American Women's Regionalist Fiction Monika Elbert, Rita Bode, 2021-01-04 American Women's Regionalist Fiction Mapping the Gothic seeks to redress the monolithic vision of American Gothic by analyzing the various sectional or regional attempts to Gothicize what is most claustrophobic or peculiar about local history Since women writers were often relegated to inferior status it is especially compelling to look at women from the Gothic perspective The regionalist Gothic develops along the line of difference and not unity thus emphasizing regional peculiarities or a sense of superiority in terms of regional history natural landscapes immigrant customs folk tales or idiosyncratic ways The essays study the uncanny or the haunting quality of the commonplace as Hawthorne would have it in his introduction to The House of the Seven Gables in regionalist Gothic fiction by a wide range of women writers between ca 1850 and 1930 This collection seeks to examine how if the regionalist perspective is small limited and stultifying and leads to Gothic moments or whether the intersection between local and national leads to a clash that is jarring and Gothic in nature

The Supernatural in Short Fiction of the Americas Dana Del George, 2001-08-30 The continuing cultural encounters of the Americas between European and indigenous cultures and between scientific materialism and premodern supernaturalism have originated new narrative forms While supernatural short fiction of the Americas belongs to the broad category of the fantastic which is generally approached synchronically reading audiences of the past 200 years have shifted their beliefs about the supernatural several times While nineteenth century readers understood science as real and the supernatural as imaginary modern audiences recognize both as inaccurate a shift which allows authors of supernatural fiction to celebrate premodern indigenous beliefs which were once disdained by a materialist culture This book situates supernatural short fiction of the Americas within the changing cultural and epistemological contexts of the last 200 years and explores how authors have drawn upon a wealth of indigenous traditions The book begins with a discussion of theories of the supernatural and the fantastic It then looks at some of the first encounters of European and Native American supernatural beliefs and points to the common elements of these early traditions The volume next focuses on American literature of the nineteenth century which has a complex fusion of materialist biases and metaphysical fascinations The final portion of the book gives greater attention to Spanish American literature and the blending of the supernatural with attitudes of nostalgia and uncertainty
