The Moviegoing Experience, 1968-2001 Richard W. Haines, 2010-06-28 The experience of going to the movies be it a single screen theater twin multiplex or drive in is affected by many different factors that have shifted over the years Just as movies emerged from silent to talking black and white to color there has invariably been change in the way movies are made copied distributed and viewed This change in the moviegoing experience for better or for worse is worth studying This work examines the American moviegoing experience from 1968 to 2001 the way in which movies are made and regulated including the demise of the Production Code and the emergence of the ratings system as well as changes in lighting cinematography and coloring techniques The projection practices of the past and present during and after the presence of the Projectionists Union and the advent of the platter which allowed for automated projection are discussed How home video and cable affected the content of films after the eighties and the history of computerized special effects leading to the development of digital cinema projection are included The work also covers the changing types of venues over the last third of a century and other aspects that affect positively or negatively the entire moviegoing experience Praying the Movies Edward McNulty, 2001-01-01 Praying the Movies is a collection of thirty one devotions that connect movies with the spiritual life of moviegoers Each devotion contains a passage from Scripture a description of a scene from a popular film and a meditation connecting the themes in the scene to the Scripture passage Also included in each devotion are questions to encourage further reflection a suggestion for a hymn and a brief prayer Rating Entertainment Ratings United States. directions that industry observers are questioning whether the rating system carries any validity at all As a movie reviewer for more than thirty years and as a watchful caretaker parent author Chris Hicks learned pretty quickly that Hollywood movers and shakers like to push the envelope as they put it and it doesn't seem to matter whether it's a children's film or an adult movie It's not just R rated movies that are troubling PG 13s and even PGs can also be problematic And sometimes worse than problematic Simply put relying on the Motion Picture Association of America to make choices for you or your children is a mistake Breaking down the history of the film rating system and exploring today's ratings confusion and quagmire Hicks provides valuable information to help parents know how to interpret and what to expect from today's movies

Channeling Violence James T. Hamilton, 2021-04-13 If it bleeds it leads The phrase captures television news directors famed preference for opening newscasts with the most violent stories they can find And what is true for news is often true for entertainment programming where violence is used as a product to attract both viewers and sponsors In this book James Hamilton presents the first major theoretical and empirical examination of the market for television violence Hamilton approaches television violence in the same way that other economists approach the problem of pollution that is as an example of market failure He argues that television violence like pollution generates negative externalities defined as costs borne by others than those involved in the production activity Broadcasters seeking to attract viewers may not fully bear the costs to society of their violent programming if those costs include such factors as increased levels of aggression and crime in society Hamilton goes on to say that the comparison to pollution remains relevant when considering how to deal with the problem Approaches devised to control violent programming such as restricting it to certain times and rating programs according to the violence they contain have parallels in zoning and education policies designed to protect the environment Hamilton examines in detail the microstructure of incentives that operate at every level of television broadcasting from programming and advertising to viewer behavior so that remedies can be devised to reduce violent programming without restricting broadcasters right to compete
