Shiftwork Capital Hours And Productivity Change:

Shiftwork, Capital Hours and Productivity Change Murray F. Foss, 2012-12-06 This volume brings together and expands on a body of research that I began in the early 1960s and have continued up to the present. It deals mainly with shiftwork work that is performed during other than normal daytime hours. Shiftwork is a characteristic of economic life in the United States and abroad that has increased in importance over the years according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics: one out of five full time and part time employees in the United States works on shifts. My interest in this field concerns fixed capital specifically changes in weekly hours worked by capital over long periods of time and the significance of those changes in the measurement of long run productivity change. In studies of growth the measurement of capital input by capital stocks or the services yielded by those stocks typically makes no allowance for the changing hours worked by capital. Capital services are assumed to be proportional to the stocks. Consequently in analyses of output growth in a growth accounting framework the effect of longer capital hours is a component of multifactor or total factor productivity growth. Comparative Analyses of Operating Hours and Working Times in the European Union Lei Delsen, Frank Bauer, Gilbert Cetté, Mark Smith, 2009-04-29 This volume is the second book based on comparative and comprehensive data from the 2003 representative European Union Company survey of Operating hours Working times and Employment EUCOWE in France Germany the Netherlands Portugal Spain and the United Kingdom. The EUCOWE project is the first representative and standardised European company survey which covers all categories of firm sizes and all sectors of the economy. This volume complements and builds on the first book published in 2007 in which the methodology and the descriptive national findings as well as some first comparative analytical results were presented. In this second book the EUCOWE research team presents in depth cross country analyses of the relationship between operating hours working times and employment in the European Union. Six empirical chapters of this volume provide detailed comparative analyses of the determinants and consequences of the duration and flexibility of opening hours and operating times. Operating Hours and Working Times Lei Delsen, Derek Bosworth, Hermann Groß, Rafael Muñoz de Bustillo y Llorente, 2006-11-23 This book presents findings and results from the recent European Union Company survey of Operating hours Working times and Employment EUCOWE in France Germany the Netherlands Portugal Spain and the United Kingdom. The EUCOWE project is the first standardised company survey covering all sizes of firms and all sectors of the economy. It is the most comprehensive analysis yet published on Operating Hours Capacity Utilisation Working Times and Employment in the EU. Work Patterns and Capital Utilisation D. Anxo, Gerhard Bosch, Derek Bosworth, Gilbert Cetté, Thomas Sterner, Dominique Taddei, 2013-03-09 Edmond Malinvaud This book provides a most welcome survey of what statisticians and economists know about an aspect of production that is difficult to precisely characterize but matters a lot for both its importance on economic performance and its social implications. That such a survey is timely cannot be overemphasized: the point is well argued in the introduction to the book which shows how discussions of the last decades stressed the importance of capital operating time as an economic variable in a series of distinct but interrelated topics from growth theory to employment policies Nowadays still more than ever in the past production not only requires capital as well as labour but also depends on varied and complex forms of work organization which tie more or less closely to one another the uses of the two main factors In industry and services labour needs many pieces of capital for efficient production some operating permanently others assisting when needed Many even among the most modern equipments cannot well function without constant guidance or control by human labour The cost of interrupting some industrial processes is so high as to impose continuous operation The timing for the provision of many services has to be patterned in accordance with the rhythms of activities or requirements of those demanding these services and so on This interplay is so complex that its particularities were and still are most often fully neglected in statistical information and in economic analysis
