Century City Tate Modern (Gallery),2001 Explores the relationship between the metropolis and the creation of art focusing on the art centers of Paris New York Vienna Moscow London Bombay Lagos and Tokyo and profiling the artists who were inspired by those locales After Courbet Marnin Ehrling Young,2005 The Publishers Weekly ,1980 Art and Social Change Will Bradley,Charles Esche,2007 This reader gathers together an international selection of artists proposals manifestos theoretical texts and public declarations that focus on the question of political engagement and the possibility of social change Back cover Phantoms of the Imagination Abraham Marie Hammacher,1981 Choice ,2001 The Fauve Landscape Judi Freeman,Los Angeles County Museum of Art,Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.),Royal Academy of Arts (Great Britain),1990 This text is devoted to the colourful landscapes produced during the Fauvist period of 1904 1908 An essay on the emergence of the Fauve landscape is followed by four essays devoted to individual sites and such topics as Fauvism s impact on tourism and politics Another essay concentrates on the critical landscape in essence the critics reception of these paintings Matisse Braque Derain Vlaminck Dufy Marquet Manguin and Friesz are represented with examples of their works Modern Art Trewin Copplestone,1985 Examines the major changes movements and artists of the last eighty years including the development of new schools of thought such as Cubism and Surrealism and in later years Pop art and Superrealism Google Books The Rise of Mass Advertising Anat Rosenberg,2022 The Rise of Mass Advertising is the first cultural legal history of mass advertising in Britain c 1840 1914 and its legal shaping drawing together the history of capitalism the history of fields of knowledge and the history of modern disenchantment to present a new account of advertising s significance for modernity The Russian Avant-garde ,2003 L'idéal Quotidien Daniel Aquinas Sipe,2003 In this dissertation I study the poetry of two of the nineteenth century s more important authors Charles Baudelaire and St phane Mallarm in order to show how their formulation of a utopian literary practice can serve as a model for understanding the complex interactions between literature and society I contend that authors like Baudelaire and Mallarm no longer show utopia instead they attempt to produce it through the creation of a revolutionary kind of poetic language While this essentially theoretical approach examines something like the discursive logic of the utopian from a twenty first century perspective it does so by building on a historical reading of nineteenth century utopian practice In the introductory stages of my work I show how representations of utopia in pre Revolutionary French literature were fantasies about social possibilities Because utopia was never some distant island not even in Thomas More s 1516 eponymous novel but rather a sophisticated metaphor for existing society the space utopia occupied and defined was that of literary discourse itself In the nineteenth century however two factors conspired to alter the nature and objectives of utopian practice 1 technological advances brought on by the Industrial Revolution and 2 the political void left by the collapse of the French monarchy Together these elements made many citizens of this emerging but still undefined social order believe that true

utopia was imminent Utopian movements flourished The great expectations they engendered became the ideological catalysts for the litany of revolutions that define the century While the impact of utopian thought on nineteenth century French politics is well documented no significant scholarly work to date has investigated the rich interplay between utopia literary production and society I argue this is because the subject is embroiled in one of the great paradoxes of nineteenth century literature For the closer society thought itself to utopia the more superfluous abstract literary fantasies of the social sphere became By mid century however these utopian social movements begin to disintegrate under the weight of their untenable dreams It is at this point I contend that utopia resurfaces in the literary but in entirely new and unexpected ways in the formulation of a dystopian literary model in Baudelaire s Pauvre Belgique and in the fetishisation of female bodies in Mallarm s poetry to name two examples If literary scholars have generally ignored the significance of this fundamental shift in utopian literary practice it is I contend because most have viewed the fields it affects as distinctly autonomous Utopian literature has been perceived either as a social political problem or as an aesthetic literary problem but not as both On one hand sociological readings of the era tend to concentrate solely on the causal association between literary production and the introduction of market forces in French publishing circles The New Partridge Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English: J-Z Eric Partridge,2006 Entry includes attestations of the head word s or phrase s usage usually in the form of a quotation Annotation 2006 Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com Forthcoming Books Rose Arny,1999

Posthuman Subjectivity in the Novels of J.G. Ballard Carolyn Lau,2023-07-28 This book proposes that Ballard s novels extrapolate the formation of a posthuman subjectivity that is centred around an affirmative understanding of what a human body can do This new subjectivity transforms constraints and prescribed desires into creative openings in a hyper mediated control society that conditions docile bodies through technology and consumerism Set in surrealist predicaments in postwar affluent Western societies Ballard s novels remind us of the fragile veneer of order in the familiar every day In these moments of crisis complacent characters are compelled to undergo a process of defamiliarisation and transformation of their understanding of the self and the body The ability to form new relationships with the unfamiliar is imperative to survival in a hostile environment Ballard delineates both the possibilities and obstacles of forming these relationships In particular the author attributes the failure to do so to the irreconcilable contradictions of late capitalism The Encarta Book of Quotations Bill Swainson,2000-09-30 Here are 25 000 quotations drawn from the history politics literature religions science and popular culture of the world ranging from the earliest Chinese sages through Shakespeare to the present day The American Film Institute Catalog of Motion Pictures Produced in the United States American Film Institute,1997 After more than fifteen years this initial volume of the American Film Institute Catalog series is again in print The 1920s set covers the important filmmaking period when movies became talkies and the careers of many influential directors and actors were launched Films such as Wings The Phantom of the Opera All Quiet on the Western Front and The Jazz Singer are included in
