Social Forces in the Re-Making of Cross-Strait Relations André Beckershoff, 2023-08-11 Adopting a critical political economy perspective this book sheds new light on the social and political struggles that shaped the political dynamics of Taiwan China relations and cross Strait rapprochement between 2008 and 2014 Presenting a careful analysis of primary sources and interviews the book reconstructs the historical political and socio economic factors that shaped Taiwan's path to the Sunflower Movement of 2014 reinterpreting this process as a struggle over Taiwan's role in the global economy It challenges received wisdoms regarding the rise and fall of the rapprochement First the study argues that the rapprochement was not primarily driven by political elites but by capitalist conglomerates within Taiwan which sought a normalisation of economic relations across the Taiwan Strait Second it finds that Taiwan's social movements during that period were not homogeneous but rather struggled to find a common vision that could unite the critics of the rapprochement The insights provided not only offer a deeper understanding of Taiwan's protest cycle between 2008 and 2014 but also serve to recontextualise the political dynamics in post Sunflower Taiwan As such it will appeal to students and scholars of Taiwan Studies East Asian Politics and Social Movement Studies

THE RESHAPED ECONOMIC RELATIONS BETWEEN RUSSIA AND TURKEY AFTER WESTERN ECONOMIC SANCTIONS

Dilan Günes,2019-07-12 Economic sanctions as a foreign policy tool is used by sender countries to change policy or behavior of a target country The economic sanctions are multilevel phenomena that not only affects both sides of the action but also have implications for third parties reshaping the political and economic relations of the sender and target countries with the other states The effects of the economic sanctions imposed by the West on Russia and Turkey have direct implications for the balance of power in the region and globally Therefore this paper aims to examine how did economic sanctions re shape the economic relations between Russia and Turkey In doing so the paper applies explanatory sequential mixed methods First logarithmic regression model was conducted by time series data over the period ranging from 1992 to 2018 The paper confirms that economic sanctions imposed on target countries that already have trade relations increase the bilateral trade between them especially for Turkish case Subsequently content analysis was conducted reviewing annual data starting from 1992 but mostly focusing on 2014 2018 period The analysis shows that because the sender countries are important trade partners in the target countries to counterbalance the effects of economic sanctions target countries choose to diversify their trade According to the results Russia diversified towards Asia and Central Asia while Turkey increased its trade with the EU which is mutual ally of the US and Turkey Excluding the 2015 plane crisis between Russia and Turkey the Western sanctions imposed on both countries increased the bilateral trade between them However these two countries are the first choice of each other when it comes to trade partner diversification

Energy Relations and Policy Making in Asia Leo Lester, 2016-10-31 This volume goes beyond a conventional analysis of Asia's energy relationships and explores the premise that energy relations in Asia in the 21st century should reinforce mutual interdependence Conventional analyses of international energy relations stress the asymmetric nature of the risks and costs of disruptions to energy flows Energy suppliers net exporters are concerned with the cost of a buyer looking elsewhere energy consumers net importers are preoccupied with the costs associated with an interruption of supply This perspective reflects the current transactional nature of energy relations and is clearly observed in the energy dynamics between countries in the Gulf Cooperation Council GCC and the economies of Northeast Asia NEA As the economies of both the GCC and NEA have enlarged there is under recognized potential for a move away from narrow transactional relations to broader interdependent ones This collection of essays from leading energy strategic and economic policy think tanks focused on how energy relations are forming in the 21st century offers energy scholars and policy makers answers to what these increasingly close relationships mean for international politics and trade
