Pursuit Of Truth:

Knowledge, Language and Logic: Questions for Quine A. Orenstein, P. Kotatko, 2012-12-06 Quine is one of the twentieth century's most important and influential philosophers. The essays in this collection are by some of the leading figures in their fields and they touch on the most recent turnings in Quine's work. The book also features an essay by Quine himself and his replies to each of the papers. Questions are raised concerning Quine's views on knowledge, observation, holism, truth, naturalized epistemology, about language, meaning, the indeterminacy of translation, conjecture, and about the philosophy of logic, ontology, singular terms, vagueness, identity, and intensional contexts. Given Quine's preeminent position, this book must be of interest to students of philosophy in general, Quine aficionados, and most particularly to those working in the areas of epistemology, ontology, philosophies of language, of logic, and of science. The Concept of Truth in International Relations Theory Matthew Fluck,2017-04-12 This book charts the role played by conceptions of truth in the development of a critical tradition of International Relations theory Providing a detailed account of the conceptions which have shaped the work of Critical Theorists and Poststructuralists the book reaffirms the importance of epistemic reflection for the discipline It argues that the partially abstract character of the main strands of critical IR arises not from their concern with epistemic matters but from their insistence that truth is purely intersubjective Drawing on the philosophy of Theodor Adorno the book argues that IR s critical tradition can be rejuvenated by combining its original politicisation of truth with a critical account of its objectivity The book will be a valuable resource for scholars and graduate students interested in the future of critical International Relations theory

Post-Subjectivity Andrew German,Merav Mack,Christoph Schmidt,2014-04-11 Modern thinkers have often declared the end or even the death of the subject and have been searching for new ways of being a self Indeed many contemporary scholars regard this search as one of the most significant effects of the general crisis of secularity Post Subjectivity is a contribution to that search conducted with a renewed attention to the centrality of religion in a pluralistic and global context This volume of essays guides the reader through but also beyond the crises of modernity and postmodernity toward an attempt to resurrect the subject in new forms The volume resonates with voices from across the humanistic disciplines the theological turn in recent phenomenology new directions in Christian and Jewish theology and reappraisals of figures in the history of philosophy psychoanalysis and the study of sexuality all are represented in an attempt to rethink from the beginning what it is to be a self

Perceiving Truth and Value Markus Mühling,David Andrew Gilland,Yvonne Förster,2019-11-11 The theme of this volume is the question of value perception It is discussed from different philosophical psychiatric theological and anthropological perspectives The thesis that unites all the papers is the recognition that we live in a relational dynamic world in which we primarily perceive and that to dissolve values from facts is fundamentally misleading both in theory as in life The contributions are the outcome of an energetic conference in 2016 where the problems at stake were rigorously discussed The results are presented here and they have an explicit order and are strictly related It opens with basic questions and observations then critical opinions and objections come into play after which the outline of a larger theory of value perception is presented and at the end some concrete examples from material practices are drawn

For the Love of

Beauty Arthur Pontynen, 2017-07-05 For most of the last century the methodology of art history has followed a positivist approach emphasizing form and style fact and history as the means of studying works of art By contrast the philosophical pursuit of truth once central to the fine arts and humanities has largely been abandoned In For The Love of Beauty Arthur Pontynen offers a searching and ambitious critique of modern aesthetic practice that aims to restore the pursuit of the knowledge of reality Being to its rightful place Pontynen begins by addressing the question of why the pursuit of truth be it called Dao Dharma God Logos Ideal etc is no longer acceptable in academic circles even though it has been intrinsic to the purpose of art at most times and in most cultures Lacking the pursuit of truth of some degree of knowledge of what is true and good the humanities necessarily lack intellectual and cultural grounding and purpose Fields of study such as philosophy music art and history are therefore trivialized and brutalized Pontynen s focus on the study of the visual arts details the how the denial of purpose and quality in modernist and postmodernist aesthetics has denied art any possibility of transcending entertainment therapy or propaganda In place of the established narratives Pontynen offers a counter narrative based on a cross cultural pursuit of the good the true and the beautiful He recognizes that substantively different cultural traditions exist and that the truth claims of each may be valid in whole or in part He shows how the history of art parallels the intellectual history of Western culture and how these parallels affect both aesthetics and ethics Pontynen engages with those elements of modernist and postmodernist thought that might be true His purpose is not simply to deny their validity but to engage a viewpoint that does not privilege the notion of a purposeless cosmos For the Love of Beauty will be of interest

Truth and Consequences Reed Way Dasenbrock, 2010-11-01 Contemporary literary theory takes truth and meaning to be dependent on shared conventions in a community of discourse and views authors intentions as irrelevant to interpretation This view argues Reed Way Dasenbrock owes much to Anglo American analytic philosophy as developed in the 1950s and 1960s by such thinkers as Austin and Kuhn but it ignores more recent work by philosophers like Davidson and Putnam who have mounted a counterattack on this earlier conventionalism This book draws on current analytic philosophy to resuscitate the notion of objective truth and intentionalist models of meaning and interpretation thereby moving beyond the antifoundationalism of postmodern theory It addresses the work of Rorty and Fish as representative of literary conventionalism discusses the futility of Derrida s anti intentionalism and shows how poststructuralist thinkers like Althusser and Foucault have contributed to the new thematics of race class gender and sexual orientation that dominates literary theory today Examining the counter arguments of conventionalists to have their theory judged by its consequences Dasenbrock shows how damaging this antiobjectivism and anti intentionalism have been for literary studies Why Teach Philosophy in Schools? Jane Gatley, 2023-03-09 This book presents a case for teaching philosophy in schools It develops two original arguments for teaching philosophy to all students at some point over the course of their education Gatley argues that teaching philosophy is the best way to help students to think clearly using ordinary or non specialist concepts such as good truth or happiness She goes on to argue that teaching philosophy is the best way to help students to make sense of the different conceptual schemes used by different school subjects Combining these two arguments Gatley suggests that these two roles for philosophy are central to the task of educating people and so philosophy ought to be included on school curricula Building on the work of philosophers of education including Richard Stanley Peters Harry Brighouse Matthew Lipman Mary Midgley and Martha Nussbaum the book covers a range of topics including Philosophy for Children P4C the aims education religious education curriculum design and education policy

Truth and Subjectivity, Faith and History Varughese John, 2012-09-26 What is truth Philosophical explorations have merely presupposed truth rather than define it The inscrutable nature of truth is a recognition of human finitude which is both Socratic the recognition that one does not know and non Socratic the recognition that truth has to be given from without This opens the way to locating truth outside the individual which can be appropriated only when the condition to recognize it is given For Kierkegaard the incarnation of Christ is the point when both revelation and the condition to recognize it are given However incarnation being historical raises the question of objectivity and evidence This book explores what truth implies for the individual and examines the value of historical research for Christian faith

The Conservative Affirmation Willmoore Kendall,2022-09-06 Maverick political scientist Willmoore Kendall predicted the triumph of conservatism Upon the 1963 publication of Kendall s The Conservative Affirmation his former Yale student William F Buckley Jr called him one of the most superb and original political analysts of the 20th century but even Buckley shook his head at what appeared to be Kendall s baffling optimism During the 60 s Kendall stood apart from the mainstream conservative movement which he accused of being anti populist and of storming American public opinion from without by wrongly assuming that the American people were essentially corrupt and always ready to sell their votes to the highest bidder Kendall believed that Americans would come to actively realize the conservatism which they had always actually lived

Economics for an Information Age Patrick Spread,2018-10-08 Economics for an Information Age examines the central role of information within economics and society The neoclassical economic model taught as mainstream economics in universities around the world relies on a mathematical model of resource allocation in which private advantage gives rise to public advantage in the shape of an optimal allocation of resources However this model assumes perfect information In the present information age such an assumption is even farther from the reality than it was in the past People disseminate and manipulate information to further their interests This book explains economic behaviour in terms of a theory of money bargaining and political and intellectual support bargaining in which the dissemination of information plays a central role It uses this lens to explain how information is created manipulated disseminated organised understood interpreted used bought and sold This book will be of interest to mainstream and heterodox economists alike as well as historians of economic thought and anyone who seeks to better understand the impact of the information age on economic behaviour
