Moatez Jomni British Paralympian Matt Jardine martial arts teacher and entrepreneur has spent 20 years seeking the answer to one of life's ultimate conundrums: how can we lead an authentic spiritual and creative life in a relentlessly money-centric world? In this insightful book he brings together Buddhist teachings, spiritual lessons, and the advice and experience of a variety of experts and professionals from a Paralympic athlete to a West End musical star to a city banker and presents nine practical lessons to help us all discover our passion and make it pay. With a light touch he dispels the deep-rooted fears and limiting beliefs that hold us back and forces us to question the very foundations of our lives and what really matters. How to be a Buddhist Millionaire teaches us that money doesn't have to be a dirty word and that if you search for happiness rather than the pot of gold, success is more likely to follow.

Ritual Healing in Suburban America Meredith B. McGuire, Debra Kantor, 1988 Many Americans believe that people who practice folk healing are uneducated and too poor to afford conventional medical care. Contrary to this popular belief, Meredith McGuire finds that a large number of college-educated middle-class suburbanites participate in a variety of nonmedical healing groups. In suburban New Jersey, people practice such diverse alternatives as psychic healing, New Age therapies, naturopathy, Christian Science, Transcendental Meditation, reflexology, acupuncture, yoga, Jain meditation, Therapeutic Touch, reflexology, shiatsu, rebirthing, and occult therapies. McGuire places these various healing groups into broader categories according to their traditional sources of inspiration and their beliefs about healing power. She then looks at the participants' diverse ideas about health and illness. By locating alternative healing in the context of these beliefs, she shows the many ways the adherents experience ritual healing. From publisher's description
