The Politics of Size Ragen Chastain, 2014-11-25 This book presents an unprecedented opportunity for people to hear from a simultaneously ostracized, ridiculed and ignored group: fat Americans. Find out how the members of this very diverse group of people describe their actual lived experiences, quality of life, hopes and dreams and demands. Our society is body size obsessed. The result: An environment where fat people are consistently shunned and discussed disparagingly behind their backs. Although fat people typically bear the brunt of the institutionalized oppression around being oversized, pervasive, close-minded attitudes about body size in America affect everyone of all sizes, from people who are shamed for being too thin to those whose lives revolve around the fear of becoming fat. This book talks about a topic that is important to all readers, regardless of their physical size, providing an anthology of first person accounts of what it's like to be part of the fat acceptance movement and on the front lines of activism in the war on obesity. The Politics of Size: Perspectives from the Fat Acceptance Movement supplies a frank discussion of the issues surrounding being fat and the associated health concerns, both physical and mental, and reframes the discussion about obesity from a medical issue to a social one. The essays serve to correct misinformation about obesity and fat people that is commonly accepted by the general public, such as the idea that fat and healthy are mutually exclusive. Subject matter covered includes fat-friendly workplace policies, fat dating experiences and the intersections of being fat and also a person of color, a person with disabilities, a transgender person or a member of another sub-group of society.

Racing in Place Michael Martone, 2011-08-15 Is it truth or fiction? Memoir or essay? Narrative or associative? To a writer like Michael Martone, questions like these are high praise. Martone's studied disregard of form and his unruffled embrace of the prospect that nothing, no story, no life is ever quite finished, have yielded some of today's most splendidly unconventional writing. Add to that an utter weakness for pop Americana and what Louise Erdrich has called a deep affection for the ordinary, and you have one of the few writers who could pull off something like Racing in Place. Up the steps of the Washington Monument, down the home stretch at the Indy Speedway, and across the parking lot of the Moon Winx Lodge in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, Martone chases and is chased by memories and memories of memories. He writes about his grandfather's job as a meter reader, those seventies-era hotels with atrium lobbies and open glass elevators, and the legendary temper of basketball coach Bob Knight. Martone, as Peter Turchi has said, looks under stones; the rest of us leave unturned. So what is he really up to when he dwells on the make of Malcolm X's eyeglasses or the runner-up names for Snow White's seven dwarfs? In My Mother Invents a Tradition, Martone tells how his mom, as the dean of girls at a brand new high school in Fort Wayne, Indiana, constructed a nostalgic past out of nothing. Sitting at their dining room table, she came up with everything from the school colors, orange and brown, to the yearbook title, Bear Tracks. Look and then look again: Martone is saying, "You never know. I never know."
