A Bridge of Ships James Pritchard, 2011-05-20 In A Bridge of Ships James Pritchard tells the story of the rapidly changing circumstances and forceful personalities that shaped government shipbuilding policy. He examines the ownership and expansion of the shipyards and the role of ship repairing as well as recruitment and training of the labour force. He also tells the story of the struggle for steel and the expansion of ancillary industries. Pritchard provides a definitive picture of Canada's wartime ship production, assesses the cost more than 1.2 billion and explains why such an enormous effort left such a short-lived legacy. The story of Canada's shipbuilding industry is as astonishing as that of the nation's wartime navy. The personnel of both expanded more than fifty times yet the history of wartime shipbuilding remains virtually unknown. With the disappearance of the Canadian shipbuilding industry from both the land and memory it is time to recall and assess its contribution to Allied victory.

Bureau of Naval Personnel, 1920 RCN in Retrospect, 1910-1968 James A. Boutilier, 2011-11-01 This tribute to a proud service surveys the history of the Royal Canadian Navy from its inception in 1910 to its demise in 1968. Although established as a declaration of Canada's independence from the imperial fleet, the RCN was the child of the Royal Navy. Its first ships were RN cast-offs and for the next forty years officers trained in the British fleet. Their big ship time. From these modest beginnings the book deals with such related issues as the problem of imperial defense, the development of a naval service with a Canadian identity and the evolution of a Canadian naval engineering capacity. Expanding dramatically during World War II, the RCN gave convoy protection which proved crucial to the Allied victory at sea. New documentation on Canada's role in the Battle of the Atlantic highlights such critical factors as the contribution of radio intelligence to anti-submarine warfare against the deadly German wolfpacks, the wartime operational relationship of the RCN to the Royal Navy and the United States Navy and the heroic role of Canadian sailors who served under fire. Demobilization and the paying off of ships marked the postwar decline of the RCN. This decline was intensified by a series of mutinies which demonstrated the need for a less rigid, more democratic relationship between officers and ratings. Despite these difficulties, the RCN served effectively in coastal operations during the Korean War and in the establishment of Canada's presence in the Arctic The last chapter records the reaction of the RCN's senior officers to government policy during the Unification Crisis of the 1960s and their unsuccessful attempts to maintain the independent identity of the RCN It is ironic that on the eve of achieving its greatest measure of autonomy the RCN was overwhelmed by the forces of nationalism the same force which had acted as a catalyst in its formation Originally presented in 1980 at a conference on the history of the RCN the papers in this book range from the first hand recollections of ex RCN personnel to the examination of previously classified documents from German and Allied archives The RCN in Retrospect will serve to introduce many to Canada's naval heritage and will provide valuable new insights to all readers with an interest in naval history and lore Technical Abstract Bulletin , Register of the Commissioned and Warrant Officers of the United States Navy and Marine Corps ,1919 The History of Canada Series: War in the St. Lawrence Roger Sarty,2012-04-17

From 1942 to 1944 15 German submarines destroyed or severely damaged 27 ships including three Canadian warships a U S Army troop transport and the Newfoundland ferry Caribou More than 250 lives were lost It was the only battle of the twentieth century to take place within Canada's boundaries and the only battle to be fought almost exclusively by Canadian forces under Canadian rather than alliance high command And for more than 40 years the battle was characterized as a Canadian defeat But was it a defeat Drawing on new material from wartime records including ultra top secret Allied decryptions of German naval radio communications Roger Sarty shows that Canada mounted a successful defence with far fewer resources and in the face of much greater challenges than previously known He draws vivid pictures of the intense combat on Canada's shores and the interplay of the St Lawrence battle with war politics in Ottawa Washington and London At the same time he weaves a second story how researchers reassembled the scattered war records in Canada Britain the United States and Germany and brought the long forgotten battle to life for new generations of Canadians and international audiences Register of the Commission and Warrant Officers of the Navy of the United States, Including Officers of the Marine Corps ,1919 Register of the Commissioned and Warrant Officers of the United States Navy and Marine Corps United States.
