The Poetics of The New American Poetry

Edited by Donald Allen and Warren Tallman

When Donald Allen's anthology The New American Poetry, 1945-1960 was first published in 1960, it came as something of a surprise. For it somehow managed to compile fifty-five poets, who graduated from some time beyond the range of "official" attention. It introduced the new poets of Charles Olson's generation, among them Allen Ginsberg, Robert Duncan, Robert Creeley, Denise Levertov, Lawrence Ferlinghetti, Frank O'Hara, and Michael McClure. Its name put a lie: There can no longer be any doubt that these poets have been the dominant movement in the second phase of the twentieth-century literature, with a profound influence on the poetic imagination of our time.

In this anthology, the editors present a definitive collection of the statements on their own poetry by twenty-five leading poets who, in Warren Tallman's words, "achieve spectacular fulfillment in our century of what Whitman was calling for in his, 'Explored Whiteness that the editors see the beginning of the movement that extends into our day through the work of the poets grouped in the New American Poetry.' The common denominator which the editors find in the movement, despite the divergence among the individual poets, is the search 'for new or renewed ending or hopes of a new or renewed world.'

Besides Whiteness, the statements include essays by Ezra Pound, Hart Crane, Gertrude Stein, William Carlos Williams, Louis Zukofsky, Charles Olson, Robert Duncan, Robert Creeley, Allen Ginsberg and many others of the post-Crane generation. Together, these statements provide a unique and comprehensive view of the principles formulated by the poets who have shaped America's poetry during the past two decades. Though many statements in this volume are now widely known, they have remained scattered and appear here together for convenient comparison and reference.

Donald Allen is the author of The New American Poetry, 1945-1960, now recognized as one of the most significant anthologies of modern American verse. He has also edited The Collected Poems of Frank O'Hara and The Collected Poems of Louis Zukofsky. Warren Tallman is a professor in the English Department of the University of British Columbia in Vancouver.

The New American Poetry John R. Woznicki, 2013-12-24 The New American Poetry Fifty Years Later is a collection of critical essays on Donald Allen's 1960 seminal anthology The New American Poetry an anthology that Marjorie Perloff once called the fountainhead of radical American poetics The New American Poetry is referred to in every literary history of post World War II American poetry Allen's anthology has reached its fiftieth anniversary providing a unique time for reflection and reevaluation of this preeminent collection As we know Allen's anthology was groundbreaking it was the first to distribute widely the poetry and theoretical positions of poets such as Charles Olson Allen Ginsberg and the Beats and it was the first to categorize these poets by the schools Black Mountain New York School San Francisco Renaissance and the Beats by which they are known today Over the course of fifty years this categorization of poets into schools has become one of the major if not only way that The New American Poetry is remembered or valued one certain goal of this volume as one reviewer invites is to pry The New American Poetry out from the hoary platitudes that have encrusted it To this point critics mostly have examined The New American Poetry as an anthology former treatments of The New American Poetry look at it intently as a whole Though the almost singularly focused study of its construction and less often reception has lent a great deal of documented highly visible and debated material in which to consider we have been left with certain notions about its relevance that have become imbued ultimately in the collective critical consciousness of postmodernity This volume however goes beyond the analysis of construction and reception and achieves something distinctive extending those former treatments by treading on the paths they create This volume aims to discover another sense of radical that Perloff articulated rather than a radical that departs markedly from the usual we invite consideration of The New American Poetry that is radical in the sense of root of harboring something fundamental something inherent as we uncover and trace further elements correlated with its widespread influence over the last fifty years The Feminist Avant-Garde in American Poetry Elisabeth A.

Frost, 2005-04 The Feminist Avant Garde in American Poetry offers a historical and theoretical account of avant garde women poets in America from the 1910s through the 1990s and asserts an alternative tradition to the predominantly male dominated avant garde movements Elisabeth Frost argues that this alternative lineage distinguishes itself by its feminism and its ambivalence toward existing avant garde projects she also thoroughly explores feminist avant garde poets debts and contributions to their male counterparts British Prose Poetry Jane Monson, 2018-07-04 This book is the first collection of essays on the British prose poem With essays by leading academics critics and practitioners the book traces the British prose poem's unsettled history and reception in the UK as well as its recent popularity The essays cover the nineteenth twentieth and twenty first centuries exploring why this form is particularly suited to the modern age and yet can still be problematic for publishers booksellers and scholars Refreshing perspectives are given on the Romantics Modernists and Post Modernists

among them Woolf Beckett and Eliot as well as more recent poets like Seamus Heaney Geoffrey Hill Claudia Rankine Jeremy Over and Vahni Capildeo British Prose Poetry moves from a contextual overview of the genre's early volatile and fluctuating status through to crucial examples of prose poetry written by established Modernist surrealist and contemporary writers Key questions around boundaries are discussed more generally in terms of race class and gender The British prose poem's international heritage influences and influence are explored throughout as an intrinsic part of its current renaissance

Rethinking Kerouac Erik Mortenson, Tomasz Sawczuk, 2024-12-12 This long overdue reevaluation of Jack Kerouac gives fresh perspectives on his unique literary output his vexed relation to issues of race class and gender as well as his continuing cultural afterlife This collection of essays by esteemed Beat commentators reassesses one of the 20th century's most emblematic but often misunderstood American writers Despite amassing a substantial body of influential work and becoming a recognizable icon globally Kerouac has often suffered critical neglect and this volume seeks to offer a range of fresh perspectives on his unique artistic output as well as his continuing cultural afterlife Through an examination of classic texts like On the Road to more obscure ones like Pic these essays recalibrate our understanding of the writer by placing his creative output into dialogue with current cultural issues to provide a rethinking of how concerns such as race gender relations artificial intelligence populist rhetoric and queerness inform his work and its contemporary reception These essays also examine how the peculiarities of global circulation and social media influence the ongoing cultural appropriation of Kerouac in popular music literature and online Through these varied approaches Rethinking Kerouac Afterlives Continuities Reappraisals provides an indispensable account of the continued relevance of both Kerouac the writer and Kerouac the cultural icon in the 21st century

Unfinished Spirit Rowena Kennedy-Epstein, 2022-03-15 Winner of the Matei Calinescu Prize In Unfinished Spirit Rowena Kennedy-Epstein brings to light the extraordinary archive of Muriel Rukeyser's 1913-1980 unpublished and incomplete literary works revealing the ways in which misogyny influences the kinds of texts we read and value Despite her status today as an influential poet much of Rukeyser's critical and feminist writing remained unfinished suppressed by the sexism of editors political censure the withdrawal of funding and publishing contracts as well the conditions of single motherhood and economic precarity From Savage Coast her novel of the Spanish Civil War which Kennedy-Epstein recovered edited and published to great acclaim in 2013 to her photo-text collaboration with Berenice Abbott essays on women writers radio scripts and biographies Unfinished Spirit traces the creation reception and rejection of Rukeyser's most ambitious texts works that continued the radical avant-garde project of modernism and challenged an increasingly hegemonic Cold War culture Bound together by Rukeyser's radical vision of artistic creation and political engagement these incomplete texts open a space to theorize the politics of the unfinished for understanding women's artistic production reasserting the importance of the archive as a primary site of feminist criticism
