and areas of specialization. The rate of incorporation of new sources and methods into African historical research shows no signs of slowing. This book is both a snapshot of current academic practice and an attempt to sort through some of the problems scholars face within this unfolding web of sources and methods. The book is divided into five sections, each of which begins with a short introduction by a distinguished Africanist scholar. The first section deals with archaeological contributions to historical research. The second section examines the methodologies involved in deciphering historically accurate African ethnic identities from the records of the trans-Atlantic slave trade. The third section mines old documentary sources for new historical perspectives. The fourth section deals with the method most often associated with African historians, that of drawing historical data from oral tradition. The fifth section is devoted to essays that present innovative sources and methods for African historical research. Together, the essays in this cutting-edge volume represent the current state of the art in African historical research. Toyin Falola is the Jacob and Frances Sanger Mossiker Chair in the Humanities and University Distinguished Teaching Professor at the University of Texas at Austin. Christian Jennings is a Doctoral Candidate in History at the University of Texas at Austin.

Way of the Earth T.C. Mcluhan, 1995-07. This book draws upon both ancient and contemporary sources to examine the significance of the earth from the perspective of six different cultures and how these spiritual traditions have valued perceived and understood the earth At first glance the peoples of aboriginal Australia Japan Greece Africa South America and Native North America couldn't be more different But by taking a closer look the author shows that there are many more similarities than differences all revere mountains as a source of inspiration and holiness all feel a spiritual connection to the soil itself all create art and literature to celebrate their connection to the land and all see themselves as inextricable from the land they call home This unique volume explores how human beings across the planet and across time have felt about the earth and nature and how they have understood it related to it and celebrated it in their literature mythology religion and art It demonstrates that no matter where on the planet we exist and no matter what time period we live we all have a profound connection to the earth from Book Jacket
