 Ethnographer's Magic and Other Essays in the History of Anthropology* George W. Stocking, 1992 George Stocking has been widely recognized as the premier historian of anthropology ever since the publication of his first volume of essays Race Culture and Evolution in 1968 As editor of several publications including the highly acclaimed History of Anthropology series he has led the movement to establish the history of anthropology as a recognized research specialization In addition to the study of Victorian Anthropology his work includes numerous essays covering a wide range of anthropological topics The eight essays collected in The Ethnographer's Magic consider the emergence of anthropology since the late nineteenth century as an academic discipline grounded in systematic fieldwork Drawing extensively on unpublished manuscript materials the essays focus primarily on Franz Boas and Bronislaw Malinowski the leading figures in the American and the British academic fieldwork traditions According to George Marcus of Rice University the essays represent the most informative and insightful writings on Malinowski and Boas and their legacies that are yet available Beyond their biographical material the essays here touch upon major themes in the history of anthropology its powerfully mythic aspect and persistent strain of romantic primitivism the contradictions of its relationship to the larger sociopolitical sphere its problematic integration of a variety of natural scientific and humanistic inquiries and the tension between its scientific aspirations and its subjectively acquired data To provide an overview against which to read the other essays Stocking has also included a sketch of the history of anthropology from the ancient Greeks to the present For this collection Stocking has written prefatory commentaries for each of the essays as well as two more extended contextualizing pieces An introductory essay Retrospective Prescriptive Reflections places the volume in autobiographical and historiographical context the Afterword Postscriptive Prospective Reflections reconsiders major themes of the essays in relation to the recent past and present situation of academic anthropology

Getting a Life Benjamin Woo, 2018-03-31 Comic book superheroes fantasy kingdoms and futuristic starships have become inescapable features of today s pop culture landscape and the people we used to deride as nerds or geeks have ridden their popularity and visibility to mainstream recognition It seems it s finally hip to be square Yet these conventionalized representations of geek culture typically ignore the real people who have invested time and resources to make it what it is Getting a Life recentres our understanding of geek culture on the everyday lives of its participants drawing on fieldwork in comic book shops game stores and conventions including in depth interviews with ordinary members of the overlapping communities of fans and enthusiasts Benjamin Woo shows how geek culture is a set of interconnected social practices that are associated with popular media He argues that typical depictions of mass mediated entertainment as something that isolates and pacifies its audiences are flawed because they do not account for the conversations relationships communities and identities that are created by engaging with the products of mass culture Getting a Life combines engaging interview material with lucid interpretation and a clear interdisciplinary framework The volume is both an accessible introduction to this contemporary subculture and an exploration of the ethical possibilities of a life lived with media
