Investing in Place Sean Markey, Greg Halseth, Don Manson, 2012-08-01 The future of northern British Columbia a vast resource rich region of vibrant cultures and diverse communities could be either driven by a narrow economic agenda or guided by innovative place based solutions that seek to build viable communities and resilient local and regional economies Investing in Place is about creating the foundations for renewing northern British Columbia's rural and small town economies Markey Halseth and Manson argue that renewal is not about nostalgic reliance on the policies and economic strategies of the past rather it is about building a pragmatic and innovative vision for development one that acknowledges both the opportunities and the challenges posed by resource development and global and technological change For policy makers and residents alike the path to renewal lies in place based development which consists of people working together at all levels of the community and region to take advantage of local opportunities in a sustainable responsible way Bibliography of Agriculture with Subject Index, 1993-10 A Social Geography of Canada Guy M. Robinson, 2013-12-30 This collection of essays focus on subjects which formed the basis of his life's work the changing character of Canadian landscape and society and the urbanization of that society including aspects of its historical evolution its present spacial forms and current social issues     The Theory, Practice and Potential of Regional Development Kelly Vodden, David J.A. Douglas, Sean Markey, Sarah Minnes, Bill Reimer, 2019-07-04 Canadian regional development today involves multiple actors operating within nested scales from local to national and even international levels Recent approaches to making sense of this complexity have drawn on concepts such as multi level governance relational assets integration innovation and learning regions These new regionalist concepts have become increasingly global in their formation and application yet there has been little critical analysis of Canadian regional development policies and programs or the theories and concepts upon which many contemporary regional development strategies are implicitly based This volume offers the results of five years of cutting edge empirical and theoretical analysis of changes in Canadian regional development and the potential of new approaches for improving the well being of Canadian communities and regions with an emphasis on rural regions It situates the Canadian approach within comparative experiences and debates offering the opportunity for broader lessons to be learnt This book will be of interest to policy makers and practitioners across Canada and in other jurisdictions where lessons from the Canadian experience may be applicable At the same time the volume contributes to and updates regional development theories and concepts that are taught in our universities and colleges and upon which future research and analysis will build     No Home in a Homeland

Julia Christensen, 2017-02-17 The Dene a traditionally nomadic people have no word for homelessness a rare condition in the Canadian North prior to the 1990s In No Home in a Homeland Julia Christensen documents the rise of Indigenous homelessness and argues that this alarming trend will continue so long as policy makers continue to ignore northern perspectives and root causes which lie deep in the region s colonial past Christensen interweaves analysis of the region s unique history with the personal stories of people living homeless in two cities Yellowknife and Inuvik These individual and collective narratives tell a larger story of displacement and exclusion residential schools and family breakdown addiction and poor mental health poverty and unemployment and urbanization and institutionalization But they also tell a story of hope and renewal Understanding what it means to be homeless in the North and how Indigenous people think about home and homemaking is the first step Christensen argues on the path to decolonizing existing approaches and practices

Immigration and Canada Alan Simmons, 2010 Immigration and Canada provides readers with a vital introduction to the field of international migration studies This original book presents an integrated critical perspective on Canadian immigration policies main trends and social economic and cultural impacts It offers up to date information on migration patterns and examines Canada in an evolving global transnational system that gives rise to imagined futures and contrasting real outcomes Key issues and debates include nation building and the historical roots of Canadian immigration contemporary global migration the changing national and ethnic origins of immigrants immigrants jobs wages and the economy designer immigrants and the brain gain the business of migration demographic impacts of immigration racism and prejudice facing

excluded and marginalized populations transnational citizens diasporas emerging identities and struggles to belong refugees temporary workers and foreign visa workers undocumented migration and migrant trafficking the baby bust and the future of international migration
