

warn you, he is a bit strange, quite an eccentric man. His passion is exact knowledge."

"I would like to meet him," I said and he replied, "Let's go to the laboratory. I do not know what his job is exactly or what the objects of his studies are, but I know that he's an expert in chemistry."

When we arrived at the laboratory, I met Mr Sherlock Holmes who seemed very happy because of his recent discovery, a very precise test for blood stains. When he looked at me, he immediately said: "You spent some time in Afghanistan, didn't you?" "How do you know?" I asked. I was very surprised. "Never mind," he said. "We are here on business," said Stamford and then he told Holmes that I too needed a room. "I rented a nice flat in Baker Street yesterday, but it is too expensive for me," Holmes said. "Of course, we can share it, if my ways do not disturb you. Two people who share a flat must know each other's faults in advance."

So we discussed our faults and habits and then decided to go and see the flat on the following day. When I left the laboratory, I asked Stamford, "How does Sherlock Holmes know about Afghanistan?" and he answered, "Nobody knows how he discovers things. That's his little secret." I was really interested in Holmes and I decided to get to know him better.

When we visited the apartment on the following day, we liked it very much and we decided to move in immediately. Holmes had very regular habits and was easy to live with. He was very tall and thin, had sharp eyes, a hawk-like nose and very delicate hands, always stained with ink and chemicals. He stimulated my curiosity and I really wanted to know more about him, but I did not have the courage to ask him questions about his life. His knowledge on some subjects was extraordinary, especially in chemistry, anatomy and sensational literature, but his ignorance was sometimes extraordinary too. He knew almost nothing about literature, philosophy and politics. He once said that all the information he acquired was useful for his job. He played the violin very well, too. After a week I discovered that he knew many people from different social classes. When they came in our flat, Holmes asked me kindly to leave the sitting room and I went to my bedroom. He always apologised afterwards. "I sometimes need the room for business," he explained. "These people are my clients."

I remember that on the 4th March I got up very early and he was in the sitting room having breakfast. While I was having my own breakfast, I read a very strange article in the newspaper. It said
