Kling, 2020 In this first in depth and wide ranging history of Christian conversion David Kling examines the dynamic of turning to the Christian faith by individuals families and people groups Global in reach and engaging recent methods and theories in conversion studies the narrative progresses from early Christian beginnings in the Roman world to Christianity's expansion into Europe the Americas China India and Africa Although conversion is often associated with a particular strand of modern Christianity evangelical and a particular type of experience sudden overwhelming when examined over two millennia it emerges as a phenomenon far more complex than any one dimensional profile would suggest Translating the Hebrew Bible in Medieval Iberia Esperanza Alfonso, Javier del Barco, 2021-10-25 Translating the Hebrew Bible in Medieval Iberia provides the princeps diplomatic edition and a comprehensive study of Oxford Bodleian Library MS Hunt 268 The manuscript produced in the Iberian Peninsula in the late thirteenth century features a biblical glossary commentary in Hebrew that includes 2 018 glosses in the vernacular and 156 in Arabic and to date is the only manuscript of these characteristics known to have been produced in this region Esperanza Alfonso has edited the text and presents here a study of it examining its pedagogical function its sources its exegetical content and its extraordinary value for the study of biblical translation in the Iberian Peninsula and in the Sephardic Diaspora Javier del Barco provides a detailed linguistic study and a glossary of the corpus of vernacular glosses For a version with a

Stow, 2017-11-30 The 1007 Anonymous an imaginative brief text composed in the third or early fourth decade of the thirteenth century illustrates the proper relations between Jews and their lay rulers and the pope The pope consistent in applying laws that both restricted and protected Jews is seen as a just ruler Kings and dukes by contrast were inconsistent and capricious threatening Jewish life This message had to be conveyed indirectly and the 1007's vehicle for doing so was a fictional story of murderous attack and forced conversion known as The Terrible Event of the Year 1007 Yet by examining the details of this story which include a direct borrowing from The Quest of the Grail composed in 1221 and a reference to coinage that could only have been made during the early thirteenth century the actual time and the purpose of the 1007's composition is revealed Claims that the veracity of the story and the actuality of the supposed massacre are demonstrated thorough a comparison with the chronicles of Raoul Glaber and Ademar of Chabannes are shown to be incorrect as part of Stow's larger discussion of the correct approach to reading medieval Hebrew texts Students of the 1007 have in fact inverted the order using the 1007 to give credence to the fantasies of the two Christian writers That the 1007 was not substantiable by such comparisons was demonstrated by the great French scholar Israel Levi at the turn of the twentieth century No one however paid him heed regrettably for he was absolutely correct Appropriately this book is titled Levi's Vindication Violence in Ancient Christianity Albert Geljon, Riemer Roukema, 2014-06-05 Ancient Christianity had an ambivalent stance toward violence Jesus had instructed his disciples to love their enemies and in the first centuries Christians were proud of this lofty teaching and tried to apply it to their persecutors and to competing religious groups Yet at the same time they testify to their virulent verbal criticism of Jews heretics and pagans who could not accept the Christian exclusiveness After emperor Constantine had turned to Christianity Christians acquired the opportunity to use violence toward competing groups and pagans even though they were instructed to love them personally and Jewish Christian relationships flourished at grass root level General analyses and case studies demonstrate that the fashionable distinction between intolerant monotheism and tolerant polytheism must be qualified Scenting Salvation Susan Ashbrook Harvey, 2006-06-07 This book explores the role of bodily sensory experience in early Christianity first seventh centuries AD by focusing on the importance of smell in ancient Mediterranean culture Following its legalization in the fourth century Roman Empire Christianity cultivated a dramatically flourishing devotional piety in which the bodily senses were utilized as crucial instruments of human divine interaction Rich olfactory practices developed as part of this shift with lavish uses of incense holy oils and other sacred scents At the same time Christians showed profound interest in what smells could mean How could the experience of smell be construed in revelatory terms What specifically could it convey How and what could be known through smell Scenting Salvation argues that ancient Christians used olfactory experience for purposes of a distinctive religious epistemology formulating knowledge of the divine in order to yield in turn a particular human identity Using a wide array of Pagan Jewish and Christian sources Susan Ashbrook Harvey examines the ancient understanding of smell through religious rituals liturgical practices mystagogical commentaries literary imagery homiletic conventions scientific medical and cosmological models ascetic disciplines theological discourse and eschatological expectations In the process she argues for a richer appreciation of ancient notions of embodiment and of the roles the body might serve in religion
