Sutcliffe, 2009-04-13 Both before and after the collapse of the Soviet Union everyday life and the domestic sphere served as an ideological battleground simultaneously threatening Stalinist control and challenging traditional Russian gender norms that had been shaken by the Second World War The Prose of Life examines how six female authors employed images of daily life to depict women's experience in Russian culture from the 1960s to the present By a term connoting both the everyday and its many petty problems is an enduring yet neglected theme in Russian literature its very ordinariness causes many critics to ignore it Benjamin Sutcliffe's study is the first sustained examination of how and why everyday life as a literary and philosophical category catalyzed the development of post Stalinist Russian women's prose particularly since the collapse of the Soviet Union A focus on the representation of everyday life in women's prose reveals that a first generation of female writers Natal'ia Baranskaia Irina Grekova both legitimated and limited their successors Liudmila Petrushevskaia Tat'iana Tolstaia Liudmila Ulitskaia and Svetlana Vasilenko in their choice of literary topics The Prose of Life traces the development and intriguing ruptures of recent Russian women's prose becoming a must read for readers interested in Russian literature and gender studies 2009 Outstanding Academic Title Choice Magazine A History of Women's Writing in Russia Adele Marie Barker, Jehanne M. Women Poets of the Eighteenth and Early Nineteenth Centuries Amanda Ewington, 2014 Russian Women Poets of the Eighteenth and Early Nineteenth Centuries is a bold pioneering achievement Not only does it bring to light a poetic tradition that has been totally forgotten for over two centuries even in its country of origin but it does so in a broadly inclusive fashion It offers both the Russian texts verified against their original publications as well as accurate English translations accompanied by short illuminating biographical and critical introductions It thus makes this intriguing material accessible to a broad spectrum of readers from the curious generalist to the scholar This corpus of texts sheds significant light on the genesis and formation of modern Russian verse and on the ways in which this new cohort of poets strove to find their voice during a complex era of shifting literary cultural and gender values navigating between the male oriented high genres of Neoclassicism and the feminized modes of Sentimentalism Marcus C Levitt Professor Department of Slavic Languages University of Southern California Mapping Experience in Polish and Russian Women's Writing Urszula Chowaniec, 2010-09-13 The volume encompasses eleven articles which discuss the critical views that Polish and Russian women writers have articulated with regard to the notion of experience and constructions of femininity in the national imagination from the 19th to the 21st centuries Major themes of the articles include women's experiences as writers in the 19th century women's embodied experiences of a traumatic past body and sexuality in the different ages of women political and aesthetic discourses and femininity Although the articles are arranged in chronological order they do not form an absolute chronological or periodic continuum i.e. from Romanticism to Postmodernism although references to certain aesthetic periods are made The authors of the articles reflect in detail on how the women writers and their literary texts represent different understandings and experiences in relation to dominant perceptions for example of the memory of war of motherhood of art and aesthetics and so on Readers are encouraged to seek parallels and continuities between the different historical times and spaces between women's writing in Russia and Poland between different scholarly approaches and aims The articles of this volume bring together important critical standpoints in women's writing in Poland and Russia in which parallels continuities and resemblances can be traced but in which discontinuities breaks and differences also make themselves visible Apart from the conspicuous resemblances between individual Russian and Polish women writers works or even between groups of women writers the articles document the diversity within Russian and Polish women's writing respectively and even within individual writers An Encyclopedia of Continental Women Writers Katharina M.
