Beginning from Man and Woman Bernard K. Wong, 2017-04-30 Engaging with contemporary thought on love and the family Bernard Wong argues that our notion of love has been deeply influenced by modern technological culture and political ideologies leading to the detriment of familial relationships Dr Wong demonstrates how Christian doctrines can be used to critique and resist these ideologies Through a careful analysis of Christ's love expressed in his life death and resurrection the author presents a notion of Christ's love bearing the characteristics of fraternal incarnational and unfolding love These aspects of Christ's love are pertinent to the relationships between husbands and wives parents and children and families and their neighbours It is through practicing Christ's love that Christians strengthen their familial relationships and bear witness to Christ in the world

Longitudinal Analysis Lesa Hoffman, 2015-01-30 Longitudinal Analysis provides an accessible application oriented treatment of introductory and advanced linear models for within person fluctuation and change Organized by research design and data type the text uses in depth examples to provide a complete description of the model building process The core longitudinal models and their extensions are presented within a multilevel modeling framework paying careful attention to the modeling concerns that are unique to longitudinal data. Written in a conversational style, the text provides verbal and visual interpretation of model equations to aid in their translation to empirical research results. Overviews and summaries boldfaced key terms and review questions will help readers synthesize the key concepts in each chapter. Written for non-mathematically oriented readers, this text features a description of the data manipulation steps required prior to model estimation so readers can more easily apply the steps to their own data. An emphasis on how the terminology interpretation and estimation of familiar general linear models relates to those of more complex models for longitudinal data. Integrated model comparisons, effect sizes, and statistical inference in each example to strengthen readers' understanding of the overall model building process. Sample results sections for each example to provide useful templates for published reports. Examples using both real and simulated data in the text along with syntax and output for SPSS, SAS, STATA, and Mplus at www.PilesOfVariance.com to help readers apply the models to their own data. The book opens with the building blocks of longitudinal analysis: general ideas, the general linear model for between-person analysis, and between- and within-person models for the variance and the options within repeated measures analysis of variance. Section 2 introduces unconditional longitudinal models, including alternative covariance structure models to describe within-person fluctuation over time and random effects models for within-person change. Conditional longitudinal models are presented in section 3, including both time-invariant and time-varying predictors. Section 4 reviews advanced applications, including alternative metrics of time in accelerated longitudinal designs, three-level models for multiple dimensions of within-person time, the analysis of individuals in groups over time, and repeated measures designs not involving time. The book concludes with additional considerations and future directions, including an overview of sample size planning and other model extensions for non-normal outcomes and intensive longitudinal data. Class tested at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and in intensive summer workshops; this is an ideal text for graduate-level courses on longitudinal analysis or general multilevel modeling taught in psychology, human development, and family studies, education, business, and other behavioral, social, and health sciences. The book's accessible approach will also help those trying to learn on their own. Only familiarity with general linear models, regression analysis, and analysis of variance is needed for this text.

Sexual Offending Patrick Lussier, Eric Beauregard, 2018-04-17. There is growing recognition that sexual offending is a multi-determined phenomenon requiring a multi-disciplinary perspective. The significant contribution of psychology and psychiatry but also sociology, gender studies, and anthropology to the study of sex offending and perpetrators of sex offenses has played a key role in the development of a distinct field of research. In recent years however there has been an increase in criminological research on the topic introducing criminological theory and concepts, scientific evidence and observations and new methodologies to the field. This book brings together international leading scholars to consider key topics on sex offending and where possible compare and contrast criminological viewpoints with those of other disciplines such as psychology and psychiatry. This book considers the following questions: Are the key explanatory factors of sex offenses completely distinct and different from those of non sex crime and delinquency? Are current models explaining adult sex offending also applicable to explain sex crimes on college campuses, female sex offending, sexual exploitation, sexual homicide or child luring over the internet? Are today's youth involved in sex offenses? Tomorrow's adult perpetrators of sex crimes? What is the risk of sexual recidivism and are risk assessment tools effective to identify individuals at risk of committing another sex crime in the future? Are current legal measures used to prevent sex crimes effective? What are the known effects of such measures? What are the issues and challenges related to the criminal investigation of sex offenses? This book is essential reading for students and researchers from disciplines such as criminology, psychiatry, psychology, sexology, social work and sociology as well as criminal justice professionals and practitioners such as police investigators, prosecutors, judges, probation, parole officers and treatment providers, counsellors involved with individuals having perpetrated sex offenses.
