Geographies of Meat Harvey Neo, Jody Emel, 2017-03-16 With the ever rising demand for meat around the world the production of meat has changed dramatically in the past few decades What has brought about the increasing popularity and attendant normalization of factory farms across many parts of the world What are some of the ways to resist such broad convergences in meat production and how successful are they This book locates the answers to these questions at the intersection between the culture science and political economy of meat production and consumption It details how and why techniques of production have spread across the world albeit in a spatially uneven way It argues that the modern meat production and consumption sphere is the outcome of a complex matrix of cultural politics economics and technological faith Drawing from examples across the world including America Europe and Asia the tensions and repercussions of meat production and consumption are also analyzed From a geographical perspective food animals have been given considerably less attention compared to wild animals or pets This book framed conceptually by critical animal studies governmentality and commodification is a theoretically driven and empirically rich study that advances the study of food animals in geography as well as in the wider social sciences

Latinos in the New South Owen J. Furuseth, Heather A. Smith, 2016-12-05 Latinos have emerged as one of the fastest growing ethnic populations in the American South A New South is taking shape in a region where culture and class relations have traditionally been constructed along black white divides and experience absorbing culturally or linguistically foreign immigrants has been limited This book presents a multidisciplinary examination of the impacts and responses across the Southeastern United States to contemporary Latino immigration The rapid and large scale movement of Latinos into the region has challenged old precepts and forced Southerners to confront the impacts of globalization and transnationalism in their daily lives Drawing on theoretical perspectives as well as empirical research the work provides insights into the Latino experience in both urban and rural locales Each chapter is centred on the nexus between the immigrants experiences in settling and adapting to new lives in the American South and the construction of transformed social economic political and cultural spaces Creative Industries and Innovation in Europe Luciana Lazzeretti, 2013 In recent years the study of creativity has shifted from analysis of culture as an end in itself to one of economic enhancement and its capability to generate wealth and promote economic development Increasingly European cities and regions are using the arts to fuel wellbeing and reinvigorate economies after the comparative demise of more traditional industry and manufacturing A growing literature is starting to highlight the innovation capacity of cultural and creative industries CCIs as they intersect the innovation processes of other manufacturing and services sectors with an innovative and creative output Culture and creativity may be a strategic weapon to exit the present crisis and redefine an economic model of sustainable development This book brings together a set of multidisciplinary contributions to investigate the kaleidoscope of European creativity focussing on CCIs and the innovations connected with them The two main questions that this volume aims to address are How can we identify map and define CCIs in Europe And how do they contribute to innovation and sustainable growth The volume is split into two parts The first part deals with the definition measurement and mapping of the geography of European CCIs according to a local economic approach focussing on Italy Spain the UK Austria Denmark and France This section surveys the different industrial typologies and spatial patterns which underline a significant dissimilarity between the North and the South of Europe mainly due to the difference between heritage driven and technology driven countries The section concludes with a case study on a Japanese creative city The second part collects some interesting cases of innovation generated in creative spaces such as cities of art or creative clusters and networks This entails the study of innovations among creative and non creative sectors e g laser technologies in conservation of works of art and design networks in Italy and across European and non European countries e g Spaghetti Western movies in the US or visual artists in New Zealand Finally an innovation capacity of culture that can regenerate mature sectors e g the French food supply chain and Swiss watch Valley or combine the creative and green economics paradigms e g the green creative cities in North Europe is analyzed This book will appeal to academics scholars and practitioners of urban and regional studies cultural and creative economics and managerial and organization studies The Fight for Local Control Campbell F.

Scribner,2016-05-12 Throughout the twentieth century local control of school districts was one of the most contentious issues in American politics As state and federal regulation attempted to standardize public schools conservatives defended local prerogative as a bulwark of democratic values Yet their commitment to those values was shifting and selective In The Fight for Local Control Campbell F Scribner demonstrates how in the decades after World War II suburban communities appropriated legacies of rural education to assert their political autonomy and in the process radically changed educational law Scribner s account unfolds on the metropolitan fringe where rapid suburbanization overlapped with the consolidation of thousands of small rural schools Rural residents initially clashed with their new neighbors but by the 1960s the groups had rallied to resist government oversight What began as residual opposition to school consolidation would transform into campaigns against race based busing unionized teachers tax equalization and secular curriculum In case after case suburban conservatives carved out new rights for local autonomy stifling equal educational opportunity Yet Scribner also provides insight into why many conservatives have since abandoned localism for policies that stress school choice and federal accountability In the 1970s as new battles arose over unions textbooks and taxes districts on the rural suburban fringe became the first to assert individual choice in the form of school vouchers religious exemptions and a marketplace model of education At the same time they began to embrace tax limitation and standardized testing policies that checked educational bureaucracy but bypassed local school boards The effect Scribner concludes has been to reinforce inequalities between districts while weakening participatory government within them keeping the worst aspects of local control in place while forfeiting its virtues Tourism Governance Bill Bramwell,Bernard Lane,2013-12-16 The role of governance has only recently begun to be researched and discussed in order to better understand tourism policy making and planning and tourism development Governance encompasses the many ways in which societies and industries are governed given permission or assistance or steered by government and numerous other actors including the private sector NGOs and communities This book explains and evaluates critical perspectives on the governance of tourism examining these in the context of tourism and sustainable development Governance processes fundamentally affect whether and how progress is made toward securing the economic socio cultural and environmental goals of sustainable development The critical perspectives on tourism governance examined here challenge and re conceptualise established ideas in tourism policy and planning as well as engage with theoretical frameworks from other social science fields The contributors assess theoretical frameworks that help explain the governance of tourism and sustainability They also explore tourism governance at national regional and local scales and the relations between them They assess issues of power and politics in policy making and planning and they consider changing governance relationships over time and the associated potential for social learning The collection brings insights from leading researchers and examines important new theoretical frameworks for tourism research This book was originally published as a special issue of Journal of Sustainable Tourism food studies has been growing rapidly over the last thirty years and has exploded since the turn of the millennium. Scholars from an array of disciplines have trained fresh theoretical and methodological approaches onto new dimensions of the human relationship to food. This anthology capitalizes on this particular cultural moment to bring to the fore recent scholarship that focuses on innovative ways people are recasting food in public spaces to challenge hegemonic practices and meanings. Organized into five interrelated sections on food production, consumption, performance, Diasporas, and activism, articles aim to provide new perspectives on the changing meanings and uses of food in the twenty-first century.

Transformation of Resource Towns and Peripheries Greg Halseth, 2016-07-01. Most developed economies including single industry and resource-dependent rural or small town regions are transforming rapidly as a result of social, political, and economic change. Collectively, they face a number of challenges as well as new opportunities. This international collaboration describes a critical political economy framework that will be useful for understanding these transitions. Transformation of Resource Towns and Peripheries describes the multi-faceted process of transition and change in resource-dependent rural and small town regions since the end of the Second World War. The book incorporates international case studies from Australia, Canada, Finland, and New Zealand with the express purpose of highlighting similarities and differences in patterns and practices in each country. Chapters explore three main themes: how corporate ties and trade linkages are changing and impacting rural communities and regions; how resource industry employment is changing in these small communities; and how local community capacity and leadership are working to mitigate challenges and take advantage of new opportunities. This book will be of interest to students of regional studies, geography, and rural and industrial sociology. It will also have a strong appeal to policy makers and local regional development practitioners.

Encyclopedia of Organic, Sustainable, and Local Food Leslie A. Duram, 2009-11-12. A comprehensive compilation of entries illuminates the key trends, activities, and themes in organic, sustainable, and local food, covering consumers, organizations, farming, policies, and much more. The Encyclopedia of Organic, Sustainable, and Local Food pulls together a fascinating array of diverse interdisciplinary topics to provide a thorough overview of our current alternative food system. With increasing attention focused on organic and local food, many people are attracted to these sustainable food choices. Yet despite its popularity, there are misconceptions and a general lack of understanding about organic and local food. This encyclopedia illuminates social concerns, economic trends, policy influences, and ecological terms to provide a comprehensive overview. Contributions from expert authors from government agencies, research universities, and private organizations provide key information on each of these relevant topics. Eating is a basic human activity, yet many people do not know where their food comes from. This book helps readers fill the gap between the trendy and the factual.

Beyond the Global City Gordon Nelson, 2012-05-08. Policies promoting Toronto as a global city and provincial economic engine have been seen as beneficial to the development of all of Ontario, yet much of the province has borne significant environmental, social, economic, and political costs as a result of one city's growth. Contributors to this volume call for a radical re imagining of public policy at local provincial and federal levels that accounts for Ontario s overlooked regions Beyond the Global City presents a kaleidoscopic view of the province the rich fields and small towns of the southwest the productive agricultural lands of rural Huron County historic Kingston and the Upper St Lawrence the social and cultural diversity of the Ottawa valley the near mythical woodlands and waters of Muskoka and Georgian Bay and the heavily exploited coasts and waters of the Great Lakes to provide a deeper understanding of its various communities In a series of regional studies contributors describe each area s distinctive qualities and challenges and offer recommendations about what is needed to move them forward in a more equitable and sustainable way Two initial historical chapters lay the framework for the regional discussions while cross cutting and integrated chapters analyze the state of natural and cultural heritage and current development theory provincially offering guidance for the future
