Larue, Rich Bayly, 1992 This thoughtful collection based on a highly successful conference held in Calgary Alberta combines the views of professional gerontologists educators health care specialists and policy makers to confront the issues affecting health care for older adults in both Canada and the United States The contributors seek not only to inform but to inspire innovative responses from the private as well as the public sector Experts in government aging medicine public administration social service counseling and consulting focus their attention on vital areas of concern to elders who are in need of assistance to the providers of these services and to a public who seeks assurance that its resources are cost effectively allocated to meet present and future demand Included are essays on the current status of health care policy in the United States and Canada daily money management caring for the noncompliant elder long term care as an emerging women's issue lobbying government agencies and political leaders the role of gerontology in resolving the crisis of long term care and geriatrics Community Care for an Aging Society Carole B. Cox, 2004-11-23 Most older persons desire to remain living in the community but those requiring care are often at risk of not having their needs met Families may find themselves unable to care for their older relatives while formal services are often unavailable or inaccessible Policies and services are beginning to focus on the community rather than institutions as the primary axis for care This book examines the many factors contributing to needs for care among older persons as well as the ways in which impairments are defined and responded to by both the individual and society Focusing on practice and policy issues Dr Cox describes many of the early stage community care innovations that hold the promise of making contributions to the well being and independence of the older population Long-term Care in an Aging Society Gerald A. Larue, Rich Bayly, 1992 This thoughtful collection based on a highly successful conference held in Calgary Alberta combines the views of professional gerontologists educators health care specialists and policy makers to confront the issues affecting health care for older adults in both Canada and the United States. The contributors seek not only to inform but to inspire innovative responses from the private as well as the public sector. Experts in government, aging, medicine, public administration, social service, counseling, and consulting focus their attention on vital areas of concern to elders who are in need of assistance to the providers of these services and to a public who seeks assurance that its resources are cost effectively allocated to meet present and future demand. Included are essays on the current status of health care policy in the United States and Canada, daily money management, caring for the noncompliant elder, long term care as an emerging women's issue, lobbying government agencies and political leaders, the role of gerontology in resolving the crisis of long term care and geriatrics.

Long-Term Care in an Aging Society Rowles, 2014-02-01. Written by well known scholars and researchers, LONG TERM CARE IN AN AGING SOCIETY 1st Edition approaches some of the most complex issues in the industry such as fluidity between levels of care, the impact of technology, cultural diversity, tensions between voluntary and paid services, and much more. Modes of care discussed include family and community based home care, adult day services, supportive residential and assisted living environments, mental health facilities, and medical settings including nursing homes and hospice. Blending theory with empirical research and current practice, LONG TERM CARE IN AN AGING SOCIETY 1st Edition takes a hard look at the fragmented and evolving long term care system today, reinforcing student understanding with chapter goals and reviews, website listings, suggested projects, and case examples.

Sustainable Health and Long-Term Care Solutions for an Aging Population Fong, Ben, Ng, Artie, Yuen, Peter, 2017-06-30. Lasting healthcare for the entire population, specifically the elderly, has become a main priority in society. It is imperative to find ways to boost the longevity of healthcare services for all users. Sustainable Health and Long Term Care Solutions for an Aging Population is a pivotal reference source featuring the latest scholarly research on issues pertinent to health cost and finding effective ways of financing healthcare for the elderly. Including coverage on a number of topics such as provider accreditation, corporate social responsibility, and data management, this book is ideally designed for policy makers, academicians, researchers, and advanced level students seeking current research on the innovative planning and development of healthcare.

An Aging Society United States. General Accounting Office, 1986. Health Care for an Aging Population Chris Hackler, 1994-01-01. Pivoting on Daniel Callahan's proposal to withhold publicly funded life prolonging medical care from the very old in his 1989 Setting Limits: Medical Goals in an Aging Society, 14 essays consider the health care crisis looming early in the next century as the baby boomers reach retirement age. They discuss the role of the aged in society, what the old and young deserve of each other, the source of medical cost increases, implications of rationing according to age, and proposals for a system that will address both immediate problems and long term conditions.
