Daphne Frederick Tennyson, 2015-06-25 Excerpt from Daphne And Other Poems Delos Ev'n in its dreams and listens and the birds Under the thickets sparkle forth a note And then another till the woodlands seethe Their green waves surging a melodious sea With flooded music From the marble steeps The cataracts fling themselves with conscious pride And pour upon the winds their rolling bass Set to the forest's harmony and catch Upon their azure shields the first broad lance Of sunrise as the swift empyreal shafts Shoot o'er the peaks down thro' the purple glooms Like thunderbolts of gold He the great King Of Day was silent and he listen'd not To all that music and his eyes were blind To all that beauty yet his step was swift And now he paused upon the bloomed edge Of a green hill the last before the vale Spread out its woods and waters and he stood Musing awhile his tall immortal form To the shy wood gods and the satyrs rose Dark and gigantic on the glowing light But the blind eyes of men beheld him not And he advanced and raised his hand and smote The golden harp and worldwide pulses ran Round the deep sky keen vital undulant And glancing from the airy peak rolled back The vast illumined gates of volumed cloud In answer to that cry and lifted hand The great Sun sceptred Monarch of the world About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish

The Leper Rebekah Hyneman, 2015-07-08 Excerpt from The Leper And Other Poems It is a good lesson says Hawthorne though it may be a hard one for a person who has dreamed of literary fame and of making for himself a rank among the world's dignitaries by such means to step out of the narrow circle in which his claims are recognised and to find how utterly devoid of significance beyond that circle is all that he achieves and all that he aims at I am now stepping out of that charmed circle and tremble lest the above truth may be too rudely enforced In presenting my unassuming little volume to the public I feel more than the usual share of timidity attendant upon such ventures for I come before them unknown and unnamed To my co religionists I offer no apology the very sincere love I bear for the faith of my adoption will be to them a sufficient apology for my indifferent poetry and I trust cause them to overlook much that might otherwise be condemned But to those whose path is not as mine and who may not be disposed to judge with equal leniency I have no excuse to offer but screen myself behind the shield of insignificance
