The World According to Colour James Fox, 2021-10-07 Extraordinary An intellectual feast as well as a visual one Edmund de Waal author of The Hare with Amber Eyes The world comes to us in colour But colour lives as much in our imaginations as it does in our surroundings as this scintillating book reveals Each chapter immerses the reader in a single colour drawing together stories from the histories of art and humanity to illuminate the meanings it has been given over the eras and around the globe Showing how artists scientists writers philosophers explorers and inventors have both shaped and been shaped by these wonderfully myriad meanings James Fox reveals how through colour we can better understand their cultures as well as our own Each colour offers a fresh perspective on a different epoch and together they form a vivid exhilarating history of the world We have projected our hopes anxieties and obsessions onto colour for thousands of years Fox writes The history of colour therefore is also a history of humanity varnish and glaze For more than a century after his death the fifteenth century painter Jan van Eyck was widely credited with inventing varnish and oil paint on account of his unique visual realism Once this was revealed to be a myth the verisimilitude of his work was attributed instead to a new translucent painting technique the glaze Today most theories about how Van Eyck achieved this realism revolve around the idea that he was the first to discover or refine the glazing technique Bol however argues that rather than being a fifteenth century refinement varnishing and glazing began centuries before Drawing from an extensive body of recipes Bol pieces together how varnishes and glazes were first developed as part of the medieval art of material mimesis Artisans embellished metalwork and wood with varnishes and glazes to imitate gold and gems infused rock crystal with oil resin and colorants to imitate more precious minerals and oiled parchment to transform it into the appearance of green glass Likewise medieval panel painters used varnishes and glazes to create the look of enamel silk and more The explorations of materials and their optical properties by these artists stimulated natural philosophers to come up with theories about transparent and translucent materials produced by the earth Natural historians influenced by medieval artists understanding of refraction and reflection developed theories about gems their creation and their optical qualities
