Nazimuddin Ahmad, 1971 The Social Construction of Ancient Cities Monica L. Smith, 2013-04-09 What made ancient cities successful What are the similarities between modern cities and ancient ones The Social Construction of Ancient Cities offers a fresh perspective on ancient cities and the social networks and relations that built and sustained them marking a dramatic change in the way archaeologists approach them Examining ancient cities from a bottom up perspective the authors in this volume explore the ways in which cities were actually created by ordinary inhabitants They track the development of urban space from the point of view of individuals and households providing new insights into cities roles as social centers as well as focal points of political and economic activities Analyzing various urban communities from residences and neighborhoods to marketplaces and ceremonial plazas the authors examine urban centers in Africa Mesoamerica South America Mesopotamia the Indian subcontinent and China Collectively they demonstrate how complex networks of social relations and structures gave rise to the formation of ancient cities contributed to their cohesion and sustained their growth much as they do in modern urban centers The authors analyses draw from ancient texts as well as archaeological surveys and excavations of urban architecture and other material remains including portable objects for daily use and comestibles They show clearly how early urban dwellers consciously developed dense interdependent social networks to satisfy their needs for food housing and employment forged their own urban identities and generally managed to thrive in the crowded bustling and competitive environment that characterized ancient cities Not least of all they suggest how urban leaders and urban dwellers negotiated a consensus that enabled them to achieve both mundane and extraordinary goals in the process establishing their unique ritual legal and social status Archaeology as History in Early South Asia Himanshu Prabha Ray, Carla M. have been used in debates concerning the early medieval and medieval periods in South Asia Despite the incorporation and use of archaeological data to corroborate historical narratives the theories and methods of archaeology are largely ignored in and excluded from the dominating institutionalized and hegemonic disciplinary discourses The volume offers contesting insights polemical narratives and new data from archaeological contexts to initiate a debate on many foundational premises of archaeological and historical narratives It focuses on the much neglected region of the Eastern Ganga Brahmaputra Basin as a spatial frame to do this and studies themes such as spatial and temporal scales of concepts and methods multi scalar factors and processes of continuity and changes the settlement archaeology of the alluvial landscape changing patterns of agrarian transformation and material cultures including coins inscriptions pottery and sculptures in their contexts in sub regional regional and supra regional intersections Dedicated to historian Brajadulal Chattopadhyaya this volume presents a crucial and unprecedented intervention in the study of the early medieval and the medieval periods It will be useful for scholars and researchers of archaeology ancient history medieval history water history earth sciences palaeoecology historical ecology epigraphy art history material culture studies Indian history and South Asian studies in general
