

The background of the book cover is a photograph of railroad tracks stretching from the bottom center towards a bright, hazy horizon. The tracks are made of wooden ties and metal rails, and they converge as they recede into the distance. The sky is a mix of blue and orange, suggesting a sunrise or sunset. The overall mood is one of vastness and journey.

A Lost Lady Willa Cather, 2019-11-20 Marian Forrester is the emblematic blossom of the Old American West She draws her quality from that strong establishment carrying joy and excellence to her older spouse to the community of Sweet Water where they live to the prairie land itself and the youthful storyteller of her story Neil Herbert All are beguiled by her splendor and effortlessness and all are eventually sold out For Marian yearns for life on any terms and in satisfying herself she loses all she adored and all who cherished her This Willa Cather's absolute best novel isn't just a representation of a disturbing stunner yet additionally an eerie inspiration of an honorable age slipping permanently into the past

A Lost Lady Willa Cather, 2017-11-16 It was about the beginning of September 1664 that I among the rest of my neighbours heard in ordinary discourse that the plague was returned again in Holland for it had been very violent there and particularly at Amsterdam and Rotterdam in the year 1663 whither they say it was brought some said from Italy others from the Levant among some goods which were brought home by their Turkey fleet others said it was brought from Candia others from Cyprus It mattered not from whence it came but all agreed it was come into Holland again

A Lost Lady Willa Willa Cather, 2020-03-07 Willa

Cather's A Lost Lady was first published in 1923. It tells the story of Marian Forrester and her husband Captain Daniel Forrester who live in the Western town of Sweet Water along the Transcontinental Railroad. The novel is written in the third person but is mostly written from the perspective of Niel Herbert, a young man who grows up in Sweet Water and witnesses the decline of Mrs Forrester for whom he feels very deeply and also of the West itself from the idealized age of noble pioneers to the age of capitalist exploitation. The novel is also regarded as having been an influence on F. Scott Fitzgerald as Marian Forrester was an inspiration for his Daisy Buchanan character in The Great Gatsby.

Willa Cather Susie Thomas, 1990-01-01 Willa Cather's novels were neglected after her death but a new generation of readers has greeted her work with enthusiasm. This feminist study which draws extensively on Cather's unpublished letters analyses how she overcame the difficulties which beset a woman writer in the mid West during the early part of the century. It shows how her absorption in European culture influenced her perception of America and enabled her to produce some of the most compelling literature of modern times. Susie Thomas's highly readable account will be welcomed by all those studying Cather's work.

Love,1982 A study of the fiction of five early modern novelists Frank Norris Hamlin Garland Willa Cather Sherwood Anderson and Sinclair Lewis who reflect the conflicting values of a western past and an urban industrial present Willa Cather and Material Culture Janis P. Stout,2005-01-02 A compilation of essays focusing on the significance of material culture to Cather s work and Cather scholarship Willa Cather and Material Culture is a collection of 11 new essays that tap into a recent and resurgent interest among Cather scholars in addressing her work and her career through the lens of cultural studies One of the volume s primary purposes is to demonstrate the extent to which Cather did participate in her culture and to correct the commonplace view of her as a literary connoisseur set apart from her times The contributors explore both the objects among which Cather lived and the objects that appear in her writings as well as the commercial constraints of the publishing industry in which her art was made and marketed Essays address her relationship to quilts both personally and as symbols in her work her contributions to domestic magazines such as Home Monthly and Woman s Home Companion the problematic nature of Hollywood productions of her work and her efforts and successes as a businesswoman By establishing the centrality of material matters to her writing these essays contribute to the reclaiming of Cather as a modernist and highlight the significance of material culture in general to the study of American literature Silent Film and the Formations of U.S. Literary Culture Sarah Gleeson-White,2024-05-14 Silent Film and the Formations of U S Literary Culture Literature in Motion argues that the emergence of motion pictures constituted a defining moment in U S literary history Author Sarah Gleeson White discovers what happened to literary culture both popular and higher brow when inserted into the spectacular world of motion pictures during the early decades of the twentieth century How did literary culture respond to and how was it altered by the development of motion pictures literature s exemplar and rival in narrative realism and enthrallment Gleeson White draws on extensive archival film and literary materials and unearths a range of collaborative cross media expressive and industrial practices to reveal the manifold ways in which early twentieth century literary culture sought both to harness and temper the reach of motion pictures A Mirror in the Roadway Morris Dickstein,2021-08-10 In a famous passage in The Red and the Black the French writer Stendhal described the novel as a mirror being carried along a roadway In the twentieth century this was derided as a na ve notion of realism Instead modern writers experimented with creative forms of invention and dislocation Deconstructive theorists went even further questioning whether literature had any real reference to a world outside its own language while traditional historians challenged whether novels gave a trustworthy representation of history and society In this book Morris Dickstein reinterprets Stendhal s metaphor and tracks the different worlds of a wide array of twentieth century writers from realists like Theodore Dreiser Sinclair Lewis Edith Wharton and Willa Cather through modernists like Franz Kafka and Samuel Beckett to wildly inventive postwar writers like Saul Bellow, Günter Grass, Mary McCarthy, George Orwell, Philip Roth, and Gabriel García Márquez. Dickstein argues that fiction will always yield rich insight into its subject and that literature can also be a form of historical understanding. Writers refract the world through their forms and sensibilities. He shows how the work of these writers recaptures yet also transforms the life around them, the world inside them, and the universe of language and feeling they share with their readers. Through lively and incisive essays directed to general readers as well as students of literature, Dickstein redefines the literary landscape, a landscape in which reading has for decades been devalued by society and distorted by theory. Having begun with a reconsideration of realism, the book concludes with several essays probing the strengths and limitations of a historical approach to literature and criticism.
