Transformation Towards Sustainable Agri-Food Systems

NASC Complex, New Delhi, India | August 2-7, 2024

Co-Organizers:

The Call for Transformation

The time is ripe for change! Our current agri-food systems are facing immense challenges. Let's address the urgent need to make them more sustainable. Chronic hunger and undernutrition persist, exacerbated by various ongoing crises. Paradoxically, many of those most affected by the lack of access to nutritious diets are small-scale farmers. Simultaneously, the rise of obesity and related chronic ailments is concerning. The global disease burden is heavily impacted by malnutrition in its various forms. Furthermore, our agri-food systems contribute significantly to pressing environmental issues such as climate change, biodiversity loss, and resource depletion.

Join Us at ICAE 2024: Shaping the Future of Sustainable Agri-Food Systems!

Prepare for a groundbreaking journey towards a more sustainable tomorrow as India proudly hosts the 32nd International Conference of Agricultural Economists (ICAE). In this prestigious triennial event of the International Association of Agricultural Economists (IAAE) we explore the vital role of agricultural economics in tackling our world's most pressing challenges.

Rural Change The Challenge For Agricultural Economists Proceedings Seventeenth International Conference Of Agricultural:

Rural Change International Association of Agricultural Economists,1981 Rural Development Robert Chambers,2014-05-12 Rural poverty is often unseen or misperceived by outsiders Dr Chambers contends that researchers scientists administrators and fieldworkers rarely appreciate the richness and validity of rural people s knowledge or the hidden nature of rural poverty This is a challenging book for all concerned with rural development as practitioners academics students or researchers World Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology Abstracts ,1999 The Economics of Tropical Farming Systems Martin Upton,1996-12-12 Clear student text on theory and practice of economic decision making in tropical agriculture Rural Change International Association of Agricultural Economists,University of Oxford. Institute of Agricultural Economics,1981 Micro Subnational National Supra national Multi national parastatal and state trading agencies Disciplinary level Proceedings ,1986 The Food Revolution In The Soviet Union And Eastern Europe Robert Deutsch,2019-07-11 The first study in the Western world to compare the relationship between food and politics in the countries of Eastern Europe this book views the current food revolution as part of the modernization process Robert Deutsch argues that the communist leaders in the Comecon countries increasingly link political stability and preservation of power to the problem of satisfying consumer demand He also assesses the various social forces that have brought about the food revolution The most important is the expanded working class which is no longer willing to defer consumer demands to a hypothetical communist future The CMEA countries thus face the dilemma of either gradually liberalizing their economies in order to meet growing consumer demands or resorting to repression Neither of these options promises a long term solution for implementing economic policies prescribed by Marxist Leninist doctrine Robert Deutsch presents case studies of Hungary Bulgaria and the German Democratic Republic as examples of the relative success of economic reforms To a greater or lesser extent these countries have opted for economic decentralization by liberalizing private ownership and pricing policy and by integrating planning with market oriented concepts The author compares this with the economic problems of the Soviet Union Poland Romania and Czechoslovakia The study is enhanced by an exhaustive bibliography arranged topically and drawn from the specialized literature in several languages Farm Management In Peasant Agriculture Michael Collinson,2019-03-04 First published in 1972 Farm Management in Peasant Agriculture remains the only detailed discussion of on site research techniques for economists working on the development of small holder agriculture in Africa Part 1 describes the conditions of the agricultural sector within which the African peasant farmer must operate and then outlines an approach to farm management tailored to those conditions Part 2 sets out the research planning and investigation tasks implied by the approach Survey techniques as well as the value of a pre survey for understanding general attributes of a farm system are reviewed and alternative data collection methods are elaborated Part

3 shows how research data can be used in planning content for extension programs Dr Collinson concludes with the details of a planning method that interpolates changes in farm practice into a model of the existing farm system and that projects a sequence of changes representing a sequence of extension content on the basis of farmer acceptability

Agriculture in a Turbulent World Economy Allen Maunder, Ulf Renborg, 1986 The privatization and self-management of irrigation. Final report submitted to the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Technische Zusammenarbeit (GTZ) GmbH by IIMI, The Common Agricultural Policy of the European Community International Monetary Fund, 1988-11-25 This chapter discusses principles and consequences of the common agricultural policy CAP of the European Community EC It shows that agricultural pricing policies aimed at supporting farm incomes were already in place in EC member countries before the inception of the CAP indeed in the presence of these policies the CAP was a logical consequence of the extension of the common market to the agricultural sector Thus the flaws of the CAP can be traced back to national policies and attitudes toward agriculture Recognition of the burden of agricultural support on the rest of the economy as well as the growing budgetary costs has elicited a greater public interest in the CAP Equally the trade frictions caused by export subsidies have underlined the CAP's international implications For these reasons the member states appear more determined than hitherto to bring agricultural expenditure under control Given the wider effects of the CAP both on EC economies and the international community it is to be hoped that current efforts at reform will be successful

Participatory Research and Gender Analysis Nina Lilja, John Dixon, Deborah Eade, 2013-09-13 Agricultural development research aims to generate new knowledge or to retrieve and apply existing forms of knowledge in ways that can be used to improve the welfare of people who are living in poverty or are otherwise excluded for instance by gender based discrimination Its effective application therefore requires ongoing dialogue with and the strong engagement of men and women from poor marginal farming communities This book discusses opportunities afforded by effective knowledge pathways linking researchers and farmers underpinned by participatory research and gender analysis It sets out practices and debates in gender sensitive participatory research and technology development concentrating on the empirical issues of implementation impact assessment and institutionalisation of approaches for the wider development and research community It includes six full length chapters and eight brief practical notes and is enhanced by an annotated resources list of relevant publications organisations and websites adding to the portfolio of approaches and tools discussed by the contributors Most of the 33 contributing authors work in the specialised agencies that form part of the Consultative Group on International Agricultural Research CGIAR This book was published as a special issue of Development in Practice Rural Development, 1981

,1985 Economic growth, convergence and agricultural economics Will Martin,2019-11-26 After nearly two centuries of lagging behind the industrial countries growth in many developing countries has surged since the early 1990s This outperformance has major implications for almost all areas of agricultural economics and if continued will likely do so into the future This paper aims to identify the key ways in which the changes in rich and poor country growth rates matter for agricultural economists as a basis for formulating better research agendas A key impact arises through sharp increases in demand for agricultural resources as demand for livestock products increases This changing structure of food demand has important implications for nutrition studies and policies with the emergence of a double burden of malnutrition On the supply side growth in developing countries tends to increase domestic food supply which is also boosted by increases in research and development spending Growth in developing countries both stimulates and benefits from increases in infrastructure investment evaluation of which requires new analytical tools discussed at this conference Negative impacts include the contribution of increased demand for livestock products to global greenhouse gas emissions In terms of trade policy developing country growth is tending to lead to convergence of agricultural policies with the pattern of assistance seen in today s developed countries raising concerns about the future need to deal with collective action problems particularly those that increase the volatility of world prices Agricultural Economics Research ,1981 Journal of Economic
