British Women Poets of the Long Eighteenth Century Paula R. Backscheider, Catherine E. Ingrassia, 2009-10-30 This anthology gathers 368 poems by 80 British women poets of the long eighteenth century Few of these poems have been reprinted since originally published and all are crucial to understanding fully the literary history of women writers Paula R Backscheider and Catherine E Ingrassia demonstrate the enormous diversity of poetry produced during this time by organizing the poems in three broad and deliberately overlapping categories by genre establishing that women wrote in all of the forms that men did with equal mastery and creativity by theme offering a revisionary look at the range of topics these writers addressed including war ecology friendship religion and the stages of life and by the poems more specific focus on the women's experiences as writers Backscheider and Ingrassia have selected poems that represent the best work of skilled poets creating a wonderful mix of canonical and little known pieces They include the complete texts of longer poems that are abridged or omitted in other collections Their substantial part introductions textual notes bibliographical information and biographical sketches situate the poets and their writings within the cultural and political milieu in which they appeared To generate further scholarship on this subject this essential anthology puts primary texts in front of students scholars and general readers It fills the persistent need to document women's poetic expression during the long eighteenth century and to rewrite the literary history of the period a history from which women have largely been excluded Women of the Sacred Groves Susan Sered,1999-03-04 Okinawa is the only contemporary society in which women lead the official mainstream publicly funded religion Priestesses are the acknowledged religious leaders within the home clan and village and until annexation by Japan approximately one hundred years ago within the Ryukyuan Kingdom This fieldwork based study provides a gender sensitive look at a remarkable religious tradition Susan Sered spent a year living in Henza an Okinawan fishing village joining priestesses as they conducted rituals in the sacred groves located deep in the jungle covered mountains surrounding the village Her observations focus upon the meaning of being a priestess and the interplay between women s religious preeminence and other aspects of the society Sered shows that the villages social ethos is characterized by easy going interpersonal relations an absence of firm rules and hierarchies and a belief that the village and its inhabitants are naturally healthy Particularly interesting is her discovery that gender is a minimal category here villagers do not adapt any sort of ideology that proclaims that men and women are inherently different from one another Villagers do explain that because farmland is scarce in Okinawa men have been compelled to go to the dangerous ocean and to foreign countries to seek their livelihoods Women in contrast have remained present in their healthy and pleasant village working on their farms and engaging in constant rounds of intra and interfamilial socializing Priestesses who do not exert power in the sense that religious leaders in many other societies do can be seen as the epitome of presence By praying and eating at myriad rituals priestesses make immediate and tangible the benevolent presence of kami sama divinity Through in depth examination of this unique and little studied society Sered offers a glimpse of a religious paradigm radically different from the male dominated religious ideologies found in many other cultures All Round the World ... Edited by W. F. Ainsworth ... First (Second) Series William Ainsworth,1870 Representing the Royal Navy Margarette Lincoln,2017-05-15 From the mid 18th century up till after memories of the Napoleonic wars and the glories of Nelson s navy had faded the Royal Navy was the bulwark of Britain s defence and the safeguard of trade and imperial expansion While there have been political and military histories of the Navy in this period looking at battles and personalities and studies of its administration and the life below decks this book is the first study of the Navy in a cultural context exploring contemporary attitudes to war and peace and to ideologies of race and gender As well as literary sources Dr Lincoln draws on the vast collections of the National Maritime Museum in paintings cartoons and ceramics amongst others to focus attention on material that has hitherto been little used even research into the general culture of the late Georgian age has curiously neglected perceptions of the Navy which was one of its major institutions Individual chapters discuss the attitudes of particular groups towards the Navy merchants politicians churchmen women scientists and the seamen themselves and how these attitudes changed over the course of the period Slavery and Freedom on the Middle Ground Barbara Jeanne Fields,1987-01-01 Examines the history of slavery in Maryland and discusses the conditions of life of Maryland s slaves and free Blacks Perspectives on Women in the 1980s Joan Turner,Lois Emery,1983-01-01 We are now fifteen years into the second wave of feminism and public opinion polls show majority support for all the basic issues raised by the women's movement. This collection of articles focuses on strategies and directions for the movement that will enable all women to benefit from changing attitudes in the 1980s.

Essays on the History of English Music in Honour of John Caldwell Emma Hornby, David Nicholas Maw, 2010. The major themes of the essays in this collection reflect the work of the distinguished scholar John Caldwell, professor of music at Oxford University and a composer in his own right. There is a strong focus on early music with contributions considering the medieval carol sources for seventeenth and eighteenth century harpsichord music and the transmission of fifteenth century English music to the Continent but they range right up to the twentieth century with an examination of music in Oxford. All are concerned in one way or another with themes which recur in Professor Caldwell's scholarship: sources, style, performance and historiography.

How the Personal Became Political Michelle Arrow, Angela Woollacott, 2020-06-09. How the Personal became Political brings together new research on the feminist and sexual revolutions of the 1970s in Australia. It addresses the political and theoretical significance of these movements, asking how and why did matters previously considered private and personal become public and political. These movements produced a series of changes that were both interconnected and profound. The pill became generally available and sexuality was both celebrated and flaunted. Homosexuality was gradually decriminalized. Gay liberation and Women's Liberation erupted. Activists established women's refuges, rape crisis centres and counselling services. Crucially in Australia, these developments coincided with the election of progressive governments who appointed women's advisors and expanded the role of the state in the provision of childcare and other services. It was a decade of contestation and transformation. This book addresses the political and theoretical significance of these 1970s revolutions and poses key questions about the nature of sweeping change. What were the key policy shifts? How were protests connected to legislative reforms? How did Australia fit into the broader transnational movements for change? What are the legacies of these movements and what can activists today learn from them? Scholars from several disciplines offer fresh insight into this wave of social revolution and its contemporary relevance. This book was originally published as a special issue of the journal Australian Feminist Studies.

Jewish Consumer Cultures in Nineteenth and Twentieth-Century Europe and North America Paul Lerner, Uwe Spiekermann, Anne Schenderlein, 2022-01-22. This book investigates the place and meaning of consumption in Jewish lives and the roles Jews played in different consumer cultures in modern Europe and North America. Drawing on innovative original research into this new and challenging field, the volume brings Jewish studies and the history and theory of consumer culture into dialogue with each other. Its chapters explore Jewish businesspeople's development of niche commercial practices in several transnational contexts, the imagining, marketing and realization of a Jewish national homeland in Palestine through consumer goods and strategies, associations between Jews, luxury and gender in multiple contexts, and the political dimensions of consumer choice. Together, the essays in this volume show how the study of consumption enriches our understanding of modern Jewish history and how a focus on consumer goods and practices illuminates the study of Jewish religious observance ethnic identities gender formations and immigrant trajectories across the globe
