Sacred Identity:

The Sacred Identity of Ephesos (Routledge Revivals) Guy Maclean Rogers, 2014-08-07 The Sacred Identity of Ephesos offers a full length interpretation of one of the largest known bequests in the Classical world made to the city of Ephesos in AD 104 by a wealthy Roman equestrian and challenges some of the basic assumptions made about the significance of the Greek cultural renaissance known as the Second Sophistic Professor Rogers shows how the civic rituals created by the foundation symbolised a contemporary social hierarchy and how the ruling class used foundation myths the birth of the goddess Artemis in a grove above the city as a tangible source of power to be wielded over new citizens and new gods Utilising an innovative methodology for analysing large inscriptions Professor Rogers argues that the Ephesians used their past to define their present during the Roman Empire shedding new light on how second century Greeks maintained their identities in relation to Romans Christians and Jews

Sacred Identity Jane Kopas, 1994 Using story and human experience as a springboard this book explores creaturehood as a metaphor of identity and the basis for a theology of the person

The Christians Who Became Jews Christopher Stroup, 2020-04-21 A fresh look at Acts of the Apostles and its depiction of Jewish identity within the larger Roman era When considering Jewish identity in Acts of the Apostles scholars have often emphasized Jewish and Christian religious difference an emphasis that masks the intersections of civic ethnic and religious identifications in antiquity Christopher Stroup's innovative work explores the depiction of Jewish and Christian identity by analyzing ethnicity within a broader material and epigraphic context Examining Acts through a new lens he shows that the text presents Jews and Jewish identity in multiple complex ways rather than as a simple foil for Christianity Stroup convincingly argues that when the modern distinctions among ethnic religious and civic identities are suspended the innovative ethnic rhetoric of the author of Acts comes into focus The author of Acts leverages the power of gods ancestry and physical space to legitimate Christian identity as a type of Jewish identity and to present Christian non Jews as Jewish converts through the power of the Holy Spirit

A Cognitive Theory of Magic Jesper Sørensen, 2007 Magic is a universal phenomenon Everywhere we look people perform ritual actions in which desirable qualities are transferred by means of physical contact and objects or persons are manipulated by things of their likeness In this book Sørensen embraces a cognitive perspective in order to investigate this long established but controversial topic Following a critique of the traditional approaches to magic and basing his claims on classical ethnographic cases the author explains magic s universality by examining a number of recurrent cognitive processes underlying its different manifestations He focuses on how power is infused into the ritual practice how representations of contagion and similarity can be used to connect otherwise distinct objects in order to manipulate one by the other and how the performance of ritual prompts representations of magical actions as effective Bringing these features together the author proposes a cognitive theory of how people can represent magical rituals as purposeful actions and how ritual actions are integrated into more complex representations of events This explanation in turn yields new insights into the constitutive role of magic in the formation of institutionalised religious ritual

Caesar and the Lamb, Second Edition George

Kalantzis,2025-05-30 Through the available patristic writings Caesar and the Lamb focuses on the attitudes of the earliest Christians on war and military service Kalantzis provides the reader with many new translations of pre Constantinian texts and tells the story of the struggle of the earliest church to bear witness to the nations that enveloped them as they transformed the dominant narratives of citizenship loyalty freedom power and control Kalantzis examines writings on war and military service in the first three centuries of the Christian church in an organized manner but the ways the communities of Christ at the margins of power and society thought of themselves and the state are not presented here through the lens of antiquarian curiosity At the heart of Caesar and the Lamb is a desire to understand the world in which Christianity arose and to ask questions of the past that may help us understand the early character of the Christian faith with the hope that such an enterprise will also help us evaluate its expression in our own time

Religion provides a comprehensive overview of religion as seen and performed through various platforms and cultural spaces created by digital technology. The text covers religious interaction with a wide range of digital media forms including social media, websites, gaming environments, virtual and augmented realities, and artificial intelligence, and highlights examples of technological engagement and negotiation within the major world religions: i.e. Buddhism, Christianity, Hinduism, Islam, and Judaism. Additional sections cover the global manifestations of religious community, identity, ethics, and authority, with a final group of chapters addressing emerging technologies and the future of the field. Design Discourse on Culture and Society Doctor Gjoko Muratovski, Craig Vogel, 2019-05-22 Just as the term design has been going through change, growth, and expansion of meaning and interpretation in practice and education, the same can be said for design research. The traditional boundaries of design are dissolving, and connections are being established with other fields at an exponential rate. Based on the proceedings from the IASDR 2017 Conference, Re: Research is an edited collection that showcases a curated selection of 83 papers, just over half of the works presented at the conference. With topics ranging from the introduction of design in the primary education sector to designing information for Artificial Intelligence systems, this book collection demonstrates the diverse perspectives of design and design research. Divided into seven thematic volumes, this collection maps out where the field of design research is now.

Cultura: A Communication Toolkit for Designers to Gain Empathic Insights Across Cultural Boundaries Chen Hao, Annemiek van Boeijen, Pieter Jan Stappers. Designing successful products and services that people like requires an understanding of the context and the aspirations of those people. Over the past decade, a range of methods has been developed to help designers gain such empathy. These have worked well when designer and target user share a cultural context. However, designers often find it difficult to empathize with the user insights of individuals from a culture beyond their first-hand experience. To help designers step beyond this limitation, those user insights need to be placed in a larger understanding of the cultural context. In this paper, we present Cultura, a toolkit that uses nine cultural aspects based on cultural models informing designers about user insights in a broader cultural context. The toolkit was evaluated in design sessions with four design teams. The findings indicate that Cultura provides inspiration and motivation for designers to gain empathic insights into users beyond their own cultural boundaries and to make effective designs for people.

Graphic Designers as Cultural Innovators: Case Studies of Henry Steiner and Kan Tai Keung Tian Yao, Ilpo Koskinen. It is common to see graphic design copies of foreign models or other Chinese designers. These designers are apathetic toward the work and neglect its ongoing challenges, including the need for constant innovation. In contrast, there are masters who use Chinese culture in creative ways and achieve outstanding reputations all over the world The reasons design masters choose Chinese culture as a theme for their graphic work and the unique ways in which they symbolize cultural resources and knowledge are explored and explained in this study This study also illustrates how traditional culture can become a potential innovative strategy by applying a systematic and culture based methodology The case studies presented concern the first generation of graphic designers in Hong Kong Henry Steiner and Kan Tai Keung The preliminary results of the two case studies show very positive outcomes for cultural interpretation becoming a new innovative stream of graphic design Cultural Differences in Aesthetic Preferences Does Product to Context Match Matter Tseng Ping Chiu Carolyn Yoon Shinobu Kitayama Colleen Seifert Western cultures focus on salient objects and use categorization for purposes of organizing the environment an analytic view whereas East Asians cultures focus more holistically on relationships and similarities among objects when organizing the environment a holistic view Previous research has shown that cognitive approaches differ between cultures European Americans prefer an analytic style and East Asians tend to use a holistic style However little is known about how cultural differences in cognition relate to aesthetic preferences In this paper we explored whether cultural differences arise in preferences for products set in matching vs mismatching contexts Participants in a laboratory experiment included European Americans and East Asians Individually they viewed images of a variety of furniture products chairs coffee tables and floor lamps and rated their aesthetic appeal Each product type appeared in three different contexts matching target product shown in its usual in home context mismatched target product shown in an unusual in home context and neutral the target product shown on a white background For both cultural groups products were judged to be more aesthetically pleasing in the matching than in the mismatched context However ratings for products in mismatching contexts were significantly higher among East Asians Our findings suggest that those with holistic views East Asians are more tolerant of mismatches than are those with more analytic views European Americans The implications for product and marketing design include greater attention to context presentation Discourses on Japanese Lifestyle in Early Modern Design A Turning Point from Westernization to Modern Design Yoshimune Ishikawa Low seated chairs for tatami mats that are characteristic of Japanese style interior appeared after late 1940s This article focuses on the ambivalence between Western lifestyles and Japanese lifestyles by tracing the comments of designers critics magazines and so forth to clarify a background of them The introduction of chairs in Japan was actually involved by definition in a dichotomy between sitting on the floor and in chairs which therefore was far from the domestic practicality of lifestyles among the public Then we have to observe the two points for the introduction of chairs to break through this rigid situation 1 how did the public establish definition of chairs outside the Westernization This article grasps the fact that the artisans and early designers accumulated their experience of producing chairs from scratch through trial and error 2 How did the relation between sitting on the floor and in chairs break out of the dichotomy through ambivalence This article focuses on the fact that the public enjoyed the physical relaxation

offered by the mix of sitting on the floor and in chairs This constituted the domestic practicality of chairs for the Japanese Therefore such experiences of making and using chairs can be summarized as the awakening of a universe in the distance between the floor and the seat height of Western chairs It was a new frontier for Japanese designers and low seated chairs were born in this space This article concludes that it marked the transition from Westernization to Japanese modern design

Design Dialogs as a Specific Mode of Communication About the Ongoing Exploration of Solution Space Terry van Dijk Matthew Cook Decision making with respect to urban design is a particular arena where designerly modes of interaction are used but placed in the specific context of coordination across a variation of actors The planning literature that describes how urban design is included in decision making is poorly connected to design literature This paper laments this disconnection and shows where design theories reflect planning theories and where they can further complement in order to create a richer understanding of urban planning

Roger W. Stump, 2008-04-04 The only book of its kind this balanced and accessibly written text explores the geographical study of religion Roger W Stump presents a clear and meticulous examination of the intersection of religious belief and practice with the concepts of place and space He begins by analyzing the factors that have shaped the spatial distributions of religious groups including the seminal events that have fostered the organization of religions in diverse hearths and the subsequent processes of migration and conversion that have spread religious beliefs The author then assesses how major religions have diversified as they have become established in disparate places producing a variety of religious systems from a common tradition Stump explores the efforts of religious groups to control secular space at various scales relating their own uses of particular spaces and the meanings they attribute to space beyond the boundaries of their own communities Examining sacred space as a diverse but recurring theme in religious belief the book considers its role in religious forms of spatial behavior and as a source of conflict within and between religious groups Refreshingly jargon free and impartial this text provides a broad comparative view of religion as a focus of geographical inquiry
