Richards, 2012-03-15 This book offers a comprehensive overview of the ways in which Psychology has engaged with race and racism issues since the late 19th century It emphasizes the complexities and convolutions of the story and attempts to elucidate the subtleties and occasional paradoxes that have arisen as a result This new edition updates the research contained in the first edition and includes brand new chapters These additional chapters draw attention to the importance of the South African Black Consciousness movement and Post colonial Psychology explore recent additional historical research on the fears of hybridisation contain new material on French colonial psychiatry and discuss the awkward status of virtually all the language and terms currently used for discussion of the topic This important and controversial book has proved to be a vital text both as a point of departure for more in depth inquiries and also as an essential reference tool The additional up to date material included in this new edition makes the book an even more valuable resource to those working in and studying psychology and also for anyone concerned with the race issue either professionally or personally Managing

Organizations Stewart R Clegg, Cynthia Hardy, Walter R Nord, 1999-04-29 In Managing Organizations Stewart Clegg Cynthia Hardy and Walter Nord explore the major issues and debates in management and organization The textbook addresses key topics such as leadership decision making and innovation in organizations alongside such themes as diversity globalization and ecology Students and teachers of management will find this a comprehensive and wide ranging resource on the core issues for contemporary managers and organizations Gender and the Media Rosalind Gill, 2015-10-02 Written in a clear and accessible style with lots of examples from Anglo American media Gender and the Media offers a critical introduction to the study of gender in the media and an up to date assessment of the key issues and debates Eschewing a straightforwardly positive or negative assessment the book explores the contradictory character of contemporary gender representations where confident expressions of girl power sit alongside reports of epidemic levels of anorexia among young women moral panics about the impact on men of idealized representations of the six pack but near silence about the pervasive resexualization of women's bodies along with a growing use of irony and playfulness that render critique extremely difficult. The book looks in depth at five areas of media: talk shows, magazines, news, advertising and contemporary screen and paperback romances to examine how representations of women and men are changing in the twenty-first century partly in response to feminist, queer and anti-racist critique. Gender and the Media is also concerned with the theoretical tools available for analysing representations. A range of approaches from semiotics to postcolonial theory are discussed and Gill asks how useful notions such as objectification, backlash and positive images are for making sense of gender in today's Western media. Finally Gender and the Media also raises questions about cultural politics: namely what forms of critique and intervention are effective at a moment when ironic quotation marks seem to protect much media content from criticism and when much media content from Sex and the City to revenge adverts can be labelled postfeminist. This is a book that will be of particular interest to students and scholars in gender and media studies as well as those in sociology and cultural studies more generally.

What Is an American Muslim? Abdullahi Ahmed An-Na'im, 2014-01-02. Since 2001 there has been a tremendous backlash against the very idea that it is possible to be both American and Muslim: the controversy over the so-called Ground Zero Mosque and the attempts to ban sharia law are examples. Even within the Muslim community many leaders urge believers to integrate more fully into the mainstream of American life. Is it possible to be both fully American and devoutly Muslim? An American citizen born and raised in the Sudan, an internationally recognized scholar of Islam and a human rights activist, Abdullahi Ahmed An-Na'im brings a unique perspective to this crucial question. By demanding that Muslims assimilate, he argues, allies and critics alike assume that American Muslims are a monolithic bloc, a permanent minority set apart from that which is truly American. An-Na'im wholeheartedly rejects this notion and urges Muslims to embrace their faith without fear. Islam, he argues, is one of many dimensions of identity. Muslims are also members of different ethnic groups, political parties and social circles, not to mention husbands and wives, fathers and mothers, baseball fans and movie buffs. In short, Muslims share a vast array of identities with other Americans, but the most important identity they all share is as citizens. Muslims, An-Na'im argues, must embrace the full range of rights and responsibilities that come with American citizenship and participate fully in civic life while at the same time asserting their right to define their faith for themselves. They must view themselves simply as American citizens who happen to be Muslims. What Is an American Muslim is a bold and provocative take on the future of Islam in America.

Feminist mental health activism in England, c. 1968-95 Kate Mahoney, 2023-12-12. Feminist mental health activism in England c. 1968-1995 provides the first in-depth examination of feminist mental health activism in England, employing original oral history interviews alongside detailed case studies of unexplored feminist initiatives. It charts how feminist activists in the late 1960s initially rejected psychological approaches before employing a range of therapies to understand themselves and support one another. This book charts the emergence of feminist mental health groups in the early 1970s the development of feminist therapy across the 1980s and the influence of feminist politics on national charity Mind in the 1990s It examines what participation in feminist activism felt like demonstrating how these emotions have influenced the construction of its history The book simultaneously forges a new direction in the history of mental healthcare in postwar England establishing how feminists grassroots support for women redefined community care

EBOOK: Race, Masculinity and Schooling Louise Archer,2003-12-16 a welcome and valuable contribution because of Archer s ability to reveal for her readers the complex and dynamic ways in which young Muslim Asian boys in England construct their identities Through a careful analysis she demonstrates how stereotypes and inequalities have a real impact on the ways in which these young people negotiate their identities reminding us of the importance of reading identities within their different contexts an important and refreshing book Journal of Education Policy Muslim boys are currently hot topics of social and educational debate they have been associated with global terrorism fundamentalism urban rioting and within the context of schooling they appear to be suffering from disproportionately high rates of exclusion and low rates of achievement and post 16 progression This timely and innovative book examines the issues in detail fore grounding Muslim boys own views of their lives and schooling The book explores the complex interplay between race ethnicity religion masculinity and social class within Muslim boys lives Attention is also given to the role of the teacher researcher within the boys production of masculine identities The book draws on illuminating new research data and reviews a wide range of literature on masculinity and race ethnicity to enable readers to engage with complex social inequalities within the context of secondary schooling

Black Youth Matters Cecile Wright,P.J. Standen,Tina Patel,2009-12-04 How do young black students respond resist and work to transform their school experience How do young people adapt survive and then succeed in spite of their negative school experience For an increasing number of marginalized black youth the paths to social success can actually lie outside school walls Black Youth Matters presents a compelling empirical picture of black youth who creatively respond to permanent school exclusion Structural approaches to social stratification often set the terms of discussion around isolated narratives of individual success stories In this book the authors intervene with a new point of view by focusing instead on collectives of broader black communities They both engage with and move beyond structural models of stratification and education thereby affirming the enduring importance of individual and collective aspiration an impulse that has not been exhausted for black youth even in the face of systematic longstanding and overwhelming inequality Based on long term ethnographic research with young people permanently excluded from school Black Youth Matters examines the resourcefulness of young black people in overcoming the process of school failure to forge more positive futures for themselves This book should be of interest to sociologists educators anthropologists policy makers as well as community activists
