Druett,2007-06-08 Riveting The New York Times Book Review Hundreds of miles from civilization two ships wreck on opposite ends of the same deserted island in this true story of human nature at its best and at its worst It is 1864 and Captain Thomas Musgrave's schooner the Grafton has just wrecked on Auckland Island a forbidding piece of land 285 miles south of New Zealand Battered by year round freezing rain and constant winds it is one of the most inhospitable places on earth To be shipwrecked there means almost certain death Incredibly at the same time on the opposite end of the island another ship runs aground during a storm Separated by only twenty miles and the island's treacherous impassable cliffs the crews of the Grafton and the Invercauld face the same fate And yet where the Invercauld's crew turns inward on itself fighting starving and even turning to cannibalism Musgrave's crew bands together to build a cabin and a forge and eventually to find a way to escape Using the survivors journals and historical records award winning maritime historian Joan Druett brings to life this extraordinary untold story about leadership and the fine line between order and chaos Narrative of a Voyage to the South Seas, and the Shipwreck of the Princess of Wales Cutter, with an Account of a Two Years' Residence on an Uninhabited Island Charles Medyett Goodridge,1838 The Shipwreck, Or the Desert Island. Island of the Lost Joan Druett,2007 In January of 1864 five sailors from the wrecked schooner Grafton are stranded on remote and icy Auckland Island some three hundred miles from New Zealand An isolated speck in the Southern ocean it is a godforsaken place with winds howling at sixty miles an hour rain three hundred days a year and an almost impenetrable coastal forest Under the leadership of Captain Thomas Musgrave these men defy their slim chance of survival They build a cabin and incredibly a forge where they manufacture every single nail as well as most of their tools Miraculously all the Grafton men survive for nearly two years before finally building a getaway vessel and setting off on one of the most courageous sea voyages ever Meanwhile on the opposite end of the same island twenty miles of impassable cliffs and chasms away the ship Invercauld wrecks during a horrible gale in May 1864 Nineteen men struggle ashore They eventually succumb to utter anarchy and only three survive Using the survivors journals award winning maritime historian Joan Druett tells a gripping cautionary tale about leadership endurance and the fine line between order and chaos Publisher before another and when I reached our boat was glad to avail myself of what provision my companions had prepared for me and of what rest I could obtain During my absence the remainder of the party had brought the oars spars and other things from the opposite side of the haul over and deposited them near the boat to be in readiness when we next launched her Here we remained some days detained as usual by stress of weather and violent winds which prevented our crossing the bay but as soon as the wind abated and the atmosphere became more settled and favourable we dismantled our hut launched the boat and putting some additional spars found upon the shore into it in conjunction with those we formerly had we pulled across the bay and landed on the opposite side between Captain Matley s Island and the Bluffs which were more to the eastward Here we again hauled our boat up and built her into a hut rj usual intending to use this as our night station for a time until we had removed our building materials to Long Point where we had determined upon erecting our house After a day or two of rest we proceeded with our work which now consisted in carrying the spars c to their destination and in doing this we had to travel along the series of stony
