Historic Shipwrecks of the Southern Gulf Islands of British Columbia Jacques Marc, Warren Oliver Bush, British Columbia's rugged Southern Gulf Islands enticed many pioneers explorers colonists miners and adventurers in the mid 19th century Fog wind strong currents and the lack of aids to navigation made navigating these striking and treacherous islands a hazardous business Many vessels and seafarers did not survive their intended voyages and their forgotten remains now litter the sea floor visited only by intrepid divers searching for clues to the past As one reads this book stories will unfold which remind us that not so long ago travelling by ship along the British Columbia coast would have challenged even the most seasoned mariner and that danger lurked below the water's surface Historic Shipwrecks of the Southern Gulf Islands of British Columbia is a compilation of 14 stories about Shipwrecks throughout those islands This book not only follows the history of each vessel and their loss but also describes for the lay person what divers will see when they dive on the sites today This book is a must have for those with an interest in British Columbia's maritime history It is one of a series of shipwreck publications produced by the Underwater Archaeological Society of British Columbia to make the province's submerged cultural history accessible to everyone

Shipwrecks Off Juan de Fuca James A. Ancient Ocean Crossings Stephen C. Jett, 2017-06-06 Paints a compelling picture of impressive pre-Columbian cultures and Old World civilizations that contrary to many prevailing notions were not isolated from one another In Ancient Ocean Crossings: Reconsidering the Case for Contacts with the Pre-Columbian Americas Stephen Jett encourages readers to reevaluate the common belief that there was no significant interchange between the chiefdoms and civilizations of Eurasia and Africa and peoples who occupied the alleged terra incognita beyond the great oceans More than a hundred centuries separate the time that Ice Age hunters are conventionally thought to have crossed a land bridge from Asia into North America and the arrival of Columbus in the Bahamas in 1492 Traditional belief has long held that earth's two hemispheres were essentially cut off from one another as a result of the post-Pleistocene meltwater-fed rising oceans that covered that bridge The oceans along with arctic climates and daunting terrestrial distances formed impermeable barriers to interhemispheric communication This viewpoint implies that the cultures of the Old World and those of the Americas developed independently Drawing on abundant and concrete evidence to support his theory for significant pre-Columbian contacts Jett suggests that many ancient peoples had both the seafaring capabilities and the motives to cross the oceans and in fact did so repeatedly and with great impact His deep and broad work synthesizes information and ideas from archaeology geography linguistics climatology oceanography ethnobotany genetics medicine and the history of navigation and seafaring making an innovative and persuasive multidisciplinary case for a new understanding of human societies and their diffuse but interconnected development

International Handbook of Underwater Archaeology Carol V. Ruppe, Jane F. Barstad, 2013-11-11 Although underwater archaeology has assumed its rightful place as an important subdiscipline in the field the published literature has not kept pace with the rapid increase in the number of both prehistoric and historic underwater sites The editors have assembled an internationally distinguished roster of contributors to fill this gap In addition to both geographical and topical approaches the chapters also focus on technology law public and private institutional roles and goals and the research and development of future technologies and public programs

Don't Never Tell Nobody Nothin' No How Rick James, 2018-10-13 We operated perfectly legally We considered ourselves philanthropists We supplied good liquor to poor thirsty Americans and brought prosperity back to the Harbour of Vancouver Captain Charles Hudson At the stroke of one minute past midnight January 17 1920 the National Prohibition Act was officially declared in effect in the United States From 1920 to 1933 the manufacture sale importation and transportation of alcohol and of course the imbibing of such products was illegal Prohibition was already a bust in Canada and it wasn't long before fleets of vessels from weather-beaten old fish boats to large ocean going steamers began filling their holds with liquor to deliver their much valued cargo to their thirsty neighbours to the south Contrary to popular perception rum running along the Pacific coast wasn't dominated by violent encounters like those portrayed in the movies Instead it was usually carried out in a relatively civilized manner with an oh so Canadian politeness on the British Columbian side Most operated within the law But there were indeed shootouts hijackings and even a particularly gruesome murder associated with the business Using first hand accounts of old time rum runners extensive research using primary and secondary documentation and the often sensational newspaper coverage of the day Don't Never Tell Nobody Nothin' No How sets out to explain what really went down along the West Coast during the American Noble Experiment

Lighthouses and Lifesaving on Washington's Outer Coast William S. Hanable, Washington's storm ridden outer coast stretches from Cape Disappointment at the mouth of the Columbia River to Cape Flattery at the entrance to the Strait of Juan de Fuca a distance of about 150 miles Historians have labeled these waters the Graveyard of the Pacific and the Unforgiving Coast Despite their hazards sea routes to and from and along the coast have been busy Maritime fur traders and explorers warships Gold Rush shipping passenger vessels lumber carriers break bulk freighters container ships and tankers have plied these waters Concurrently fisheries developed along the coast adding to the number of vessels at risk To assist mariners sailing these waters the United States built its first lighthouse on the Washington coast at Cape Disappointment in 1856 Additional lighthouses lightships and lifesaving stations soon followed With more than 180 images from archives throughout the Pacific Northwest this collection documents their history

Voyages in the Waterway of Forgotten Dreams Barry Gough, 2015-06-15 The tale begins in sixteenth century Venice when explorer Juan de Fuca encountered English merchant Michael Lok and relayed a fantastic story of a marine passageway that connected the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans This tale would be the catalyst for centuries of dreaming and exacerbate English and Spanish rivalry The search for the fabled Northwest Passage inspired explorers to seek out fame adventure knowledge and riches Likewise the empires of Spain and Great Britain were impelled by the hopes of finding a naval trade route that would connect Europe to Asia thus securing their dominance over the other as an economic power The story of the Northwest Passage is one of significant figures and great empires jostling for a distant corner of North America Gough provides meticulously researched insight delving into diplomatic records narratives of explorers and commercial aspirants legal affidavits and court records to illuminate the journeys of Martin Frobisher James Cook Francis Drake Manuel Quimper Jos Mar a Narvez George Vancouver and Juan Francisco de la Bodega y Quadra among others A sea venture tied up with piracy political loyalty and betrayal all bound up in a web of international intrigue Juan de Fuca's Strait is an indispensable contribution to the history of discovery on the Northwest Coast
