Visual Culture Wars at the Borders of Contemporary China Paul Gladston, Beccy Kennedy-Schtyk, Ming Turner, 2022-01-01 This edited collection brings together essays that share in a critical attention to visual culture as a means of representing contributing to and or intervening with discursive struggles and territorial conflicts currently taking place at and across the outward facing and internal borders of the People s Republic of China Elucidated by the essays collected here for the first time is a constellation of what might be described as visual culture wars comprising resistances on numerous fronts not only to the growing power and expansiveness of the Chinese state but also the residues of a once pervasively suppressive Western colonialism imperialism The present volume addresses visual culture related to struggles and conflicts at the borders of Hong Kong the South China Sea and Taiwan as well within the PRC with regard the so called Great Firewall of China and differences in discursive outlook between China and the West on the significances of art technology gender and sexuality In doing so it provides a vital index of twenty first century China s diversely conflicted status as a contemporary nation state and arguably nascent empire

Chinese Intellectuals Between State and Market Merle Goldman, Edward Gu, 2005-08-03 This edited volume describes the intellectual world that developed in China in the last decade of the twentieth century How as China s economy changed from a centrally planned to a market one and as China opened up to the outside world and was influenced by the outside world Chinese intellectual activity became more wide ranging more independent more professionalized and more commercially oriented than ever before The future impact of this activity on Chinese civil society is discussed in the last chapter

Constructing China Mobo Gao, 2018-07-20 From fear and anxiety to celebration China s rise has provoked a variety of responses across the world In light of this phenomenon how are our understandings of China produced From West to East Mobo Gao interrogates knowledge production rejecting the supposed objectivity of empirical statistics and challenging the assumption of a dichotomy between the Western liberal democracy and Chinese authoritarianism By examining issues such as the Chinese Neo Enlightenment and neoliberalism national interest vested in Western scholarship representations of the Great Leap Forward and the Cultural Revolution and the South China Sea the book asks how is contemporary China constructed By dissecting the political agenda and conceptual framework of commentators on China Gao provocatively urges those not only on the Right but also on the Left to be self critical of their views on Chinese politics economics and history

Shanghai Mundane Lei Ping, 2025-09-18 This book offers a new critical intervention into the studies of the paradox of Chinese socialism Centering on the unremovable Shanghai bourgeoisie and middle class the book brilliantly discovers Chinese society's persistent aspiration to bourgeois lifestyle and remarkable resistance to socialist ideology from the Mao era to the Xi era Shanghai Mundane offers a new critical intervention into the studies of the paradox of Chinese socialism Through the lens of contested state society relations the book challenges conventional China Studies by repositioning Shanghai as the key to decode the protracted ideological warfare between socialism and capitalism Based on significant archival ethnographic and theoretical evidence unearthed from the distinct cases of Shanghai bourgeoisie and middle class Lei Ping discovers the city's persistent aspiration to bourgeois lifestyle and remarkable resistance to socialist ideology throughout the entire history of the People's Republic of China Ping argues that despite the socialist remolding of capitalist industry and commerce the post 1949 Chinese state failed to eradicate bourgeois heritage in the domain of everyday life in the Mao era which ironically contributed to its controversial policy reversals in the post Mao era from Deng to Xi What lies at the heart of the major intellectual conundrum namely the survival and revival of bourgeois sentiments is what Ping calls the unremovable Shanghai mundane This captivating and provocative account sheds new light on understanding the larger questions as to the crisis ridden practices of Chinese socialism and the raison d'être of the Chinese Communist Party in the twenty first century

Commentaries on Selected Model Investment Treaties Chester Brown, 2013-01-17 The existing literature on the substantive and procedural aspects of bilateral investment treaties BITs relies heavily on investment treaty arbitration decisions as a source of law What is missing is a comprehensive analytical review of state practice This volume fills this gap providing detailed analyses of the investment treaty policy and practice of nineteen leading capital exporting states and emerging market economies The authors are leading experts in government academia and private legal practice and their chapters are largely based on primary source materials Each chapter provides a description of the regulatory or policy framework governing foreign investment both inflows and outflows with a historical presentation of the state's Model BIT an examination of internal government processes and practices relating to treaty negotiation conclusion ratification and record keeping and a detailed article by article analytical commentary of the state's Model BIT elucidating the policy behind each provision and highlighting the ways in which the actual investment treaty practice of that state deviates from this standard text This commentary is supplemented by the case law relevant to that state's investment treaties This commentary will be of immense assistance to counsel and arbitrators engaged in arguing and determining the proper interpretation of BITs and investment chapters in Free Trade Agreements and to government officials and scholars engaged in BIT policy formulation and implementation It will serve as a standard resource for legal practitioners scholars policy makers and other stakeholders in the field of international investment policy law and arbitration through its focus on the lives and work of six controversial leading artists Elizabeth Wichmann Walczak University of Hawai i at Manoa Any traditional theatre has to engage the changing world to avoid becoming a living fossil How has Beijing Opera a highly stylized theatre with breath taking acrobatics and martial arts fabulous costumes and striking makeup survived into the new millennium while coping with a century of great upheavals and competition from new entertainment forms Li Ruru s The Soul of Beijing Opera answers that question looking at the evolution of singing and performance styles make up and costume audience demands as well as stage and street presentation modes amid tumultuous social and political changes Li s study follows a number of major artists careers in mainland China and Taiwan drawing on extensive primary print sources as well as personal interviews with performers and their cultural peers One chapter focuses on the illustrious career of Li s own mother and how she adapted to changes in Communist ideology In addition she explores how performers as social beings have responded to conflicts between tradition and modernity and between convention and innovation Through performers negotiation and compromises Beijing Opera has undergone constant re examination of its inner artistic logic and adjusted to the demands of the external world The Oxford Handbook of Chinese Cinemas Carlos Rojas,Eileen Chow,2013-03-13 What does it mean for a cinematic work to be Chinese Does it refer specifically to a work s subject or does it also reflect considerations of language ethnicity nationality ideology or political orientation Such questions make any single approach to a vast field like Chinese cinema difficult at best Accordingly The Oxford Handbook of Chinese Cinemas situates the term more broadly among various different phases genres and distinct national configurations while taking care to address the consequences of grouping together so many disparate histories under a single banner Offering both a platform for cross disciplinary dialogue and a mapping of Chinese cinema as an expanded field this Handbook presents thirty three essays by leading researchers and scholars intent on yielding new insights and new analyses using three different methodologies Chapters in Part I investigate the historical periodizations of the field through changing notions of national and political identity all the way from the industry s beginnings in the 1920s up to its current forms in contemporary Hong Kong Taiwan and the global diaspora Chapters in Part II feature studies centered on the field s taxonomical formalities including such topics as the role of the Chinese opera in technological innovation the political logic of the Maoist film and the psychoanalytic formula of the kung fu action film Finally in Part III focus is given to the structural elements that comprise a work s production distribution and reception to reveal the broader cinematic apparatuses within which these works are positioned Taken together the multipronged approach supports a wider platform beyond the geopolitical and linguistic limitations in existing scholarship Expertly edited to illustrate a representative set of up to date topics and approaches The Oxford Handbook of Chinese Cinemas provides a vital addition to a burgeoning field still in its formative stages The Nation ,1870

The Future History of Contemporary Chinese Art Peggy Wang,2021-01-26 A revelatory reclaiming of five iconic Chinese artists and their place in art history During the 1980s and 1990s a group of Chinese artists Zhang Xiaogang Wang

Guangyi Sui Jianguo Zhang Peili and Lin Tianmiao ascended to new heights of international renown Even as their fame increased they came to be circumscribed by simplistic Western interpretations of their artworks as social and political critiques a perspective that privileged stories of dissidence over deep engagement with the art itself Through in depth case studies of these five artists Peggy Wang offers a corrective to previous appraisals demonstrating how their works address fundamental questions about the forms meanings and possibilities of art By the end of the 1980s Chinese artists were scrutinizing earlier waves of Western influence and turning instead to their own heritage and culture to forge their own future histories As the national trauma of the 1989 Tiananmen Square massacre converged with the mounting expansion of the global art world these artists turned to art as a profoundly generative site for grappling with their place in the world Wang demonstrates how they consciously and energetically sought to make their own ideas about art and art history visible in contemporary art Wang s argument is informed by extensive primary research including close examination of the artworks analysis of Chinese language documents and archives and deeply personal interviews with the artists Their words uncover layers of meaning previously obscured by the popular and often recycled assessments that many of these works have received until now Beyond Wang s reinterpretation of these individual artists she contributes to an urgent conversation on the future direction of art history how do we map engagements between art from different parts of the world that are embedded within different art histories What does it mean for histories of contemporary art and art history more generally to be inclusive The new understandings offered in this book can and should be engaged when considering current hierarchies in histories of Chinese art the global art world and the intersections between them Going to the Countryside Yu

Zhang, 2020-03-03 Since the beginning of the twentieth century modern Chinese intellectuals reformers revolutionaries leftist journalists and idealistic youth had often crossed the increasing gap between the city and the countryside which made the act of going to the countryside a distinctively modern experience and a continuous practice in China Such a spatial crossing eventually culminated in the socialist state program of down to the villages movements during the 1960s and 1970s What then was the special significance of going to the countryside before that era Going to the Countryside deals with the cultural representations and practices of this practice between 1915 and 1965 focusing on individual homecoming rural reconstruction revolutionary journeys to Yan an the revolutionary going down to the people as well as going to the frontiers and rural hometowns for socialist construction As part of the larger discourses of enlightenment revolution and socialist industrialization going to the countryside entailed new ways of looking at the world and ordinary people brought about new experiences of space and time initiated new means of human communication and interaction generated new forms of cultural production revealed a fundamental epistemic shift in modern China and ultimately created a new aesthetic social and political landscape As a critical response to the urban turn in the past few decades this book brings the rural back to the central concern of Chinese cultural studies and aims to bridge the city and the countryside as two types of important geographical entities which have often remained as disparate scholarly subjects of inquiry in the current state of China studies Chinese modernity has been characterized by a dual process that created problems from the vast gap between the city and the countryside but simultaneously initiated constant efforts to cope with the gap personally collectively and institutionally The process of crossing two distinct geographical spaces was often presented as continuous explorations of various ways of establishing the connectivity interaction and relationship of these two imagined geographical entities Going to the Countryside argues that this new body of cultural productions did not merely turn the rural into a constantly changing representational space most importantly the rural has been constructed as a distinct modern experiential and aesthetic realm characterized by revolutionary changes in human conceptions and sentiments
