Naval Aviation News, 1999-11. General Naval Tactics Milan Vego, 2020-10-15. In General Naval Tactics, Naval War College professor and renowned tactical expert Milan Vego describes and explains those aspects of naval tactics most closely related to the human factor. Specifically, he explains in some detail the objectives and methods, elements of tactical employment of naval forces, command and control, combat support, tactical design, decision making and planning, execution, leadership, doctrine and training. Vego derives certain commonalities of naval tactics that occurred in recent and distant wars at sea. Many parts of his theoretical constructs are based on works of a number of well known and influential naval theoreticians such as Admirals Alfred T. Mahan, Bradley A. Fiske, Raoul Castex and René Daveluy and influential naval theoreticians. Whenever possible, the author illustrates each aspect of theory by carefully selected examples from naval history, making the theory more understandable and interesting. Vego aims to present theory that is general in nature and therefore more durable in its validity. The more general the theory, the greater the possibility of accommodating changes based on new interpretations of past events and as a result of gaining fresh insight from the lessons learned.

The Logistics of the 101st Airborne Division in the First Gulf War David M. Ogan, 2009-12-15. The historiography of the First Gulf War does not examine logistics at the divisional level; rather, only high echelon logistics (those at the Corps and Theater level) are covered. This leaves a significant gap in how the upper echelon logistics affected the combat units of the coalition. This case study seeks to rectify this gap by examining historical logistics from World War II to the Gulf War and the logistics of the First Gulf War as a whole and subsequently placing the specific logistics of the 101st in the correct context.
