Modelling Nutrient Digestion and Utilisation in Farm Animals D. Sauvant, J. van Milgen, P. Faverdin, N.

Fruggens, 2011-05-02 For more than 30 years modelling has been an important method for integrating in a flexible comprehensive and widely applicable way basic knowledge and biological concepts on digestion and metabolism in farm animals. The purpose of this book is to present the state of art in this area. The chapters are written by leading teams and researchers in this field of study mainly from Europe, North America and Australasia. Considerable progress has been made in topics dealing with modelling methods, feeding behaviour, digestion and metabolic processes in ruminants and monogastric animals. This progress is clearly illustrated by the emergence of a new paradigm in animal nutrition which has moved from the aim to cover the requirements of the animal to explaining and predicting the responses of the animals to diets e.g. productivity and efficiency, impact on quality of products, environmental aspects, health and well being. In this book several chapters illustrate that through empirical models, meta-analysis is an efficient tool to synthesize information gathered over recent decades. In addition, compared with other books on modelling farm animal nutrition, two new aspects received particular attention: expanding knowledge of the individual animal to understanding the functioning and management of herds and the consideration of the environmental impact of animal production. This book is a valuable source of information for researchers, nutritionists, advisors and graduate students who want to have up to date and concise information on mathematical modelling applied to farm animals.

In this context, the present guide provides valuable contributions for consulting veterinarians and students, industry professionals, breeders and technicians as well as for experts from the small and companion animal sector. The relevance of rabbit farming from the viewpoints of greenhouse gas reduction and sustainable use of ecological resources, use of local feed also creates useful links for readers interested in the sustainable development goals SDG 2 Zero Hunger and SDG 12
