Performance and Posthumanism Christel Stalpaert, Kristof van Baarle, Laura Karreman, 2021-09-02 Recent technological and scientific developments have demonstrated a condition that has already long been upon us We have entered a posthuman era an assertion shared by an increasing number of thinkers such as N Katherine Hayles Rosi Braidotti Donna Haraway Bruno Latour Richard Grusin and Bernard Stiegler The performing arts have reacted to these developments by increasingly opening up their traditionally human domain to non human others Both philosophy and performing arts thus question what it means to be human from a posthumanist point of view and how the agency of non humans be they technology objects animals or other forms of being works on both an ontological and performative level The contributions in this volume brings together scholars dramaturgs and artists uniting their reflections on the consequences of the posthuman condition for creative practices spectatorship and knowledge

Unmaking Waste Sarah Newman,2023-05-26 In Unmaking Waste Sarah Newman asks what happens when there are disagreements about what constitutes waste and what one should do with it both at singular moments in time for example when ideas about waste collide in emerging colonial contexts and across time such as between those who left things behind in the past and the archaeologists who recover them Newman examines ancient Mesoamerican understandings of waste Euro American perceptions of waste in New Spain and early modern European ideals of civility and Christian understandings of good and bad expressed metaphorically through cleanliness and filth These differing perceptions Newman argues demands that we rethink centuries of assumptions imposed on other places times and peoples so long as waste remains a category misunderstood to be common sensical and stable archaeological methods will prove unequal to their task Newman instead proposes anamorphic archaeology an approach that emphasizes the possibility that archaeological objects have multiple physical and conceptual lives
