Re-Viewing British Cinema, 1900-1992 Wheeler W. Dixon,1994-01-01 Re Viewing British Cinema 1900 1992 is a collection of essays on British cinema history and practice It offers both the casual reader and the film scholar a different view of British filmmaking during the past century Arranged in chronological order the book explores those areas of British cinema that have not been fully examined in other works and also offers fresh interpretations of a number of classic films From the work of Frederic Villiers the pioneering British newsreel cameraman who at the turn of the century brought home images of battlefield carnage to essays on the British B film and the long forgotten Independent Frame method of film production to new readings of classics such as The Red Shoes Passport to Pimlico and Peeping Tom the authors offer a look behind the scenes of the British film industry and engage the reader in some of the most compelling interpretational and historical issues of recent film history and critical theory In addition the volume contains a number of interviews with such key directors as Stephen Frears Terence Davies Wendy Toye and Lindsay Anderson and also pays particular attention to the work of early twentieth century British feminist filmmakers whose films have often been ignored by conventional film theory and history It also offers new material on the British film noir the English horror film and the pioneering gay director Brian Desmond Hurst Taken as a whole this book presents an entirely new series of viewpoints on British film practice theory and reception and affords a fresh and vibrant view of the British film medium

Harry Alan Towers Dave Mann,2014-10-21 Harry Alan Towers reputation rests upon a corpus of 95 low budget productions shot post haste in every corner of the globe He took an integral part however in the development of the protocols that now underpin much transnational film production and he must be regarded as a pioneer Towers slash and burn strategy focused on parasitic back to back productions funded by rights bundles that were pre sold globally This strategy was substantially derived from his early days in broadcasting wherein he acted as a go between in the American and the British Commonwealth markets Though he became adept at procuring funds from pariah regimes and black market economies primarily he continued to act as a broker bringing together American equity investment and European finance under the auspices of EC co production agreements He was also quick to exploit the burgeoning niche markets becoming available in the wake of technological developments and government initiatives
