Geneviève Dumas

Rue Au Moyen Age:

Santé et société à Montpellier à la fin du Moyen Âge Geneviève Dumas, 2014-11-27 This book examines the social institutional and cultural setting of medical practices in the medieval town of Montpellier which boasted one of the first universities of the middle ages and a famous school of medicine Some of its most celebrated masters and their medical works have been thoroughly studied but few of them try to put these in context with a thriving urban community of merchants and craftsmen that were at the core of the city council Their concurrent efforts will endow Montpellier of a rich health care system featuring not only the university masters but also the city's barber surgeons and apothecaries Their collective fate is revealed here in an integrated picture of health and society in the middle ages

Roads to Health G. Geltner, 2019-08-02 In Roads to Health G. Geltner demonstrates that urban dwellers in medieval Italy had a keen sense of the dangers to their health posed by conditions of overcrowding shortages of food and clean water air pollution and the improper disposal of human and animal waste He consults scientific narrative and normative sources that detailed and consistently denounced the physical and environmental hazards urban communities faced latrines improperly installed and sewers blocked animals left to roam free and carcasses left rotting on public byways and thoroughfares congested by artisanal and commercial activities that impeded circulation polluted waterways and raised miasmas However as Geltner shows numerous administrative records also offer ample evidence of the concrete measures cities took to ameliorate unhealthy conditions Toiling on the frontlines were public functionaries generally known as viarii or road masters appointed to maintain their community's infrastructures and police pertinent human and animal behavior Operating on a parallel track were the camparii or field masters charged with protecting the city's hinterlands and thereby the quality of what would reach urban markets taverns ovens and mills Roads to Health provides a critical overview of the mandates and activities of the viarii and camparii as enforcers of preventive health and safety policies between roughly 1250 and 1500 and offers three extended case studies for Lucca Bologna and the smaller Piedmont town of Pinerolo In telling their stories Geltner contends that preventive health practices while scientifically informed emerged neither solely from a centralized regime nor as a reaction to the onset of the Black Death Instead they were typically negotiated by diverse stakeholders including neighborhood residents officials artisans and clergymen and fostered throughout the centuries by a steady concern for people's greater health

as Professor Bergier shows in this selection of his work should not be considered an impassable barrier nor an isolated region but rather as an integral part of the history of Europe The lowlanders typical view of the mountains as fearful heights to be crossed and the image of those who lived there as existing in a delicate balance with nature are part only of the story These articles are particularly concerned with transalpine traffic and the different routes it took in response to changing circumstances in the lands to south and north and with the exploitation and use of mountain resources A number aim also to identify the particularities of the mountain way of life and its social and political organisation

Medieval Violence Hannah Skoda,2013-02-21 Medieval Violence provides a detailed analysis of the practice of medieval brutality focusing on a thriving region of northern France in the late thirteenth and early fourteenth centuries It examines how violence was conceptualised in this period and uses this framework to investigate street violence tavern brawls urban rebellions student misbehaviour and domestic violence The interactions between these various forms of violence are examined in order to demonstrate the complex and communicative nature of medieval brutality What is often dismissed as dysfunctional behaviour is shown to have been highly strategic and socially integral Violence was a performance dependent upon the spaces in which it took place Indeed brutality was contingent upon social and cultural structures At the same time the common stereotype of the thoughtlessly brutal Middle Ages is challenged as attitudes towards violence are revealed to have been complex troubled and ambivalent Whether violence could function effectively as a form of communication which could order and harmonise society or whether it inevitably degenerated into chaotic disorder where meaning was multivalent and incomprehensible remained a matter of ongoing debate in a variety of contexts Using a variety of source material including legal records popular literature and sermons Hannah Skoda explores experiences of and attitudes towards violence and highlights profound contemporary ambiguity concerning its nature and legitimacy

Medieval Warfare 1300-1450 Kelly DeVries,2017-05-15 War was epidemic in the late Middle Ages It affected every land and all peoples from Scotland and Scandinavia in the north to the southern Mediterranean Sea coastlines of Morocco North Africa Egypt and the Middle East in the south from Ireland and Spain in the west to Russia and Turkey in the east Nowhere was peaceful for any significant amount of time The period also saw significant changes in military theory and practice which altered the ways in which campaigns were conducted battles fought and sieges laid and changes in the leadership recruitment training supply and financing of armies There were changes in the relationship between those waging warfare from generals to irregular troops and the society in which they lived and for or against which they fought the frequency of popular rebellions and the participation in them by townspeople and peasants changes in the desire to undertake Crusades and changes in technology including but not limited to gunpowder weapons This collection gathers together some of the best published work on these topics The first section of seven papers show that throughout Europe in the later Middle Ages generals led and armies followed what are usually defined as modern strategy and tactics contrary to popular belief The second part reprints nine works that examine the often neglected aspects of the process of putting and keeping together a late medieval army In the third section the authors discuss various ways that warfare in the fourteenth and fifteenth century affected the society of that period The final sections cover popular rebellions and crusading

Contact and Exchange in Later Medieval Europe Hannah Skoda, Patrick Lantschner, R. L. J. Shaw, 2012

The complexity of the interplay and relationships over various borders in medieval Europe is here fully teased out The processes by which ideas objects texts and political thought and experience moved across boundaries in the Middle Ages form the focus of this book which also seeks to reassess the nature of the boundaries themselves it thus appropriately reflects a major theme of Dr Malcolm Vale's work which the essays collected here honour They suggest ways of breaking down established historiographical paradigms of Europe as a set of distinct polities achieving a more nuanced picture in which people and objects were constantly moving and challenging previous conceptions of units and borders The first section examines the construction of boundaries and units in the later Middle Ages via topics ranging from linguistic units to social stratifications and geographically from the Netherlands and Scotland to Gascony and the Iberian peninsula it reveals how much the relationship between exchange and boundaries was reciprocal The second section considers the mechanisms by which it took place from West Africa to Italy and Flanders and discusses the actual exchange of people texts and unusual artefacts Overall the essays bear witness to the constant interplay and interconnections throughout medieval Europe and beyond Contributors Paul Booth Maria João Violante Branco Rita Costa Gomes Mario Damen Jan Dumolyn Jean Dunbabin Jean Philippe Genet Michael Jones Maurice Keen Frédéric Lachaud Patrick Lantschner Guilhem Pèpin R. Vivre en ville au Moyen-Âge Jean-Pierre Leguay, 2006

Alcohol, Violence, and Disorder in Traditional Europe A. Lynn Martin, 2009-10-01

Traditional Europe had high levels of violence and of alcohol consumption both higher than they are in modern Western societies where studies demonstrate a link between violence and alcohol A Lynn Martin uses an anthropological approach to examine drinking drinking establishments violence and disorder and compares the wine producing south with the beer drinking north and Catholic France and Italy with Protestant England and explores whether alcohol consumption can also explain the violence and disorder of traditional Europe Both Catholic and Protestant moralists believed in the link and they condemned drunkenness and drinking establishments for causing violence and disorder They did not advocate complete abstinence however for alcoholic beverages had an important role in most people's diets Less appreciated by the moralists was alcohol's function as the ubiquitous social lubricant and the increasing importance of alehouses and taverns as centers of popular recreation The study utilizes both quantitative and qualitative evidence from a wide variety of sources to question the beliefs of the moralists and the assumptions of modern scholars about the role of alcohol and drinking establishments in causing violence and disorder It ends by analyzing the often conflicting regulations of local regional and national governments that attempted to ensure that their citizens had a reliable supply of good drink at a reasonable cost but also to control who drank what where when and how No other comparable book examines the relationship of alcohol to violence and disorder during this period Handbook of Medieval Culture.

Volume 3 Albrecht Classen, 2015-08-31 A follow up publication to the Handbook of Medieval Studies this new reference work turns to a different focus medieval culture Medieval research has grown tremendously in depth and breadth over the last decades Particularly our understanding of medieval culture of the basic living conditions and the specific value system prevalent at that time has considerably expanded to a point where we are in danger of no longer seeing the proverbial forest for the trees The present innovative handbook offers compact articles on essential topics ideals specific knowledge and concepts defining the medieval world as comprehensively as possible The topics covered in this new handbook pertain to issues such as love and marriage belief in God hell and the devil education lordship and servitude Christianity versus Judaism and Islam health medicine the rural world the rise of the urban class travel roads and bridges entertainment games and sport activities numbers measuring the education system the papacy saints the senses death and money The Comic Text Brian J. Levy, 2021-11-01 This book offers a close analysis of the Old French fabliaux that medieval corpus of short comic tales in narrative verse celebrated sometimes notorious for their irreverence and sexual content It picks out certain key images such as gambling illness and damnation which develop into themes and motifs running through all the texts and which add layers of ironic patterning to the essential subject matter and narrative of each fabliau These elements in many respects the small print of the joke furnish the comic text with many rhythms and echoes all contributing to the ludic adversarial nature of the text They are extremely flexible serving as a rhetoric of depiction that extends from broad comic motif to the lightest triggering of a mocking smile This volume will be of interest to all students of medieval culture Old French literature and the development of the short or comic narrative
