Holocaust Memory Reframed Jennifer Hansen-Glucklich, 2014-03-31 Holocaust memorials and museums face a difficult task as their staffs strive to commemorate and document horror. On the one hand the events museums represent are beyond most people's experiences. At the same time they are often portrayed by theologians, artists, and philosophers in ways that are already known by the public. Museum administrators and curators have the challenging role of finding a creative way to present Holocaust exhibits to avoid clichéd or dehumanizing portrayals of victims and their suffering. In Holocaust Memory Reframed Jennifer Hansen-Glucklich examines representations in three museums: Israel's Yad Vashem in Jerusalem, Germany's Jewish Museum in Berlin, and the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum in Washington D.C. She describes a variety of visually striking media including architecture, photography, exhibits, artifact displays, and video installations in order to explain the aesthetic techniques that the museums employ. As she interprets the exhibits, Hansen-Glucklich clarifies how museums communicate Holocaust narratives within the historical and cultural contexts specific to Germany, Israel, and the United States. In Yad Vashem, architect Moshe Safdie developed a narrative suited for Israel, rooted in a redemptive Zionist story of homecoming to a place of mythic geography and renewal in contrast to death and suffering in exile. In the Jewish Museum in Berlin, Daniel Libeskind's architecture, broken lines and voids, emphasize absence. Here, exhibits communicate a conflicted ideology torn between the loss of a Jewish past and the country's current multicultural ethos. The United States Holocaust Memorial Museum presents yet another lens, conveying through its exhibits a sense of sacrifice that is part of the civil values of American democracy and trying to overcome geographic and temporal distance. One well-known example, the pile of thousands of shoes plundered from concentration camp victims, encourages the visitor to bridge the gap between viewer and victim. Hansen-Glucklich explores how each museum's concept of the sacred shapes the design and choreography of visitors' experiences within museum spaces. These spaces are sites of pilgrimage that can in turn lead to rites of passage.

Worn Ellen Sampson, 2020-12-10 Shortlisted for the Association of Dress Historians Book of the Year Award 2021. In a culture preoccupied with newness and a fashion system largely predicated upon it, what is the significance of worn clothes and why do they have the power to affect us so deeply? How are relationships to clothing produced and maintained through the embodied practices of wearing, maintenance, and repair? Through a focus upon a single garment, the shoe, this book calls on readers to reconsider the value of the marks of wear at a time when fast fashion reigns supreme and interest in damaged or worn garments quietly increases. Originating in an experimental practice-based methodology which placed wearing at its center, this book presents the act of wearing as a tool for developing knowledge of being in or being with, rather than observing from the outside. Bringing together anthropological and psychoanalytic theory with practices of handmaking, wearing, and photography, this book asks what is the embodied experience of wearing and the affect of the worn. Beautifully illustrated in full color throughout, Worn is the first book to focus exclusively on the significance of imperfect garments as

This book is the first full length study of the museum object as a memory medium in history exhibitions about the Nazi era the Second World War and the Holocaust Over recent decades German and Austrian exhibition makers have engaged in significant programmes of object collection often in collaboration with witnesses and descendants At the same time exhibition makers have come to recognise the degree to which the National Socialist era was experienced materially through the loss acquisition imposition destruction and re purposing of objects In the decades after 1945 encounters with material culture from the Nazi past continued both within the family and in the public sphere In analysing how these material engagements are explored in the museum the book not only illuminates a key aspect of German and Austrian cultural memory but contributes to wider debates about relationships between the human and object worlds Chicken Soup for the Jewish Soul Jack Canfield,Mark Victor Hansen,2012-09-11

Storytelling is a major component of Jewish tradition and this book honors that heritage with stories that celebrate the joys sorrows and challenges of being Jewish Some stories are timely and others are timeless yet all are filled with heart and of course love The Life of Judaism Harvey E. Sensible Objects Elizabeth Edwards, Chris Gosden, Ruth Phillips, 2020-05-31 Anthropologists of the senses have long argued that cultures differ in their sensory registers This groundbreaking volume applies this idea to material culture and the social practices that endow objects with meanings in both colonial and postcolonial relationships It challenges the privileged position of the sense of vision in the analysis of material culture Contributors argue that vision can only be understood in relation to the other senses In this they present another challenge to the assumed western five sense model and show how our understanding of material culture in both historical and contemporary contexts might be reconfigured if we consider the role of smell taste touch and sound as well as sight in making meanings about objects Photographing the Holocaust Janina Struk, 2020-09-03 Atrocities committed by the Nazis during the Holocaust were photographed more intensely than any before. In the time since the images were taken they have been subjected to a perplexing variety of treatments variously ignored, suppressed, distorted and above all exploited for propaganda purposes. With the use of many photographs including some never before seen, this book traces the history of this process and asks whether the images can be true representations of the events they were depicting. Yet their provenance, Janina Struk argues, has been less important than the uses to which a wide range of political interests has put them from the desperate attempts of the war-time underground to provide hard evidence of the death camps to the memorial museums of Europe, the US and Israel today.

Leading the Way Mary K. Trigg, 2010 Leading the Way is a collection of personal essays written by twenty-one young, hopeful American women who describe their work, activism, leadership and efforts to change the world. It responds to critical portrayals of this generation of twenty-somethings as being disengaged and apathetic about politics, social problems and civic causes. Bringing together graduates of a women's leadership certificate program at Rutgers University's Institute for Women's Leadership, these essays provide a contrasting picture to assumptions about the current death of feminism, the rise of selfishness and individualism and the disaffected Millennium Generation. Reflecting on a critical juncture in their lives, the years during college and the beginning of careers or graduate studies, the contributors' voices demonstrate the ways that diverse young, educated women in the United States are embodying and formulating new models of leadership at the same time as they are finding their own professional paths, ways of being and places in the world. They reflect on controversial issues such as gay marriage, gender, racial profiling, war, immigration, poverty, urban education and health care reform in a post-9/11 era. Leading the Way introduces readers to young women who are being prepared and empowered to assume leadership roles with men in all public arenas and to accept equal responsibility for making positive social change in the twenty-first century.

My Life Through My Dresses Marina Berkovich, 2018-07-20 In My Life through My Dresses, the first book in A Journey of a Recovering Idealist series, Marina Berkovich describes her life under the yoke of the Soviet Union and shares what she learned about the totalitarian government that raised humans as dysfunctional beings. Berkovich weaves her miniature epics of personal survival into a wise and compassionate story of historical value, adding a new dimension to the understanding of Russian history. The story will soon continue with In the Land of the Freed, detailing Marina's many adventures in her early days in the USA and My Life through Their Dresses, a heartbreaking account of tribulations Marina's family members underwent during revolutions, wars, Perestroika and immigration.

Rethinking Geopolitics Simon Dalby, 2002-01-22 Rethinking Geopolitics argues that the concept of geopolitics needs to be conceptualised anew as the twenty-first century approaches. Challenging conventional geopolitical assumptions, contributors explore theories of post-modern geopolitics, historical formulations of states and cold wars, the geopolitics of the Holocaust, the gendered dimension of Kurdish insurgency the cold war world political cartoons concerning Bosnia Time magazine representations of the Persian Gulf the Zapatistas and the Chiapas revolt the new cyber politics conflict simulations in the US military the emergence of a new geopolitics of global security Exploring how popular cultural assumptions about geography and politics constitute the discourses of contemporary violence and political economy Rethinking Geopolitics shows that we must rethink the struggle for knowledge space and power Bodies in Conflict Paul Cornish, Nicholas J

Saunders, 2013-12-17 Twentieth century war is a unique cultural phenomenon and the last two decades have seen significant advances in our ability to conceptualize and understand the past and the character of modern technological warfare At the forefront of these developments has been the re appraisal of the human body in conflict from the ethics of digging up First World War bodies for television programmes to the contentious political issues surrounding the reburial of Spanish Civil War victims the relationships between the war body and material culture e g clothing and prostheses ethnicity and identity in body treatment and the role of the body as bomb in Iraq Afghanistan and beyond Focused on material culture Bodies in Conflict revitalizes investigations into the physical and symbolic worlds of modern conflict and that have defined us as subjects through memory imagination culture and technology The chapters in this book present an interdisciplinary approach which draws upon but does not privilege archaeology anthropology military and cultural history art history cultural geography and museum and heritage studies The complexity of modern conflict demands a coherent integrated and sensitized hybrid approach which calls on different disciplines where they overlap in a shared common terrain that of the materiality of conflict and its aftermath in relation to the human body Bodies in Conflict brings together the diverse interests and expertise of a host of disciplines to create a new intellectual engagement with our corporeal nature in times of conflict

Religion, Violence, Memory, and Place Oren Baruch Stier, J. Shawn Landres, 2006 Scholars from a variety of disciplines explore the intersections of violence memory and sacred space A Victim's Shoe, a Broken Watch, and Marbles Lea David, 2024-12-31 Everyday items found at the sites of atrocities possess a striking emotional force Victims garments broken glasses wallets shoes and other such personal property that are recovered from places of death including concentration camps mass graves and prisons have become staples of memorial museums exhibited to the public as material testimony in order to evoke sympathy and promote human rights How do these objects take on such power and what are the benefits and pitfalls of deploying them for political purposes A Victim's Shoe a Broken Watch and Marbles examines how artifacts of atrocities circulate and in so doing sheds new light on the institutions and social processes that shape collective memory of human rights abuses Lea David traces the journeys of what she terms desire objects their rediscovery at the locations of mass atrocities their use in forensic and legal procedures their return to the homes of grieving families their appearance in public spaces such as museums and exhibitions and their role in political protests She critically investigates the logic that shapes why and how desire objects gain symbolic power and political significance showing when and under
