Russia And The Mediterranean 1797 1807:

Russia and the Mediterranean, 1797-1807 Norman E. Saul, 1970-01-01 The Modernisation of Russia, 1676-1825 Simon Dixon, 1999-07-29 This is the first book to place Russia's long eighteenth century squarely in its European context. The conceptual framework is set out in an opening critique of modernisation which while rejecting its linear implications maintains its focus on the relationship between government, economy and society. Following a chronological introduction, a series of thematic chapters covering topics such as finance and taxation, society, government and politics, culture, ideology and economy emphasise the ways in which Russia's international ambitions as an emerging great power provoked administrative and fiscal reforms with wide-ranging and often unanticipated social consequences. This thematic analysis allows Simon Dixon to demonstrate that the more the tsars tried to modernise their state, the more backward their empire became. A chronology and critical bibliography are also provided to allow students to discover more about this colourful period of Russian history.

Russia and the Mediterranean, 1797-1807 Norman Eugene Saul, 1977 Russia and Iran, 1780-1828 Muriel Atkin, 1980-05-01 Russia and Iran 1780-1828 was first published in 1980. Minnesota Archive Editions uses digital technology to make long unavailable books once again accessible and are published unaltered from the original. University of Minnesota Press editions. Modern Russo-Iranian relations date from the late eighteenth century when, after several centuries of commercial and diplomatic contact, the two nations entered a period of extended warfare for possession of the Caucasian borderlands, disputed territory that eventually fell to Russia. In her history of that struggle, Muriel Atkin reassesses the motives of major figures on both sides and views the Iranians with more sympathy than Western and Russian historians have usually accorded them. Russia embarked on her course in the Caucasus for reasons connected with defense or trade and with a long-term imperial goal based on uncritical acceptance of prevailing European doctrines of empire. The new dynasty in Iran, on the other hand, had to fend off Russian attack and secure the borderlands in order to justify its basic claim to power. In the end, the wars brought major disruption to the already unstable borderlands and left Iran with a discredited government and a controversy over reforms and relations with the West that would continue to cause turmoil in subsequent generations.

Russia in the Age of Reaction and Reform 1801-1881 David Saunders, 2014-07-30 This eagerly awaited study of Russia under Alexander I, Nicholas I and Alexander II, the Russia of War and Peace and Anna Karenina brings the series near to completion. David Saunders examines Russia's failure to adapt to the era of reform and democracy ushered into the rest of Europe by the French Revolution. Why, despite so much effort, did it fail? This is a superb book, both as a portrait of an age and as a piece of sustained historical analysis. Russia and the Making of Modern Greek Identity, 1821-1844 Lucien J. Frary, 2015 Explores how Russian politics and religion were instrumental in the shaping of modern Greece, providing a broad understanding of nineteenth-century Russian foreign policy and religious enterprise and the relationship between religion, nationalism and state building. Longman Companion to Imperial Russia, 1689-1917 David Longley, 2014-07-30 This is the Wren, Taylor Stults, 2009-01-08 Now in its fifth edition this definitive history of the Russian land and people builds on its success as a fascinating survey of two thousand years of struggle to harness vast resources and talents into a powerful and cohesive nation From its beginning as a savage and exotic land Russia underwent a complex evolution of political social and religious forces the barbarism of its internal conflicts in seeming contradiction with its goals to advance in the realms of technology art education and high culture From the conflicts of the fantastically wealthy ruling class to the poor and oppressed masses emerged the Communist party and the enigmatic figures whose charismatic manipulation of political power reflected the myriad rulers before them Finally as the modern world watched this great entity collapsed in a devastatingly brief time millennia of precarious conflict proving too much for the tenuous coalescence of twentieth century politics Written in an engaging and accessible style this text presents students with a comprehensive look at the momentous events and legendary figures which helped shape Russia's turbulent history The 17th and 18th Centuries Frank N. Haas, 2018-09-05 How do leaders perceive threat levels in world politics and what effects do those perceptions have on policy choices Mark L Haas focuses on how ideology shapes perception He does not delineate the content of particular ideologies but rather the degree of difference among them Degree of ideological difference is he believes the crucial factor as leaders decide which nations threaten and which bolster their state's security and their own domestic power These threat perceptions will in turn impel leaders to make particular foreign policy choices Haas examines great power relations in five periods the 1790s in Europe the Concert of Europe 1815 1848 the 1930s in Europe Sino Soviet relations from 1949 to 1960 and the end of the Cold War In each case he finds a clear relationship between the degree of ideological differences that divided state leaders and those leaders' perceptions of threat level and so of appropriate foreign policy choices These relationships held in most cases regardless of the nature of the ideologies in question the offense defense balance and changes in the international distribution of power English/British Naval History to 1815 Eugene L.
