The book is a ready reckoner aimed at the student community aspiring to take up a career in bioinformatics. The book firstly provides a perspective on the domain and addresses the challenges faced by community namely the attempts to understand data produced by genome sequencing projects. It then brings to light High Performance Computing (HPC) as it helps in interpreting and analyzing genome sequences. The book also dwells on how interactions in a systems organism, the components that interact with each other and the outcome of such interactions. It then calls for a consensus on the tools like rapid and inexpensive DNA sequencing technologies, HAPMAP projects, Dollar One Genome (DOG) to enable a reader understand how bioinformatics transits from research to vocation and avocation. Further, it extols the virtues of in silico for bioinformatical predictions as it helps wet lab biologists reduce time for experiments. Also, it describes the intricacies of bioinformatics and its usefulness to wet based biologists and other cross disciplinarians. The book lists out 10 reasons for taking up bioinformatics as a career and includes insights from global experts on the domain. It also makes a case for a mediocre student getting into bioinformatics with discipline, determination, dynamism and diligence. The book further describes BioinformaTICKS, a tool for emerging as a winner in bioinformatics. Understanding Algebra and Functions

Teaching Digital Storytelling Sheila Marie Aird, Thomas P. Mackey, 2024-03-18 Everyone has a story to tell, and this book will inspire and guide readers to teach and learn through the production of digital narratives. This book presents the stories of educators who, through digital storytelling, inspire students from diverse communities to construct their empowering digital narratives. Educators from a wide range of disciplines present innovative case studies of teaching digital storytelling through the lens of personal narratives, metaliteracy, and information literacy. They describe how teaching students to tell their personal digital stories prepares them as learners who are reflective while playing active learner roles such as producer, publisher, and collaborator. As an innovative resource for teaching and learning with digital media, this book combines the theory and practice of digital storytelling with metaliteracy and the ACRL Framework for Information Literacy for Higher Education. It explores how to inspire learners to share their original digital narratives, offers the opportunity to explore and address issues of race, class, and gender to give voice to these issues as part of the storytelling process, investigates the role of diversity, equity, and inclusion in writing and producing original digital narratives, examines novel approaches to collaborative digital storytelling and peer review, presents pioneering models for global digital storytelling among international learners online, describes empowering digital narratives constructed by students who found and shared their voices through this creative process, provides inventive models for teaching effective planning through well-written scripts and visual storyboards, offers openly available resources such as rubrics, assignment descriptions, and digital technologies, showcases the application of metaliteracy OER in digital storytelling, learning activities, and courses. Through this book, faculty, librarians, school library media specialists, and instructional designers will learn how to teach the theory and practice of digital storytelling. This innovative resource will also empower students to reflect on their roles as digital storytellers and metaliterate learners in today's dynamic and evolving information environment.
