3D Recording and Interpretation for Maritime Archaeology John K. McCarthy, Jonathan Benjamin, Trevor Winton, Wendy van Duivenvoorde, 2019-03-06 This open access peer reviewed volume was inspired by the UNESCO UNITWIN Network for Underwater Archaeology International Workshop held at Flinders University Adelaide Australia in November 2016 Content is based on but not limited to the work presented at the workshop which was dedicated to 3D recording and interpretation for maritime archaeology The volume consists of contributions from leading international experts as well as up and coming early career researchers from around the globe The content of the book includes recording and analysis of maritime archaeology through emerging technologies including both practical and theoretical contributions Topics include photogrammetric recording laser scanning marine geophysical 3D survey techniques virtual reality 3D modelling and reconstruction data integration and Geographic Information Systems The principal incentive for this publication is the ongoing rapid shift in the methodologies of maritime archaeology within recent years and a marked increase in the use of 3D and digital approaches This convergence of digital technologies such as underwater photography and photogrammetry 3D sonar 3D virtual reality and 3D printing has highlighted a pressing need for these new methodologies to be considered together both in terms of defining the state of the art and for consideration of future directions As a scholarly publication the audience for the book includes students and researchers as well as professionals working in various aspects of archaeology heritage management education museums and public policy It will be of special interest to those working in the field of coastal cultural resource management and underwater archaeology but will also be of broader interest to anyone interested in archaeology and to those in other disciplines who are now engaging with 3D recording and visualization

Smartphone-Based 3D Indoor Localization and Navigation Frank Ebner, 2021-01-10 During the last century navigation systems have become ubiquitous and guide drivers cyclists and pedestrians towards their desired destinations While operating worldwide they rely on line of sight conditions towards satellites and are thus limited to outdoor areas However finding a gate within an airport a ward within a hospital or a university's auditorium also represent navigation problems To provide navigation within such indoor environments new approaches are required This thesis examines pedestrian 3D indoor localization and navigation using commodity smartphones A desirable target platform always at hand and equipped with a multitude of sensors The IMU accelerometer gyroscope magnetometer and barometer allow for pedestrian dead reckoning that is estimating relative location changes Absolute whereabouts can be determined via Wi-Fi and infrastructure present within most public buildings or by using Bluetooth Low Energy Beacons as inexpensive supplement. The building's 3D floorplan not only enables navigation but also increases accuracy by preventing impossible movements and serves as a visual reference for the pedestrian. All aforementioned information is fused by recursive density estimation based on a particle filter. The conducted experiments cover both theoretical backgrounds and real world use cases. All discussed approaches utilize the infrastructure found within most public buildings are easy to set up and maintain. Overall this thesis results in an indoor localization and navigation system that can be easily deployed without requiring any special hardware components.
