Rules And Rights In The Middle East:

Rules and Rights in the Middle East Ellis Goldberg, Reşat Kasaba, Joel S. Migdal, 1993 As a whole the book demonstrates that neither the region's overgrown state structures nor the corresponding weakness of autonomous societal organizations can be explained by referring to cultural characteristics of the people in the Middle East or to the precepts of their religions. True explanations the authors argue should be framed historically. They pay special attention to the relations among the various groups and regions of the Middle East and to those between the Middle East and western Europe. The authors emphasize the important role played by economic issues and constraints in broadening or narrowing the scope of democracy at various points in time and finally they are in agreement in seeing religion and culture of the Middle East not in static and essentialist terms but as dynamic phenomena that grow independently and even in opposition to existing political authorities.

BOOK JACKET Introduction to Middle Eastern Law Chibli Mallat, 2007-07-12 This book provides an introduction to the laws of the Middle East defining the contours of a field of study that deserves to be called Middle Eastern law. It introduces Middle Eastern law as a reflection of legal styles many of which are shared by Islamic law and the laws of Christian and Jewish Near Eastern communities. It offers a detailed survey of the foundations of Middle Eastern Law using court archives and an array of legal sources from the earliest records of Hammurabi to the massive compendia of law in the Islamic classical age through to the latest decisions of Middle Eastern high courts. It focuses on the way legislators and courts conceive of law and apply it in the Middle East. It builds on the author's extensive legal practice with the aim of introducing the Middle Eastern law's main sources and concepts in a manner accessible to non-specialist legal scholars and practitioners alike. The book begins with an exploration of the depth and variety of Middle Eastern law introducing the concepts of shari'a, fiqh and qanun which all mean law and dwelling on Islamic law as the common law of the Middle East. It provides a historical introduction to the contemporary Middle East exploring political systems, constitutional law, judicial review, the laws of tort and obligations, commercial law including Islamic banking, company law, capital markets and commercial arbitration and examines legislative reform in family law and the position of women in the legal system. The author considers the interaction between Islamic and Western laws and includes a bibliography designed for further research into the jurisdictions and themes explored throughout the book.

Property, Social Structure, and Law in the Modern Middle East Ann E.

Mayer, 1985-09-01 For too long the study of law and society in the modern Middle East has been left to specialists in narrow subcategories of law or the social sciences. Property, Social Structure, and Law in the Modern Middle East lays the groundwork for a new field of scholarship in which analysis of the social dimensions of law and the legal dimensions of social structure are integrated. It offers the stimulus of a variety of new models of scholarship by a distinguished international group of contributors whose work shares a common focus on regimes of property in the societies of the modern Middle East. The case studies examine the regulations of many kinds of property in relation to the social structures of selected Middle Eastern communities from the eighteenth century to the present. Most of the societies studied are subjected to pressures for rapid modernization and adjustment to major economic transformations. The book features comparisons of property rights and relations under regimes of Islamic and customary law as well as modern statutory law. Highlighted are new patterns of intervention by modern Middle Eastern states to alter traditional regimes of property and to transform the accompanying social structures. Their implications for development are also considered. The book's notes and bibliographies constitute a valuable resource for anyone interested in further research.

Constitutional Politics in the Middle East Said Amir Arjomand, 2008-01-17. This book is the first comparative and interdisciplinary study of constitutional politics and constitution making in the Middle East. The historical background and setting are fully explored in two substantial essays by Linda Darling and Said Amir Arjomand placing the contemporary experience in the contexts respectively of the ancient Middle Eastern legal and political tradition and of the nineteenth and twentieth century legal codification and political modernization. These are followed by Ann Mayer's general analysis of the treatment of human rights in relation to Islam in Middle Eastern constitutions and Nathan Brown's comparative scrutiny of the process of constitution making in Iran, Afghanistan and Iraq with reference to the available constitutional theories which are shown to throw little or no light on it. The remaining essays are country by country case studies of Turkey, Afghanistan and Iraq, the case of Iran having been covered by Arjomand as the special point of reference. Mehmet Fevzi Bilgin examines the making and subsequent transformation of the Turkish Constitution of 1982 against current theories of constitutional and deliberative democracy while Hootan Shambayati examines the institutional mechanism for protecting the ideological foundations of the Turkish Republic, most notably the Turkish Constitutional Court which offers a surprising parallel to the Iranian Council of Guardians. Arjomand's introduction brings together the bumpy experience of the Middle East along the long road to political reconstruction through constitution making and constitutional reform, drawing some general analytical lessons from it and showing the consequences of the origins of the constitutions of Turkey and Iran in revolutions and of Afghanistan and Iraq in war and foreign invasion.

Land Law in Middle Eastern Countries Oleg Igorevich Krassov, 2022. The monograph focuses on the basic features of the legal systems of the Middle Eastern countries: land law in force in these countries, Islamic land and water law, Bedouin tribal land ownership, customary water rights. The monograph contains a description of the regime of property and land in Jewish law. The author analyzes the current state of land law in the Middle Eastern countries including title to land, title to other natural resources, types of rights to land, correlation of formal law and conventional land tenure systems. For students, graduate students and teachers of law schools, employees of legislative, executive and judicial authorities as well as for all those interested in issues of land civil law and comparative jurisprudence.

Instability in the Middle East
Karel Černý, 2017-07-01 Middle Eastern instability is manifest externally in many ways by crises afflicting governing regimes the rise of political Islam terrorism revolution civil war increased migration and the collapse of many states This book examines the roots of this instability using a theoretically original and empirically supported historical sociological comparative analysis Up till now interpretations of the development of the post colonial Middle East have been dominated by two opposing theses The first views the region as backward unchanging and rigid the second as undergoing excessively rapid transformation This book offers an alternative perspective focusing on the highly uneven and unsynchronised pace of change in individual dimensions of Middle Eastern modernisation What we are seeing is 1 rapid socio demographic change a sharp increase in the population and the proportion of young people rapid urbanisation and the expansion of the media and education 2 slower and unstable economic change dependency on oil exports high unemployment and 3 slow or regressive political change erosion of the capacity to govern the absence of democratisation and liberalisation The theoretical model employed emerged from a critical reading of theories of modernisation and a concept of multiple modernities that also allows for an interrogation of the broader cultural religious and international political context of uneven modernisation in the Middle East This model is then tested empirically using the time series 1960 2010 of dozens of indicators covering the demographic social economic and political dimensions of the modernisation process In general the book does not concentrate on externally monitorable political actors and their rivalries as so often is the case Instead it focuses on the political rivalries of deep long term cumulative demographic social and economic change taking place beneath the surface It looks at changes that are not simply taking place in individual countries of the Middle East but since the end of the Second World War have affected the entire region and are responsible for the emergence of a Middle East completely different to that to which we
